Springs Buses Still Run; New Strike Deadline Seen

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

The buses are running in Colorado Springs, but for how long, no one seems to know.

Union representatives said a strike probably would be called if today's meetings didn't end in agreement.

A company official said that it would be cheaper for the bus company to have a strike called than to operate on the "on again, off-again" strike notice.

At any rate, the strike scheduled to begin at midnight Sunday was called off just 12 hours before it was to begin.

Federal Mediator Sherman Hodges of Denver requested the meeting in an effort to avert the scheduled walk-out which would have left hundreds of residents without transportation today.

"We have not set another strike deadline," C. M. Shaw International vice president of the bus drivers union said this morning. "We will have to wait and see the results of today's meeting."

Shaw again declined to elaborate on his statement of last week that the union had reduced its demands from the original 18-cents an hour it asked for. He declined to say that the union would further reduce its demands.

"We will go into the meeting with an open mind," he said. "I can't say we will further reduce our requests."

David W. Cowen, vice president and general manager of the Colorado Springs Transit Co. said that the union had never actually stated a figure it would accept.

"They never reached any definite point," he said. "They talked about coming down but never gave a figure."

North Africans Renew Battle in Sahara Sands

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Morocco urged the Organization of African Unity today to meet quickly, after reporting Moroccan forces beat back several thousand Algerians in a new frontier battle.

Morocco bolstered army patrols along the northern border near Figuig, a Moroccan oasis that was the center of Sunday's battle.

King Hassan's government announced it intended to abide by the cease-fire worked out in Mali last week. Two officers from Mali were expected at Figuig sometime today to try to keep the peace.

Dispatches from Algiers said Mali officers already were at the frontier on the Algerian side

Accident Report Put in Doubt by Boulder Ruling

The invalidation of a Boulder traffic ordinance requiring the immediate report of automobile accidents has put in doubt the validity of similar ordinances in other Colorado cities, according to the Rocky Mountain AAA Club.

In setting aside the Boulder ordinance last week, Boulder County Judge Horace B. Holmes said that the reporting of traffic accidents is a matter of statewide concern which is covered by state statute. The law gives motorists 24 hours to report an accident.

The AAA club said that Judge Holmes' ruling is a major victory for the cause of uniformity in traffic regulation. Motorists have long been plagued, contended the auto club, by municipal traffic ordinances that conflict with state laws.

Altho the Boulder county court's ruling applies specifically to the Boulder city ordinance, the AAA club contended that by implication the ruling applies to all other Colorado cities with ordinances requiring motorists to make immediate reports of automobile accidents.

The city of Boulder has announced its intention of appealing the ruling to the Colorado Supreme Court.

Favoring the state law over the Boulder-type ordinance, the AAA club said that Judge Holmes' ruling backs up a club stand that motorists involved in minor traffic accidents need not call the police to the scene of the accident.

Red Cosmonauts Enter Orbit of Wedded Bliss

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP)—Cosmonauts Valentina Tereshkova, 26, and Andrian Nikolayev, 34, were in a new kind of orbit today—wedded bliss.

They were married in a glittering wedding Sunday. Soviet chiefs used the occasion to drop hints the world's first cosmic couple may be going back into orbit around the earth.

Premier Khrushchev introduced each of 21 toasts at the reception, attended by 300 guests including the Soviet Union's political, military, scientific, theatrical and literary great, and the other cosmonauts.

Russians Again Stop U.S. Convoy En Route to Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — The Soviets today blocked passage of a U. S. Army convoy bound for Berlin in a new harassment on the vital highway link connecting the isolated city with the West.

The Russians not only held up the convoy of 44 men in 12 vehicles but asserted they had the right to determine how convoys would be processed.

The convoy was stopped at 9 a.m. (3 a.m., EST). It still was held at 1:30 p.m. (7:30 a.m., EST), an Army spokesman said.

Today's incident strengthened the belief held by Western officials here that last month's holdup of American and British convoys was not the miscalculation of subordinate Russian officers as Washington officials said it was.

As last month, the convoy was refused passage today be-

11 Persons Die As Car Plunges Into River

NEW YORK (AP)—An automobile jammed with 12 adults and children went past warning lights blacked out by vandals and plunged into the Harlem River in the early morning dark Sunday. Only one person survived.

The 11 deaths equaled the state record for a single accident.

Police said vandals had ripped bulbs and wiring from blinking red lights at the end of Lincoln Avenue, the Bronx, where the car went into the river. Only a foot-high timber railing separates the road's end from the water.

The lone survivor, I. Martinez, 40, whose wife and two children died apparently was thrown from the car as it somersaulted into the 40-foot-deep river. He swam to shore and made his way to a bar, from which police were called.

Among the dead were four children, aged one, three, four and nine.

The christening party was at the Bronx home of Rabindranatt Berrios, a barber, who said one man refused to get into the car because it was so crowded.

"I begged them—there were too many people—to go in a second car I could get for them," he said. "They insisted they could manage it."

Police said the Harlem River warning lights apparently had been ripped out of the 10-foot-high stanchion some time ago. They said they had received no complaint that the lights were out.

Politicians Keep Close Tab on Straws in Wind

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of both political parties will keep close tabs on the scattered straws in the wind stirred up in Tuesday's elections.

Of major interest to Democrats: What, if any, is the extent of the so-called "backlash" of white resentment to Negro civil rights demands and activities in major Northern cities?

Republican leaders will be scanning the slim results to see what, if any, improvement the party has made in Dixie and the big cities.

At stake are the governorships of Kentucky and Mississippi; the mayor's office in such cities as Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, Memphis and Salt Lake City; hundreds of other municipal and state offices; and the state legislatures of New Jersey, Virginia, Kentucky and Mississippi.

Much of the attention will be focused on Philadelphia where Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate seeks election to a full four-year term against Republican attorney James T. McDermott.

The city has been the scene of violence and unrest this year stemming from efforts of Negroes to win better jobs, housing and schools.

Both candidates picture themselves as liberal on racial issues.

President Kennedy carried Philadelphia by a whopping 331,000 in 1960. Most Republican leaders believe it was his showing in the large Northern cities that cost them the White House that year. They have made determined efforts since to beef

Heat of Earth's Interior May Produce Electricity

By JOHN KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional committees have become intrigued with the idea of harnessing heat from the earth's fiery interior for the production of electric energy.

Hearings have been held, and more are planned, on bills to permit the leasing of federal lands in the west for commercial production of geothermal (which means earth-heat) power.

Some senators and representatives believe that some day there will be substantial generation of electricity by turbines driven with steam produced from the heating of water by volcanic rock deep in the earth.

A Senate Interior subcommittee has held two hearings and plans a third on a bill sponsored by Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev.

A House Interior subcommittee conducted a hearing on a companion measure sponsored by its chairman, Rep. Walter S. Baring, D-Nev., who is inspecting geothermal operations abroad.

Reps. Compton I. White Jr., D-Idaho, and Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah, accompanied Baring on the tour, which includes Italy and Iceland.

Scientists testified at the hearings that chemicals and minerals probably could be extracted along with the combined steam and water from the fissures of the earth.

This caused the Senate subcommittee to announce last week another hearing would be held to get the views of industries about distribution of the chemicals and minerals.

The chairman of the Senate group, Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said the hearings so far have "established the fact that

Colorado Seeks Industry Growth, Gov. Love Says

"Colorado is seeking industrial growth of the kind which has grown up around Stanford and MIT, Gov. John Love said here this morning.

Gov. Love was keynote speaker at the opening session of a two-day University - Industry Conference being held at the Broadmoor Hotel.

"The kind of educational institutions we have and can have plays a part in the growth of the state," Love told the more than 100 industrial, financial and educational leaders attending the conference.

The delegates are considering the effects of technological changes on the future developments of an industrial-scientific complex in the Rocky Mountain area.

The conference is being sponsored by the University of Colorado, the University of Denver and Colorado State University.

"The kind of growth we want is the kind you will be discussing in your seminars," Love said.

The governor pointed out that the electronics and other space industries seek educational institutions of quality and said that Colorado must work to increase the quality of its present colleges and universities.

He said that it was not until

Negroes Stage More Marches In North, South

By United Press International

Negroes paraded in Connecticut and North Carolina during the weekend to protest racial customs. The Connecticut demonstrators engaged in a bare-knuckle brawl with police, and six were ordered to appear in court today on breach of peace charges.

The governor, who twice forced the use of federal troops to carry out court-ordered integration in his home state, currently is on a five-day tour of the North.

Wallace appeared Sunday on a television program with Vermont Gov. Philip H. Hoff and vowed to continue his battle against integration "within the law and within the courts."

The Connecticut demonstration erupted in a fist fight when about 30 picketing members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) refused police orders to quit blocking traffic leaving the Yale - Dartmouth football game at New Haven.

One policeman was knocked to the pavement, another was punched in the face, and one of the pickets was hit on the head. The Negroes were protesting bad housing conditions in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Deaths of Viet Chiefs Deplored By U.S. Officials

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told South Viet Nam's new revolutionary committee that the deaths of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his powerful brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, while in custody were not only regrettable but could not be condoned, U.S. officials said today.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon was instructed to inform the military junta headed by Gen. Duong [illegible] Minh that the deaths of the brothers was looked upon here as an unhappy development at the start of their new regime.

The circumstances surrounding the deaths were still not clear, although the Saigon radio called them suicides.

A high government source repudiated an earlier suggestion that Diem and Nhu had harvested the results of their own misdoings.

No official word has been received from Saigon on the formation of a provisional government. Nor has there been a quest for U.S. recognition.

This meant that there would be a delay in the resumption of normal relations between the United States and the military regime in Saigon.

The revolutionary committee suspended the constitution but reportedly named Nguyen Ngoc Tho as acting prime minister. Tho, a Buddhist, had served as vice president under Diem and if the constitution had not been suspended, he would have automatically become president and chief of state.

Now, however, Tho is the acting prime minister of a government without a chief of state.

The U.S. 7th Fleet continued to keep units standing by to protect American civilians if the need should arise. There were no indications, however, of any new danger arising.

Preacher Hits Procedure for 'Mental Cases'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—At 4:30 p.m. today, the Rev. George Tobey Jr. of Albuquerque will have gone without food for six days and without water for about 54 hours.

The reverend is fasting to protest procedures used to commit persons to mental institutions, claiming there is a conspiracy among some judges, lawyers and psychiatrists to put people in the institutions for reasons other than mental illness.

He claimed child custody and property acquisition have been the reasons for some commitments.

Mme. Nhu Stays In Seclusion in Beverly Hills

By JOAN SWEENEY

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, first lady of the deposed South Viet Nam government, kept herself secluded in her eighth-floor hotel suite today and speculation grew that she would remain in this country indefinitely.

The U.S. State Department advised Mme. Nhu by telegram Sunday that her three children in South Viet Nam are safe. The children—aged 15, 11 and 4—were understood to have been in Dalat, a resort near Saigon, at the time of the uprising against the now - deposed regime.

A spokesman said Mme. Nhu had drafted a reply to the State Department, but declined to reveal its contents until sometime today because she wished to have the State Department advised of her message first.

The State Department had said it understood Mme. Nhu wanted the children to "proceed to Rome" where a third of the Ngo brothers, the archbishop of

Rescuers Drill Towards 11 Entombed Miners

By JOHN FIEHN

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP)—A huge drill bit its way today toward 11 more German miners found alive in a flooded iron mine a week after they had been give up for dead.

Officials hoped to reach the men by Wednesday.

The 11 were among 40 miners missing since a nearby dam broke Oct. 24 and flooded the mine. Eighty - six miners escaped, and three more were rescued Friday through a shaft bored by the same rig that went into operation again today.

Acting on leads from other miners, the mine management early Sunday had a narrow test shaft bored near the main pithead.

Miraculously the drilling hit a tiny air pocket 196 feet down where the 11 men were entombed.

Fired by this stroke of luck, test borings were begun about two miles away. Mining experts believed a huge air pocket may contain five or six miners there.

Rudolf Stein, the mine manager, said chances were extremely slim that any miners there would be alive.

After the 11 men were found, a microphone was lowered to them along with food, clothing, an electric cable and a light fixture.

The men reported they were in generally good condition. But they had been subsisting on water and reported their legs were swollen from too much liquid.

The men said their compartment is 15 feet long, 6 feet wide and 7½ feet high.

Russians Again Stop U.S. Convoy En Route to Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — The Soviets today blocked passage of a U. S. Army convoy bound for Berlin in a new harassment on the vital highway link connecting the isolated city with the West.

The Russians not only held up the convoy of 44 men in 12 vehicles but asserted they had the right to determine how convoys would be processed.

The convoy was stopped at 9 a.m. (3 a.m., EST). It still was held at 1:30 p.m. (7:30 a.m., EST), an Army spokesman said.

Today's incident strengthened the belief held by Western officials here that last month's holdup of American and British convoys was not the miscalculation of subordinate Russian officers as Washington officials said it was.

As last month, the convoy was refused passage today be-

Heat of Earth's Interior May Produce Electricity

By JOHN KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional committees have become intrigued with the idea of harnessing heat from the earth's fiery interior for the production of electric energy.

Hearings have been held, and more are planned, on bills to permit the leasing of federal lands in the west for commercial production of geothermal (which means earth-heat) power.

Some senators and representatives believe that some day there will be substantial generation of electricity by turbines driven with steam produced from the heating of water by volcanic rock deep in the earth.

A Senate Interior subcommittee has held two hearings and plans a third on a bill sponsored by Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev.

A House Interior subcommittee conducted a hearing on a companion measure sponsored by its chairman, Rep. Walter S. Baring, D-Nev., who is inspecting geothermal operations abroad.

Reps. Compton I. White Jr., D-Idaho, and Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah, accompanied Baring on the tour, which includes Italy and Iceland.

Scientists testified at the hearings that chemicals and minerals probably could be extracted along with the combined steam and water from the fissures of the earth.

This caused the Senate subcommittee to announce last week another hearing would be held to get the views of industries about distribution of the chemicals and minerals.

The chairman of the Senate group, Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said the hearings so far have "established the fact that

Politicians Keep Close Tab on Straws in Wind

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of both political parties will keep close tabs on the scattered straws in the wind stirred up in Tuesday's elections.

Of major interest to Democrats: What, if any, is the extent of the so-called "backlash" of white resentment to Negro civil rights demands and activities in major Northern cities?

Republican leaders will be scanning the slim results to see what, if any, improvement the party has made in Dixie and the big cities.

At stake are the governorships of Kentucky and Mississippi; the mayor's office in such cities as Philadelphia, Boston, San Francisco, Memphis and Salt Lake City; hundreds of other municipal and state offices; and the state legislatures of New Jersey, Virginia, Kentucky and Mississippi.

Much of the attention will be focused on Philadelphia where Democratic Mayor James H. J. Tate seeks election to a full four-year term against Republican attorney James T. McDermott.

The city has been the scene of violence and unrest this year stemming from efforts of Negroes to win better jobs, housing and schools.

Both candidates picture themselves as liberal on racial issues.

President Kennedy carried Philadelphia by a whopping 331,000 in 1960. Most Republican leaders believe it was his showing in the large Northern cities that cost them the White House that year. They have made determined efforts since to beef

Negroes Stage More Marches In North, South

By United Press International

Negroes paraded in Connecticut and North Carolina during the weekend to protest racial customs. The Connecticut demonstrators engaged in a bare-knuckle brawl with police, and six were ordered to appear in court today on breach of peace charges.

The governor, who twice forced the use of federal troops to carry out court-ordered integration in his home state, currently is on a five-day tour of the North.

Wallace appeared Sunday on a television program with Vermont Gov. Philip H. Hoff and vowed to continue his battle against integration "within the law and within the courts."

The Connecticut demonstration erupted in a fist fight when about 30 picketing members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) refused police orders to quit blocking traffic leaving the Yale - Dartmouth football game at New Haven.

One policeman was knocked to the pavement, another was punched in the face, and one of the pickets was hit on the head. The Negroes were protesting bad housing conditions in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

Deaths of Viet Chiefs Deplored By U.S. Officials

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told South Viet Nam's new revolutionary committee that the deaths of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his powerful brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, while in custody were not only regrettable but could not be condoned, U.S. officials said today.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon was instructed to inform the military junta headed by Gen. Duong Van Minh that the deaths of the brothers was looked upon here as an unhappy development at the start of their new regime.

The circumstances surrounding the deaths were still not clear, although the Saigon radio called them suicides.

A high government source repudiated an earlier suggestion that Diem and Nhu had harvested the results of their own misdoings.

No official word has been received from Saigon on the formation of a provisional government. Nor has there been a quest for U.S. recognition.

This meant that there would be a delay in the resumption of normal relations between the United States and the military regime in Saigon.

The revolutionary committee suspended the constitution but reportedly named Nguyen Ngoc Tho as acting prime minister. Tho, a Buddhist, had served as vice president under Diem and if the constitution had not been suspended, he would have automatically become president and chief of state.

Now, however, Tho is the acting prime minister of a government without a chief of state.

The U.S. 7th Fleet continued to keep units standing by to protect American civilians if the need should arise. There were no indications, however, of any new danger arising.

Preacher Hits Procedure for 'Mental Cases'

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) —At 4:30 p.m. today, the Rev. George Tobey Jr. of Albuquerque will have gone without food for six days and without water for about 54 hours.

The reverend is fasting to protest procedures used to commit persons to mental institutions, claiming there is a conspiracy among some judges, lawyers and psychiatrists to put people in the institutions for reasons other than mental illness.

He claimed child custody and property acquisition have been the reasons for some commitments.

Mme. Nhu Stays In Seclusion in Beverly Hills

By JOAN SWEENEY

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, first lady of the deposed South Viet Nam government, kept herself secluded in her eighth-floor hotel suite today and speculation grew that she would remain in this country indefinitely.

The U.S. State Department advised Mme. Nhu by telegram Sunday that her three children in South Viet Nam are safe. The children—aged 15, 11 and 4—were understood to have been in Dalat, a resort near Saigon, at the time of the uprising against the now - deposed regime.

A spokesman said Mme. Nhu had drafted a reply to the State Department, but declined to reveal its contents until sometime today because she wished to have the State Department advised of her message first.

The State Department had said it understood Mme. Nhu wanted the children to "proceed to Rome" where a third of the Ngo brothers, the archbishop of

South Viet Nam Resumes War Against Reds

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces resumed U.S.-supported military operations against Communist guerrillas today after the Reds apparently failed to capitalize on confusion resulting from the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

U.S. military sources said the Communist Viet Cong appeared to have been caught off guard by the swift coup.

Except for some attacks on hamlets and outposts in the southern Mekong Delta, there was no noticeable increase in Viet Cong activity during the 18-hour battle Friday and Satur-

Rescuers Drill Towards 11 Entombed Miners

By JOHN FIEHN

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP) —A huge drill bit its way today toward 11 more German miners found alive in a flooded iron mine a week after they had been give up for dead.

Officials hoped to reach the men by Wednesday.

The 11 were among 40 miners missing since a nearby dam broke Oct. 24 and flooded the mine. Eighty - six miners escaped, and three more were rescued Friday through a shaft bored by the same rig that went into operation again today.

Acting on leads from other miners, the mine management early Sunday had a narrow test shaft bored near the main pithead.

Miraculously the drilling hit a tiny air pocket 196 feet down where the 11 men were entombed.

Fired by this stroke of luck, test borings were begun about two miles away. Mining experts believed a huge air pocket may contain five or six miners there.

Rudolf Stein, the mine manager, said chances were extremely slim that any miners there would be alive.

After the 11 men were found, a microphone was lowered to them along with food, clothing, an electric cable and a light fixture.

The men reported they were in generally good condition. But they had been subsisting on water and reported their legs were swollen from too much liquid.

The men said their compartment is 15 feet long, 6 feet wide and 7½ feet high.

Rubber Bands Big Business In Akron, O.

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Rubber bands may be small—but they are "big" business.

Item: Last year more than 16 billion rubber bands were produced in the United States. That's nearly 90 rubber bands for each person in this country.

Item: To produce this mountain of bands, more than 15 million pounds of rubber were used.

The big reason behind the spiraling sales of rubber bands is that they no longer are limited to office use.

Today they have a thousand-and-one uses in homes and schools, in industry and agriculture. For instance, "turkey bands" are employed by processors to hold turkey legs tightly so the birds will be compact and easy to handle on the packing line.

A king-sized version of the small rubber band has been developed for industry as an effective way of holding lightweight cartons together.

One unique use is found in the lobster industry. So that lobsters selected for market can be handled safely (and not claw their neighbors), strong rubber bands are snapped over their pincers.

Colorful bands are used by growers to hold celery, asparagus and other vegetables in neat units; tiny circular bands are employed by orthodontists to hold braces in place; colored bands are used widely by electronics manufacturers to hold parts and sub-assemblies together; freezerbands are used by housewives to fasten frozen food storage bags and containers; special bands are used by toy makers to propel airplanes and other toys; bands are wrapped around newspapers to make home deliveries easier, and garment and shoe manufacturers use them to keep cut-out parts secure until they are ready to be used.

For many years rubber band manufacturers used natural rubber exclusively in the production of bands. Now a new synthetic rubber made from isoprene, a petroleum derivative, is getting a growing share of the market.

This revolutionary rubber, which has the same molecular configuration as natural rubber, has certain advantages over natural rubber, according to the Goodyear Chemical division, which produces polyisoprene rubber called "Natsyn."

"This synthetic rubber requires less mixing time than natural, and it extrudes faster," said Robert E. Workman, general manager of Goodyear Chemical.

Statistics Improved With Triplet Births

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) —Hospital administrator Robert Carey told the board of trustees at their regular monthly meeting that births at Alliance City Hospital had been running lower this year than in the corresponding periods in 1961 and 1962.

A few hours later the statistics were somewhat improved when the hospital recorded the birth of triplets for the first time in history. Three girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Culler of Beloit, Ohio.

Statistics Improved With Triplet Births

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) —Hospital administrator Robert Carey told the board of trustees at their regular monthly meeting that births at Alliance City Hospital had been running lower this year than in the corresponding periods in 1961 and 1962.

A few hours later the statistics were somewhat improved when the hospital recorded the birth of triplets for the first time in history. Three girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Culler of Beloit, Ohio.

New Trees Doing Fine on East Plains

FORT COLLINS (AP)—Trees planted on the eastern plains of Colorado last spring proved a hardy breed.

A. L. Keck, district forester with the Colorado State Forest Service, said Friday a check of various areas showed a survival rate of anywhere from 70 to 100 per cent, despite drought conditions.

"I would have considered 50 per cent survival extremely good for this year," Keck said.

The first President to deliver his inaugural address without using notes was Franklin Pierce in 1863.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

DANDY OR DENGUE FEVER

We have not written on dengue fever for a long time. The disease now is rare in this country, but tecently four cases were reported from Michigan. All were members of a Jamaican family who were visiting friends in that state.

According to the morbidity and mortality weekly report, put out by HEW, an epidemic of dengue fever was in progress in Jamaica when these people left their island. Over a four month period preceding August 3, 1963, 80 cases occurred. Our visitors had been exposed and one developed symptoms on the second day after arrival. The others became sick a week later. The airplane brings us all closer together and we can expect strange and exotic diseases from now on.

Dengue is best described as a super-influenza. The causative virus is transmitted to man via the Aedes Aegypti mosquito the same critter implicated in yellow fever. These insects prefer "summer like" temperature such as occurs in the tropics. The victim's temperature rises; it may go as high as 105 F. There is a sense of chilliness but not a definite shaking chill. Fatigue and headache are marked, as in influenza.

But the excruciating pain in the back and various joints, bones, and muscles is one of the most disagreeable features of dengue. This has led to the various nicknames for the disease. The most descriptive is "break - bone fever." "Dandy fever" is another good one; because of stiffness of the joints, the sufferer walks with a mincing gait.

On the second or third day, a fleeting red rash appears that looks like a diffuse blush. A more definite eruption crops out a few days later; it lasts three or more days, and frequently itches as it fades.

The temperature subsides gradually but on the fourth or fifth day may shoot up again. This final bout of fever may cause more discomfort than anything else. There is no treatment for dengue except aspirin but virtually everyone recovers by the end of a week.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Blood Is The Same

Mrs. R. G. writes: Is there any difference in the blood of white and colored people?

Reply

No. There is a hereditary type of anemia (sickle cell) that occurs only in the colored race but this has nothing to do with the basic ingredients in the blood. Send stamped, self - addressed envelope for our leaflet that gives some information on sickle cell anemia.

Switching A Southpaw

R. M. writes: If a lefthanded child is switched by his parents to the right hand, will this change cause insanity in later years?

Not insanity, but it may affect other faculties such as reading.

Reply

Yes, because the hospital cannot keep out new patients or visitors who harbor staphyloccal organisms in the nose, throat, or elsewhere in the body.

Renal Stones

M. H. writes: Is kidney stone in a 22-year-old man rare? My son developed one after being away at college 4 years.

Goldwater Says Welch Center Of Controversy

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he has no intention of denouncing members of the John Birch Society—as long as what they do and say is "temperate and in keeping with the decency called for in American politics."

But the Arizona Republican doesn't put the society's founder, Robert Welch, in that category.

Goldwater said he long ago took issue with Welch—who has called former President Dwight D. Eisenhower a traitor and the late John Foster Dulles a Communist.

"The argument, in my opinion, against the Birch Society centers on Mr. Welch..." Goldwater said.

The conservative senator spelled out his views on the right-wing society in a letter to Thomas M. Storke, editor and publisher of the Santa Barbara, Calif., News-Press.

The California publisher wrote Goldwater Aug. 15 asking where the senator stands on "principal tenets of the society which have been laid down by Welch himself."

In his Oct. 21 reply, made public today, Goldwater said he does not agree with the society's call for impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren, elimination of the income tax and U.S. withdrawal from the United Nations.

"I have followed your campaign against Mr. Welch," Goldwater wrote, "and I would like to inform you that I had openly expressed my disagreement with that gentleman quite some time before you took up the cudgels."

The senator said "if you start denouncing organizations whose leaders have made comments or adopted principles or taken actions with which you do not agree, you would be surprised at how few you could wholly accept."

He added:

"Let's not berate the constitutional rights of Americans to say anything as long as it doesn't lead to the overthrow of our government. Let's disagree with them where we do, but let's not by association intimidate anyone from saying what he thinks."

Goldwater has said the society is not a power in U.S. politics anyhow.

ARREST "DOPE PEDDLERS"

VOGHERA, Italy (UPI)—Narcotics squad officers said Friday night they took into custody three men who had agreed to sell 6.6 pounds of cocaine to a plainclothes officer for $24,000.

When the officer showed up for the sale, police said the men handed him three sacks of a white powder which a laboratory analysis showed was bicarbonate of soda. The three men then were charged with attempted fraud.

TODAY THE BEST ADDITIVES MAKE THE BEST GASOLINES

"O. K., SKELLY MAN, WHY SHOULD I SWITCH TO YOUR GASOLINE?"
A quick one-word answer is: "Keotane." Keotane® is the additive Skelly developed to attack, head-on, one of the main causes of engine trouble—excess carbon. Carbon steals gasoline. It robs your engine of pep and power. Keotane was developed specifically to help prevent carbon build-up as you drive. We know of no other additive like it. In fact, Keotane is so different that Skelly has been granted U. S. Patent No. 2,878,109 covering its use.
Your next question might be, "How can Skelly Keotane Gasoline be different from other major brands from the same pipeline?" The answer is that Keotane is added to Skelly premium gasoline AFTER the gasoline comes out of the pipeline, and before it goes to Skelly stations.
Will it pay you to switch to Skelly Keotane Gasoline? Look at it this way. If Keotane can keep your engine cleaner inside... if it can help prevent excess carbon deposits that steal your gas and waste your power... shouldn't you find it out?
Try just 3 tankfuls. Check your mileage before and after switching to Keotane. See how your car idles. Note how fast it starts. Then decide for yourself.
How can you lose? If you see no improvement in power, mileage, pick-up, starting, you haven't lost a thing, because Skelly Keotane Gasoline costs no more than other major premium brands without Keotane.
But if you do get better performance, you'll know that, today, the best additives do make the best gasolines. And we think you will be convinced—as we are—that today's best additive, by far, is Keotane.
Only Skelly has Keotane.

tion within the union for the failure to sign a new two-year agreement.

He charged that there has been a dispute between the maintenance men in the union and the bus drivers. He declined to elaborate.

"If it wasn't for this friction within the union we could have signed an agreement Friday," Cowen said.

He said that the first he heard that the scheduled strike was not to be called was Sunday night when union officials phoned him and asked for another conference.

"They may have resolved their differences at a meeting they had at 5 o'clock Sunday," Cowen said. "If so, maybe we can reach an agreement."

The company official said that he felt it would be better if the union went on strike if an agreement is not reached today.

"The people are so confused now. They don't know if there's going to be a strike or not and its costing me money because they are making other arrangements," he said.

"In fact, it would be cheaper for the company if they did go on strike than having those empty buses driving around town," Cowen said.

The company has offered the union an 8-cent an hour raise over the next two years plus some fringe benefits. It had originally offered 6-cents an hour.

The union has been asking 18 cents an hour to raise salaries to $2 an hour.

South Viet Nam Resumes War Against Reds

day in which Vietnamese insurgents closed in on Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, in the presidential palace in Saigon.

The Viet Cong command broadcast urgent appeals to its units over the countryside to begin all-out attacks, but the response was minor, the U.S. sources said.

However, the junta which engineered the coup was expected to retain the real power.

Slated to become premier was Nguyn Ngoc Tho, 55, a Buddhist who was Diem's figurehead vice president and who tried to mediate the Roman Catholic Diem's dispute with Buddhist opponents.

The bodies of Diem and his brother are reported under guard awaiting secret burial.

The official story that they committed suicide after their arrest Saturday was widely doubted. More credence was given to reports they were killed by soldiers after leaving a small Catholic church in Saigon where they sought sanctuary following a letup in bombardment of the presidential palace.

Unofficial photographs of the bodies of the brothers showed Diem riddled by bullets, including evidence of a head wound, while Nhu had bruises indicating a beating. Informed sources said Nhu, Diem's close adviser, was stabbed to death.

In Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, another brother of Diem, Ngo Dinh Can, was reported under house arrest. He had been virtual ruler of central Viet Nam.

The U.S. State Department informed Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, Diem's sister-inlaw and the country's former First Lady, her three children in Viet Nam were safe. The U.S. Embassy was instructed to help transport the children to Rome, where she could meet them.

Mrs. Nhu, in Los Angeles after a three-week speaking tour in the United States, hoped to return to Saigon to bury her husband and pick up her children there, an informed source said. With her is her 18-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Nhu wired Secretary of State Dean Rusk Sunday to help her obtain a safe-conduct to return to South Viet Nam to arrange for a funeral service, the source said.

In Washington, the U.S. government repudiated a statement by an unnamed official that Diem and Nhu had reaped the results of their misdeeds. The State Department told the new revolutionary committee the deaths of Diem and Nhu while in its custody could not be condoned.

Mrs. Nhu said the deaths placed "an indelible stigma" on the United States. But State Department officials said the United States could accept none of the blame.

There has been no request yet for U.S. recognition of the new regime, State Department officials said. But it was considered certain the new government would receive U.S. recognition.

While the Communists charged that the United States masterminded the coup, Saigon's new rulers insisted the revolt came without foreign assistance.

Leaders of the revolt said it aimed at abolishing a dictatorial and corrupt regime and waging an intensified fight against communism.

Maj. Gen. Ton That Dinh, military governor of Saigon, told a news conference political power will be transferred to a popularly elected government "when the situation permits" and "all religions will be treated on an absolutely equal basis."

It was the Diem regime's harsh treatment of the Buddhists that led to the country's final disenchantment with the government.

up big city Republican organizations.

Perhaps one-quarter of Philadelphia's 2 million residents are Negroes. In recent national and state elections the Democrats' estimated share of the Negro vote has ranged between 74 and 82 per cent.

Some analysts see a Tate victory by 20,000 to 60,000 votes. McDermott has said he'll win by 10,000.

The racial issue also hovers in the background of the Kentucky election. Republican Louie B. Nunn has been attacking an executive order issued by Democratic Gov. Bert Combs banning racial discrimination in businesses licensed by the state. The order has been held up by litigation.

Edward T. Breathitt Jr., the Democratic nominee, at first embraced the order. Now he says he would turn the matter over to the next legislature.

Other issues in Kentucky include Nunn's claim that industry has passed the state by because of high taxes and Breathitt's promise of 75,000 new jobs, expanded highways and parks, and improved farm income. Nunn also has repeatedly attacked the Kennedy administration. Neither Kennedy nor leading Republicans have campaigned in Kentucky.

Race appears to be the main issue in Mississippi.

In past years, the Democrats closed up their political shop after the party primary, because the winner rarely was challenged.

But this year Republican nominee Rubell Phillip has been waging a vigorous campaign and there are GOP officials in Washington who believe he has a good chance.

The campaign message of both Phillips and the Democratic nominee, Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson, has been simple: Each claims to be the strongest foe of integration in Mississippi and the Kennedy administration in Washington.

Man Booked Into Jail on Assault Probe

Robert D. Walker, 25, of the Rodeo Court, was booked into county jail Sunday for investigation of alleged assault with a deadly weapon, the sheriff's department reported.

Deputy Sheriffs' Bob Walters and Franklin D. Ripley said Walker, who is a parolee out of Kansas City for armed robbery, had been drinking with his brother most of Saturday. His brother's wife had gone off and left the children in one unit and when the two men went there they found another man, Richard Middleton, present. An argument ensued and Don Page, the manager and Buck Jones, assistant manager, then arrived.

According to Jones, Walker got a cocked pistol and held it at Page's head but Jones snatched it away from him. Page later signed a complaint alleging assault with a deadly weapon.

"Not only can the heat itself be used for the production of electricial energy," he said, but "large scale processing of foods and other uses for which high temperatures and low costs are needed may be possible.

"Also, the super-heated steam and water contain extremely minerals. In some instances it is considered that these by-products are more valuable than the heat itself...everyone agrees that the development of geothermal resources is desirable."

Baring predicted at the House hearing that "this source of energy will play a major part in the future development of the west."

Witnesses said production costs of geothermal power would be lower than those of conventional plants. Pipes inserted in fissures would funnel the steam and super-heated water turbines which would generate the power. The congressmen were told also:

Sites in California and Nevada are most promising. One operating geothermal plant in California can generate enough electricity for a community of 50,000 people.

Geologic conditions appear favorable in portions of states along the western slope of the Rocky Mountains, including Montana, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming and Idaho.

Hot springs and geysers, springing out of desert floors adjacent to the mountain range, offer potential geothermal sites.

One california firm has drilled 75 steam wells in 25 areas in the west. It holds 150 land leases.

400 Attend Hospital Day At Pueblo

About 400 persons from thruout the state attended Hospitality Day Saturday at the Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo. Included were 35 persons from Colorado Springs, reported Mrs. Lorna Hinds, executive director, El Paso County Association for Mental Health.

Highlight of the day's visit was a talk by David Hamil, state director of institutions, who told of the hospital's expanding program.

Hamil said the new medical-surgical building will be ready for occupancy by mid-1964, and that the Children's Day Care Center building will be ready for bid on Dec. 15. Hamil noted that the increase of young patients has risen from one in 1957 to the present 170.

He said the hospital plans to build a recreation area in the middle of the North Campus, and a public outpatient facility.

Other speakers of the day were Dr. Carl Wagner, assistant clinical director, and Mrs. Leora Dick, director of nursing.

Patient population at the hospital is now 3,800, compared to 6,000 two years ago. Included in this number are 310 patients in the Central Psychiatric Unit for persons from El Paso County and surrounding counties.

The Nation's Weather

Cloudy skies dominated the southern plains, lower Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley and the eastern Great Lakes Region today.

Elsewhere generally fair skies were the rule. Precipitation has been light and rather widespread in the Mississippi and Ohio Valley Region while widely scattered and variable in amounts over the central plains and the Rockies.

The Pacific northwest reports have been widespread and quite variable with some of the heavier amounts recorded near or over .75 inches in northern California and southern Oregon during the past six hours.

Temperature-wise 20s and 30s are common along the Atlantic Coast, upper Great Lakes, up in the northern and central plains. The 40s and 50s were found in the Mississippi and Ohio Valley as well as the western United States.

Readings in the 60s and 70s prevailed in the south-central and the southeastern sections of the country.

Milder Winter Predicted by Weather Bureau

that Snowstar looks for a clement winter.

To be sure Norris notes that the reindeer have developed real plush coats. But you have to consider the over-all picture, in which squirrels are important.

Squirrels usually stash away nuts against the winter. On a recent Sunday, 40,000 people visited the zoo and dropped a lot of peanuts around.

Ordinarily the squirrels would bury this provender in no time. But Monday morning Norris noted many peanuts still lying around. Which shows that squirrels are unworried about the winter.

Private advices from Winchester, Va., say squirrels there are acting differently. They are really scrabbling for acorns. But political considerations may enter into this case.

Winchester is the domain of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, an economyite who expects all hands—human and animal—to be diligent and frugal.

From all over come reports that not many hairy caterpillars, or woolly worms, have been observed crossing highways. Last autumn a lot of them did so, in disregard of stoplights, and of course this foretold deep snow and severe cold.

Now we turn to a study of almanacs.

To be sure, the Farmers Almanac says that generally the winter will be warmer—37 degrees average as compared to 34 last year. But it adds that there will be 57 inches of snow. Tht's 2.72 inches more than last year.

The Hagerstown (Md.) Town and Country Almanack predicts rain or snow on 21 days during the first three months of 1964. Seventeen other days in the same period are marked fair and cold.

The nearest thing to a long-range forecast that can be wrung out of the Weather Bureau is this from J. Murray Mitchell Jr., widely known meteorologist:

"I feel that people would be well-advised to prepare as if cold weather lay ahead."

Upon examination, this statement is seen to be hedged. But Dr. Mitchell feels that, in the present state of science, it would be premature to say more.

State School Associations Open Joint Session Today

Hundreds of school board members and school administrators were on hand today for the opening of the annual joint convention of the Colorado Association of School Boards and the Colorado Association of School Administrators.

Keynote speaker at the opening session was Dr. Arthur Corey, executive secretary of the California Teacher's Association, who spoke on "Pressures on Education." A panel discussion followed his remarks.

Dr. Joseph Smiley, president of the University of Colorado, was to be the principal speaker at a luncheon meeting of delegates today. Dr. Smiley was to discuss "Education — Challenge of the 60's."

Highlight of today's session will be the annual banquet scheduled for 6:45 p.m.

Three members of a U.S. Air Force Aerospace briefing team will give a 90-minute presentation "Survey of Astronautics" during the banquet.

The officers are from the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Ala. During the day, the team will visit Manitou and Cheyenne High Schools where they will discuss the aerospace subject.

Slides and motion pictures will illustrate the discussion of the two most powerful forces being used today by man-atomic energy and rocket propulsion.

Farm President Blasts Union Type Bargaining

In an obvious assault on the National Farmers Organization (NFO), Peirce told about 1,200 delegates to the Kansas Farm Bureau convention that "a farmer's position is much different from labor's."

Peirce did not mention the NFO by name but attacked many of the latter group's programs, such as holding of products from market.

"If an increase in price is achieved, by a holding action," Peirce said, "it is not apt to be permanent. As soon as held-up commodities come on the market, prices will fall.

"The production of a supply of farm products in the quantity and quality demanded by the consumer in a free market place is the only equitable and long-lasting solution."

J. Bracken Lee Runs Again in Salt Lake City

Lee, a former Republican governor of the state and a political independent who unsuccessfully challenged the constitutionality of the federal income tax, campaigned on his fiscal polices.

Brewster, a former Democratic speaker of the Utah House of Representatives, said his fiscal policies were even sounder and that the city was not "really" operating in the black when you got right down to the finer financial points.

Interest has been light. The elections are non-partisan.

Polls open at 7 in the morning and close at 8 p.m. in the 214 towns and municipalities holding elections in the state.

Salt Lake City and County will also vote on a proposed $17 million bond issue for a civic auditorium and sports arena.

Billfold With $162 Reported Missing

Robert Elgas of 1115 N. Weber St. reported to the sheriff's office Sunday that his billfold containing $162 had been lost or stolen.

According to Deputy Sheriff Ray Carey, Elgas, who is employed at the North Pole as a magician, had just finished a show Saturday afternoon and was changing to do another one in Colorado Springs. He placed the billfold on a packing case and took off without it.

A search Sunday morning failed to reveal its whereabouts.

Italians Flop With Plans to Boost Cattle

By ERNEST SAKLER

ROME (UPI)—An idea which the government hoped would solve Italy's agricultural crisis —reduce wheat acreage in favor of cattle raising — has proved a flop.

If things go on as they are now, the ox and cow, far from taking over the scene, may come to be remembered in Italy as strange, extinct animals.

The changeover from wheat to cattle became official government policy a few years ago when it grew obvious that the great postwar land reform had turned thousands of poor laborers into farmers but hadn't solved the farm income problem. Continued low prices for farm products and rising prices of agricultural machinery actually had widened the gap between country people and workers in the cities.

The answer, the government ruled, was a switch to the more profitable business of cattle raising. Measures were taken to encourage the changeovers and domestic producers were protected from foreign competition through meat import quotas that brought indignant protests from Argentina, Denmark and other meat-exporting countries.

It now appears obvious that the bid to make Italy a big meat producer has failed. The Eurostampa news agency reported recently that the number of cattle in the fertile Po valley was going down—not up —by 1,000 head a day.

In 1961, the agency reported, there were 9,813,000 (m) head of cattle in the area, including 4,950,000 (m) milk cows. The following year, figures were down to 9,300,00 (m) head, including 4,700,00 (m) milk cows. On some farms, cattle decreased 2 to 25 per cent in a couple of years and wheat acreage went up 6 to 7 per cent, the exact opposite of what the government had hoped for.

The reason, Eurostampa said, was increased slaughtering due to a number of factors. One was recurrent droughts which this year reduced fodder production by 15 to 20 per cent. Another was the low level of prices compared to growing costs. A third factor was the exodus of manpower to the cities.

The agency estimated that eight out of 10 young men born in industrial Lombardy leave the land. The province of Milan, it said, needs at least 15,000 to 16,000 cow milkers, but only 10,00 to 11,000 are available. The one solution would be wider mechanical milking, which however poses technical and financial problems.

The Milan newspaper Il Giorno, which took a similar pessimistic view, provided an additional explanation: Italian cattle farms are far too small to be profitable.

What little statistics there are, Il Giorno said, show that the average Italian cattle farm has only 6.16 head. In flatlands, the proportion is 9.90, but in the hills it goes down to 4.98 and in mountain areas to 3.93.

An extensive study made in France, Il Giorno said, showed the most profitable cattle farms were those with 120 head. The minimum the French researchers even considered was 50 head, five times the Italian average.

The farmer with only a few head of cattle, even if he had the know-how and time, could not use high productivity techniques because they wouldn't be profitable, Il Giorno said. The only partial remedies it suggested were measures to stop a further breaking up of Oestat and encouragement for owners of small herds to join forces and set up "associated stables" for their cattle.

Russians Again Stop U.S. Convoy En Route to Berlin

cause Soviet border guards insisted that soldiers leave their trucks to be counted. The Americans refused.

The U.S. convoy commander said his convoy was not large enough for such a head count, but the Russians replied, "It is the Soviet and not the Allied authorities who determine convoy processing procedures."

In another Berlin development, East German Communist guards today shot and killed a refugee trying to swim to West Berlin across the Spree River, which forms part of the border.

The refugee was the 55th killed by Communist guards since the Berlin wall was built in August, 1961.

An American officer went to the checkpoint from the East-West German border and told the Russians, "It is the Allies who determine under what circumstances they will order troop passengers to dismount in order to facilitate the verification of the total number of troops in a sepcific convay."

This statement was made on orders of Maj. Gen. James Polk, Berlin's American commandant, an Army announcement said.

Today's holdup could not be attributed to any Soviet misunderstanding of Western Allied processing procedures.

Last Tuesday, the Western Allies informed the Russians when they would dismount. The Americans, British and French drew up a uniform plan and submitted it to the Russians so that all misunderstanding could be ruled out.

But the Soviets today in effect rejected the plan, saying they would decide when soldiers had to dismount.

Polish Pupils Prove Poor in History Exam

MUNICH, Germany (UPI(— American teen-agers apparently have no monopoly on the problem of recalling historical facts.

Radio Free Europe reports that the Warsaw daily newspaper Zycie Warzany recently upbraided Polish history teachers and students because of the results of a history test given 3,000 graduating high school seniors in 69 schools throughout Poland.

The article was entitled "Columbus Discovered the North Pole?"

It reported that in matching questions, Polish students identified Leonidas as a Brazilian football player, Confucius as a reformer in the United States, Spartacus as the leader of an 18th century U.S. rebellion and San Salvador as a battle of Greeks and Romans.

Students also identified the Napoleonic Code with Poland and the Declaration of Rights of Man and Citizens with the United States.

In a review of a book by Mrs. A. Bornholz, who analyzed the test results, the Warsaw newspaper said:

"The final results of the tests were startling. Out of 100 possible points, the national average was 16.9 Not one single pupil out of the 3,000 managed to answer all of the questions correctly. The analysis of the effects of teaching was ruthless."

In Algiers, Algerian officials insisted all fighting around Figuig stopped Sunday in a belated observance of the truce agreement.

The agreement called for a cease-fire at midnight last Friday and an international investigation of the neighbors' rival territorial claims.

Sources close to Mme. Nhu quoted as saying Mme. Mme. Nhu and her daughter, Le Thuy, 18, have been staying at the hotel since completing a nationwide tour early last week.

He told representatives that, so far, science has only scratched the surface in predicting the weather. He said, however, that long-range weather predictions are still far in future but said the complex problems will be solved eventually and mankind will benefit tremendously.

A banquet will highlight tonight's session with additional talks and discussions scheduled for Tuesday's wind-up sessions.

He charged that there has been a dispute between the maintenance men in the union and the bus drivers. He declined to elaborate.

"If it wasn't for this friction within the union we could have signed an agreement Friday," Cowen said.

He said that the first he heard that the scheduled strike was not to be called was Sunday night when union officials phoned him and asked for another conference.

"They may have resolved their differences at a meeting they had at 5 o'clock Sunday," Cowen said. "If so, maybe we can reach an agreement."

The company official said that he felt it would be better if the union went on strike if an agreement is not reached today.

"The people are so confused now. They don't know if there's going to be a strike or not and its costing me money because they are making other arrangements," he said.

"In fact, it would be cheaper for the company if they did go on strike than having those empty buses driving around town," Cowen said.

The company has offered the union an 8-cent an hour raise over the next two years plus some fringe benefits. It had originally offered 6-cents an hour.

The union has been asking 18 cents an hour to raise salaries to $2 an hour.

South Viet Nam Resumes War Against Reds

day in which Vietnamese insurgents closed in on Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, in the presidential palace in Saigon.

The Viet Cong command broadcast urgent appeals to its units over the countryside to begin all-out attacks, but the response was minor, the U.S. sources said.

However, the junta which engineered the coup was expected to retain the real power.

Slated to become premier was Nguyn Ngoc Tho, 55, a Buddhist who was Diem's figurehead vice president and who tried to mediate the Roman Catholic Diem's dispute with Buddhist opponents.

The bodies of Diem and his brother are reported under guard awaiting secret burial.

The official story that they committed suicide after their arrest Saturday was widely doubted. More credence was given to reports they were killed by soldiers after leaving a small Catholic church in Saigon where they sought sanctuary following a letup in bombardment of the presidential palace.

Unofficial photographs of the bodies of the brothers showed Diem riddled by bullets, including evidence of a head wound, while Nhu had bruises indicating a beating. Informed sources said Nhu, Diem's close adviser, was stabbed to death.

In Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, another brother of Diem, Ngo Dinh Can, was reported under house arrest. He had been virtual ruler of central Viet Nam.

The U.S. State Department informed Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, Diem's sister-inlaw and the country's former First Lady, her three children in Viet Nam were safe. The U.S. Embassy was instructed to help transport the children to Rome, where she could meet them.

Mrs. Nhu, in Los Angeles after a three-week speaking tour in the United States, hoped to return to Saigon to bury her husband and pick up her children there, an informed source said. With her is her 18-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Nhu wired Secretary of State Dean Rusk Sunday to help her obtain a safe-conduct to return to South Viet Nam to arrange for a funeral service, the source said.

In Washington, the U.S. government repudiated a statement by an unnamed official that Diem and Nhu had reaped the results of their misdeeds. The State Department told the new revolutionary committee the deaths of Diem and Nhu while in its custody could not be condoned.

Mrs. Nhu said the deaths placed "an indelible stigma" on the United States. But State Department officials said the United States could accept none of the blame.

There has been no request yet for U.S. recognition of the new regime, State Department officials said. But it was considered certain the new government would receive U.S. recognition.

Maj. Gen. Ton That Dinh, military governor of Saigon, told a news conference political power will be transferred to a popularly elected government "when the situation permits" and "all religions will be treated on an absolutely equal basis."

It was the Diem regime's harsh treatment of the Buddhists that led to the country's final disenchantment with the government.

The racial issue also hovers in the background of the Kentucky election. Republican Louie B. Nunn has been attacking an executive order issued by Democratic Gov. Bert Combs banning racial discrimination in businesses licensed by the state. The order has been held up by litigation.

Edward T. Breathitt Jr., the Democratic nominee, at first embraced the order. Now he says he would turn the matter over to the next legislature.

Other issues in Kentucky include Nunn's claim that industry has passed the state by because of high taxes and Breathitt's promise of 75,000 new jobs, expanded highways and parks, and improved farm income. Nunn also has repeatedly attacked the Kennedy administration. Neither Kennedy nor leading Republicans have campaigned in Kentucky.

Race appears to be the main issue in Mississippi.

In past years, the Democrats closed up their political shop after the party primary, because the winner rarely was challenged.

But this year Republican nominee Rubell Phillip has been waging a vigorous campaign and there are GOP officials in Washington who believe he has a good chance.

The campaign message of both Phillips and the Democratic nominee, Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson, has been simple: Each claims to be the strongest foe of integration in Mississippi and the Kennedy administration in Washington.

Man Booked Into Jail on Assault Probe

Robert D. Walker, 25, of the Rodeo Court, was booked into county jail Sunday for investigation of alleged assault with a deadly weapon, the sheriff's department reported.

Deputy Sheriffs' Bob Walters and Franklin D. Ripley said Walker, who is a parolee out of Kansas City for armed robbery, had been drinking with his brother most of Saturday. His brother's wife had gone off and left the children in one unit and when the two men went there they found another man, Richard Middleton, present. An argument ensued and Don Page, the manager and Buck Jones, assistant manager, then arrived.

According to Jones, Walker got a cocked pistol and held it at Page's head but Jones snatched it away from him. Page later signed a complaint alleging assault with a deadly weapon.

"Not only can the heat itself be used for the production of electricial energy," he said, but "large scale processing of foods and other uses for which high temperatures and low costs are needed may be possible.

"Also, the super-heated steam and water contain extremely minerals. In some instances it is considered that these by - products are more valuable than the heat itself...everyone agrees that the development of geothermal resources is desirable."

Baring predicted at the House hearing that "this source of energy will play a major part in the future development of the west."

Witnesses said production costs of geothermal power would be lower than those of conventional plants. Pipes inserted in fissures would funnel the steam and super-heated water turbines which would generate the power. The congressmen were told also:

Sites in California and Nevada are most promising. One operating geothermal plant in California can generate enough electricity for a community of 50,000 people.

Geologic conditions appear favorable in portions of states along the western slope of the Rocky Mountains, including Montana, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming and Idaho.

Hot springs and geysers, springing out of desert floors adjacent to the mountain range, offer potential geothermal sites.

One california firm has drilled 75 steam wells in 25 areas in the west. It holds 150 land leases.

400 Attend Hospital Day At Pueblo

About 400 persons from thruout the state attended Hospitality Day Saturday at the Colorado State Hospital in Pueblo. Included were 35 persons from Colorado Springs, reported Mrs. Lorna Hinds, executive director, El Paso County Association for Mental Health.

Highlight of the day's visit was a talk by David Hamil, state director of institutions, who told of the hospital's expanding program.

Hamil said the new medical-surgical building will be ready for occupancy by mid-1964, and that the Children's Day Care Center building will be ready for bid on Dec. 15. Hamil noted that the increase of young patients has risen from one in 1957 to the present 170.

He said the hospital plans to build a recreation area in the middle of the North Campus, and a public outpatient facility.

Other speakers of the day were Dr. Carl Wagner, assistant clinical director, and Mrs. Leora Dick, director of nursing.

Patient population at the hospital is now 3,800, compared to 6,000 two years ago. Included in this number are 310 patients in the Central Psychiatric Unit for persons from El Paso County and surrounding counties.

The Nation's Weather

Cloudy skies dominated the southern plains, lower Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley and the eastern Great Lakes Region today.

Elsewhere generally fair skies were the rule. Precipitation has been light and rather widespread in the Mississippi and Ohio Valley Region while widely scattered and variable in amounts over the central plains and the Rockies.

The Pacific northwest reports have been widespread and quite variable with some of the heavier amounts recorded near or over .75 inches in northern California and southern Oregon during the past six hours.

Temperature-wise 20s and 30s are common along the Atlantic Coast, upper Great Lakes, up in the northern and central plains. The 40s and 50s were found in the Mississippi and Ohio Valley as well as the western United States.

Readings in the 60s and 70s prevailed in the south-central and the southeastern sections of the country.

that Snowstar looks for a clement winter.

To be sure Norris notes that the reindeer have developed real plush coats. But you have to consider the over-all picture, in which squirrels are important.

Squirrels usually stash away nuts against the winter. On a recent Sunday, 40,000 people visited the zoo and dropped a lot of peanuts around.

Ordinarily the squirrels would bury this provender in no time. But Monday morning Norris noted many peanuts still lying around. Which shows that squirrels are unworried about the winter.

Private advices from Winchester, Va., say squirrels there are acting differently. They are really scrabbling for acorns. But political considerations may enter into this case.

Winchester is the domain of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, an economyite who expects all hands—human and animal—to be diligent and frugal.

From all over come reports that not many hairy caterpillars, or woolly worms, have been observed crossing highways. Last autumn a lot of them did so, in disregard of stoplights, and of course this foretold deep snow and severe cold.

Now we turn to a study of almanacs.

To be sure, the Farmers Almanac says that generally the winter will be warmer—37 degrees average as compared to 34 last year. But it adds that there will be 57 inches of snow. Tht's 2.72 inches more than last year.

The Hagerstown (Md.) Town and Country Almanack predicts rain or snow on 21 days during the first three months of 1964. Seventeen other days in the same period are marked fair and cold.

The nearest thing to a long-range forecast that can be wrung out of the Weather Bureau is this from J. Murray Mitchell Jr., widely known meteorologist:

"I feel that people would be well-advised to prepare as if cold weather lay ahead."

Upon examination, this statement is seen to be hedged. But Dr. Mitchell feels that, in the present state of science, it would be premature to say more.

State School Associations Open Joint Session Today

Hundreds of school board members and school administrators were on hand today for the opening of the annual joint convention of the Colorado Association of School Boards and the Colorado Association of School Administrators.

Keynote speaker at the opening session was Dr. Arthur Corey, executive secretary of the California Teacher's Association, who spoke on "Pressures on Education." A panel discussion followed his remarks.

Dr. Joseph Smiley, president of the University of Colorado, was to be the principal speaker at a luncheon meeting of delegates today. Dr. Smiley was to discuss "Education — Challenge of the 60's."

Highlight of today's session will be the annual banquet scheduled for 6:45 p.m.

Three members of a U.S. Air Force Aerospace briefing team will give a 90-minute presentation "Survey of Astronautics" during the banquet.

The officers are from the Air University at Maxwell AFB, Montgomery, Ala. During the day, the team will visit Manitou and Cheyenne High Schools where they will discuss the aerospace subject.

Slides and motion pictures will illustrate the discussion of the two most powerful forces being used today by man-atomic energy and rocket propulsion.

Farm President Blasts Union Type Bargaining

In an obvious assault on the National Farmers Organization (NFO), Peirce told about 1,200 delegates to the Kansas Farm Bureau convention that "a farmer's position is much different from labor's."

Peirce did not mention the NFO by name but attacked many of the latter group's programs, such as holding of products from market.

"If an increase in price is achieved, by a holding action," Peirce said, "it is not apt to be permanent. As soon as held-up commodities come on the market, prices will fall.

"The production of a supply of farm products in the quantity and quality demanded by the consumer in a free market place is the only equitable and long-lasting solution."

J. Bracken Lee Runs Again in Salt Lake City

Lee, a former Republican governor of the state and a political independent who unsuccessfully challenged the constitutionality of the federal income tax, campaigned on his fiscal polices.

Brewster, a former Democratic speaker of the Utah House of Representatives, said his fiscal policies were even sounder and that the city was not "really" operating in the black when you got right down to the finer financial points.

Interest has been light. The elections are non-partisan.

Polls open at 7 in the morning and close at 8 p.m. in the 214 towns and municipalities holding elections in the state.

Salt Lake City and County will also vote on a proposed $17 million bond issue for a civic auditorium and sports arena.

Billfold With $162 Reported Missing

Robert Elgas of 1115 N. Weber St. reported to the sheriff's office Sunday that his billfold containing $162 had been lost or stolen.

According to Deputy Sheriff Ray Carey, Elgas, who is employed at the North Pole as a magician, had just finished a show Saturday afternoon and was changing to do another one in Colorado Springs. He placed the billfold on a packing case and took off without it.

A search Sunday morning failed to reveal its whereabouts.

Italians Flop With Plans to Boost Cattle

By ERNEST SAKLER

ROME (UPI)—An idea which the government hoped would solve Italy's agricultural crisis —reduce wheat acreage in favor of cattle raising — has proved a flop.

If things go on as they are now, the ox and cow, far from taking over the scene, may come to be remembered in Italy as strange, extinct animals.

The changeover from wheat to cattle became official government policy a few years ago when it grew obvious that the great postwar land reform had turned thousands of poor laborers into farmers but hadn't solved the farm income problem. Continued low prices for farm products and rising prices of agricultural machinery actually had widened the gap between country people and workers in the cities.

The answer, the government ruled, was a switch to the more profitable business of cattle raising. Measures were taken to encourage the changeovers and domestic producers were protected from foreign competition through meat import quotas that brought indignant protests from Argentina, Denmark and other meat-exporting countries.

It now appears obvious that the bid to make Italy a big meat producer has failed. The Eurostampa news agency reported recently that the number of cattle in the fertile Po valley was going down—not up —by 1,000 head a day.

In 1961, the agency reported, there were 9.813.000 (m) head of cattle in the area, including 4,950,000 (m) milk cows. The following year, figures were down to 9,300,00 (m) head, including 4,700.00 (m) milk cows. On some farms, cattle decreased 2 to 25 per cent in a couple of years and wheat acreage went up 6 to 7 per cent, the exact opposite of what the government had hoped for.

The reason, Eurostampa said, was increased slaughtering due to a number of factors. One was recurrent droughts which this year reduced fodder production by 15 to 20 per cent. Another was the low level of prices compared to growing costs. A third factor was the exodus of manpower to the cities.

The agency estimated that eight out of 10 young men born in industrial Lombardy leave the land. The province of Milan, it said, needs at least 15,000 to 16,000 cow milkers, but only 10,-00 to 11,000 are available. The one solution would be wider mechanical milking, which however poses technical and financial problems.

The Milan newspaper Il Giorno, which took a similar pessimistic view, provided an additional explanation: Italian cattle farms are far too small to be profitable.

What little statistics there are, Il Giorno said, show that the average Italian cattle farm has only 6.16 head. In flatlands, the proportion is 9.90, but in the hills it goes down to 4.98 and in mountain areas to 3.93.

An extensive study made in France, Il Giorno said, showed the most profitable cattle farms were those with 120 head. The minimum the French researchers even considered was 50 head, five times the Italian average.

The farmer with only a few head of cattle, even if he had the know-how and time, could not use high productivity techniques because they wouldn't be profitable, Il Giorno said. The only partial remedies it suggested were measures to stop a further breaking up of Oestat and encouragement for owners of small herds to join forces and set up "associated stables" for their cattle.

Russians Again Stop U.S. Convoy En Route to Berlin

cause Soviet border guards insisted that soldiers leave their trucks to be counted. The Americans refused.

The U.S. convoy commander said his convoy was not large enough for such a head count, but the Russians replied, "It is the Soviet and not the Allied authorities who determine convoy processing procedures."

In another Berlin development, East German Communist guards today shot and killed a refugee trying to swim to West Berlin across the Spree River, which forms part of the border.

The refugee was the 55th killed by Communist guards since the Berlin wall was built in August, 1961.

An American officer went to the checkpoint from the East-West German border and told the Russians, "It is the Allies who determine under what circumstances they will order troop passengers to dismount in order to facilitate the verification of the total number of troops in a sepcific convay."

This statement was made on orders of Maj. Gen. James Polk, Berlin's American commandant, an Army announcement said.

Today's holdup could not be attributed to any Soviet misunderstanding of Western Allied processing procedures.

Last Tuesday, the Western Allies informed the Russians when they would dismount. The Americans, British and French drew up a uniform plan and submitted it to the Russians so that all misunderstanding could be ruled out.

But the Soviets today in effect rejected the plan, saying they would decide when soldiers had to dismount.

Polish Pupils Prove Poor in History Exam

MUNICH, Germany (UPI(— American teen-agers apparently have no monopoly on the problem of recalling historical facts.

Radio Free Europe reports that the Warsaw daily newspaper Zycie Warzany recently upbraided Polish history teachers and students because of the results of a history test given 3,000 graduating high school seniors in 69 schools throughout Poland.

The article was entitled "Columbus Discovered the North Pole?"

It reported that in matching questions, Polish students identified Leonidas as a Brazilian football player, Confucius as a reformer in the United States, Spartacus as the leader of an 18th century U.S. rebellion and San Salvador as a battle of Greeks and Romans.

Students also identified the Napoleonic Code with Poland and the Declaration of Rights of Man and Citizens with the United States.

In a review of a book by Mrs. A. Bornholz, who analyzed the test results, the Warsaw newspaper said:

"The final results of the tests were startling. Out of 100 possible points, the national average was 16.9 Not one single pupil out of the 3,000 managed to answer all of the questions correctly. The analysis of the effects of teaching was ruthless."

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Anti-Communists

There are two important (and growing) sectors in opposition to the governmental status quo. One of these is called the anti-communist group and concentrates its efforts on "naming names." It is based on the assumption that there is a vigorous, if not overwhelmingly effective, international conspiracy run by a number of persons who are intent upon ruining the world. The function of this group is to "awake" and "alarm" the American people to the danger in their midst.

This group has a score of points which are emphasized with varying degrees of insistence. Some contend that the real danger to America will appear in the form of a military attack by the Soviet Union. A sub-section feels that the actual attack will be made by Castro under Soviet direction.

However, within this group is a large segment which downgrades the likelihood of conquest of the nation by any foreign power. Instead, this group contends that American politicians have "sold out" to the "conspiracy" and that there will be a military take-over all right, but it will be minus the uniforms of the Red Army. Instead it will be accomplished by "internationalists" (just who these are is not always clear, but many are named) who will topple the government and seize power.

Most of the members of the anti-communist wing believe, or seem to, that the answer to these problems, regardless of where the emphasis is placed, will be in getting "good men" into office. By "good men" is meant almost anyone of any political party who will openly declare his opposition to communism and is well enough informed of the conspiracy to be able to recite a creditable number of names of persons who are "known" communists.

However, there is a small, tho more erudite group within the anti-communist section which believes, or professes to believe, that political action will not solve the problem and that only by study and education can we come to grips with the real threat of the conspirators and offset the damage they would do.

The results of this approach to present-day unrest and confusion are of great interest.

The anti-communists and their co-workers seem to vie with one another in occasional contradiction. On the one hand, they want to strengthen the federal government; to restrict freedom of speech of those who disagree with them; to pass more rigid laws against communists; to have more bombs tested; to spend more money on all military and quasi-military objectives; to enlarge police forces; to invoke all manner of force to compel testimony.

On the other hand, they generally favor repeal of the income tax law; speak up boldly against excessive power presently in the hands of politicians; demand more power for states and less for the general government; object to the jailing of "patriots" while favoring the jailing of "reds"; object to rioting when it is conducted by "pacifists" but assist in rioting when Tito or some other foreign despot is getting red carpet treatment.

In spite of certain areas of divergent thought which tend to cancel out the anti-communist effectiveness, there are certain areas where they stand united.

They oppose Kennedy and the Democratic administration, generally. They believe the greatest danger on earth arises from the conscious manipulation of human energy by conspirators. They want to "expose" communists by name. They are opposed to "welfare" programs. They often favor "police power" invoked and applied against their foes.

Half and Half

Lincoln once stated that this nation could not endure half slave and half free. Perhaps it is time to note that our economy cannot endure half privately owned and managed and half subsidized and federalized.

The Anti-Socialists

The second sector which is in rebellion against the current politico-economic status could generally be classed as anti-socialist rather than anti-communist.

The primary difference between the anti-socialist camp and the anti-communist camp is the matter of emphasis respecting the importance of a conspiracy. The anti-socialist, of whatever degree of conviction, is far more concerned about the drift in this country toward an economic take-over by the government than by any possible threat or combination of threats from overseas.

As a matter of fact, the anti-socialist tends to downgrade the importance of the conspiratorial nature of the problem, contending that if there were no conspiracy at all, the situation would be approximately what it is anyway.

While there is a tendency in the anti-communist camp to connect the threat of the conspiracy, and of communism generally, to Russia, the anti-socialist discounts this connection, too. He argues, and quite accurately, that socialism is an economic theory which has nothing particularly to do with Russia or any other nation, and that it can be and often has been invoked and furthered by American socialists.

The anti-socialist, however, comes far closer to being a sound "practical politician" than the anti-communist. This is to say, anti-socialists are frequently content to band together and to work for minor gains within the framework of either party. They tend to support the idea that there is not going to be a violent revolution of any kind.

Some of them say, in fact, that "the revolution was." They point to the rise of dependency on government and argue that the best way to offset this growth of dependency is to elect men to office who will reduce the size of government and who have principles and will oppose all socialistic measures.

The anti-socialists also oppose the income tax law, but some would repeal it totally and others would ask for some constitutional limit as to the amount of taxes which could legally be assessed against incomes.

A major point of difference between the anti-communists and the anti-socialists is that the anti-socialist would reduce the government in all areas possible, including the police powers or the military.

Whereas the anti-communist often defeats himself by clamoring in the same instant for less government interference and more government spending for anti-communist purposes, the anti-socialist is apt to be more consistent. He will oppose government enlargement on principle, regardless of where the enlargement is to come.

Unfortunately for the anti-socialist, while he means to be consistent his ranks are filled with businessmen and industrialists who oppose socialism unless or until a particular government subsidy involves their own well-being. At this point nearly all of them will accept the government help offered in their particular case, while at the same time objecting to government help as a general rule for others.

Thus, the anti-socialist is apt to defeat himself thru his own private interests and his tendency to look to the government as a protective device even as he asks for it to be reduced in size or driven out of certain areas of human endeavor.

We'll consider more on this problem tomorrow.

Always a Nice Guy!

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Fortunately, for me, I do not know the man, personally. Regardless of what happens he immediately becomes the busiest man in his town, buzzing around, bleeding for all concerned and generally making a nuisance of himself but he's tough to stop since he always aligns himself with a cause in such a fashion as to make opposition appear cruel and heartless. The man has a positive genius for do gooding, whether it makes a lick of sense or not. Of course his do gooding always involves digging into YOUR pockets.

A few days ago an elected public official managed to get himself killed by performing in a manner which can only be classed as unthinking and inefficient. As a matter of fact, from all reports, everybody involved in the fracas did everything the hard way from beginning to end, and the end found the public official and a criminal very dead.

Without taking time out for a deep breath, the nice guy began a campaign to collect contributions for the purpose of building some kind of a memorial to the elected public official. Naturally, the nice guy wouldn't handle the money but he did some fancy crying and bleeding and even went so far as to suggest that the elected public official "died for us."

Evidently the nice guy didn't receive the kind of reaction he expected, in this instance but he didn't quit. He's enlarged his vision, at the expense of the taxpayers, and now wants to build a new county jail which will be a memorial to the deceased elected public official and to all others who have held the same office.

The nice guy believes the present facilities for detaining criminals and those accused constitute a scandal. The facilities are meagre and lacking in an up-to-date appearance and, furthermore, what if you or you or you were tossed into this barbaric clink while completely innocent? How would YOU like to spend a night in such a place? The nice guy wants a new jail and he wants the taxpayers to get busy and build it, forthwith.

Not for an instant does the nice guy imagine that a nice, new jail would bring on an immediate increase in the crime rate; he never thinks of such a thing but facts remain facts, nice guy or not.

During prohibition I frequently found myself unable to shut my tender ears against a lot of conversation involving the criminal element. As a matter of fact, my favorite bootlegger was also a favorite of many discriminating criminals because the bootlegger was smart and never ran afoul of the prohibition enforcers during his lengthy participation as a regular source of supply of fine, good and bathtub alcoholic beverages.

I listened to conversation concerning certain counties which maintained jails in which no self-respecting criminal wished to be incarcerated. Jails which were lacking in comforts usually available were on the black list. It was the consensus of opinion among the knowing criminals that only "stoopid amachures" would attempt to make a dishonest dollar in counties which did not provide decent jail accommodations.

Several sheriffs were regularly damned for being inhospitable. One, in northern California, even refused to let the boys send out for a bottle or magazines. He was an outcast and the criminals looked upon him and his jail with complete disfavor.

Probably you haven't looked at it this way but it's just a matter of simple common sense. Criminals know they may get caught. If a thief feels like doing a little stealing to eke out his social security, or to enable him to get into a sociable crap game, he's smart to do his robbing in an area which provides decent accommodations. I well remember how trusties were permitted to go to a park a couple of blocks from a jail in Southern California where they could play a little poker and talk and pleasantly while away a few sunny afternoons. I remember because I saw them and wondered, even at a rather early age, about the merits of the "system."

So the nice guy is off on another campaign and next week he'll be weeping and bleeding again but he never weeps or bleeds for the taxpayers, even tho he is also a taxpayer. He doesn't mind the price he'll pay as long as everybody thinks he's a nice guy without an enemy in the world. Ho hum.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Houses I'll Never Own

By RUSSELL KIRK

As others collect stamps, so I collect houses. But I am unable to buy many of them. With nearly all, I have to be content with owning them in imagination. Thoreau says that such proprietorship is much better than actual possession: it saves you taxes, repairs, insurance, and all that bother. In his fancy, Thoreau had bought all the farms round Walden Pond and Concord.

Recently I have acquired, in my mind's eye, two more splendid residences. One I discovered the other day in Tangier. It stands upon the cliffs, looking at the windy Atlantic. Neglected terraces tumble down toward the sea: the view is unobstructed. Before the house is a plot of walled garden, with a Moslem shrine or pavilion standing in it; a similar structure stands in the great back garden, a tall pine beside it.

I just called that garden walled, but much of the wall has been tumbled down by the roots of a tree — not a young tree, either — which grew up among the stones. No one has carried away the fallen stones. Were it not for this public gap, one would have to enter the precincts of my mansion by a great Moorish arched gateway, much older than the house itself, and most elaborate and handsome.

It is difficult to guess the age of this white, shuttered house—probably early nineteenth-century, tho conceivably much older. It is large, with double verandahs at the back, where one could sit all day watching the Atlantic. Apparently it has been empty and forgotten for a long while, tho I suspect some corner of it remains inhabited by a Moslem custodian.

If one turns to the left after passing out of the fine gateway of this house, he finds himself in a maze of picturesquely squalid lanes, full of washerwomen and cheerful little girls, which lead toward the Kasbah. These strange lanes are sandwiched between cliff and beach, and have many a curious turning and cul-de-sac. Did I own this mansion, I always would lead my guests to it thru these tiny alleys.

I suspect the house is haunted — I hope so.

The other house which I should like to make mine certainly ought to be haunted, for the last Viking lived there, and his hall is incorporated into the present house, which has not been inhabited for more than a decade. It is for sale now — and were I rich, I would make it mine.

Remote in distance and culture from Tangier, this second house is built upon a seventeen-acre island in the Orkneys, two or three miles off the principal Orkney island of Mainland. Until not many years ago, three farms flourished — well, subsisted — on the little island, but now every inhabitant is gone, except perhaps the ghost of the last Viking.

These are the wildest waters in the world, round the Orkneys. A few weeks ago, a Scottish university student vanished from just such an island, in the Pentland Firth. He had been living alone in a deserted village, bird-watching. When fishermen came to bring his letters, they could not find him; and a day or two later, his empty canoe was washed upon the rocky shore of Caithness.

Well, I suppose one ought to be a Viking to live in solitary splendor upon an Orkney islet; or one ought to be a Moor of ancient lineage to inhabit my white mansion beyond the Kasbah of Tangier. If only I could make myself believe in reincarnation, I'd hope to dwell in these two houses in other lives. They call me.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

To the Editor:

Recently there appeared two letters in your paper critical of the action taken by the Social Action Committee of the Pikes Peak Council of Churches in connection with a recommendation that consideration be given to park and recreation facility improvement.

This action was taken because of the concern that the followers of Christ have for the total well being of those for whom He died (Luke 10:10). No Christian, worthy of the name, would remain silent before forces, laws, influences or environmental factors that would contribute to man's deterioration. What would the writers of these letters say of a physician or a group of physicians who would remain silent if they knew of situations that would be detrimental to the health of a community; or what would they think of engineers who knew that a public structure endangered the lives of those who used it and still said nothing about it?

Granted that this recommendation involves the use of money, but aside from rhetoric, what do they recommend to take its place? Furthermore, money is transitory, but the soul is eternal (Luke 12:17-21). Certainly they must be sufficiently sensitive to beauty that they would not recommend that our city be allowed to deteriorate.

In an age where automation is a fact and leisure has come upon us as a thief in the night, it is important that men agree to promote facilities and programs that will contribute to their mental and social well being.

One of your writers refers to this action as an endorsement of theft. Aside from the fact that this is a LeFevre-ism, and strong language to boot, there is an indication of a lack of faith in constitutional government unworthy of those who continue to be the recipients of its benefits. No system of government is perfect, including our own, and a people will get the kind of government they deserve. Let them continue to be critical of constructive leadership and in time, they will get a leadership that will exploit them. Let them be unconcerned about values, and eventually they will get what is value-less. Let them show no interest in beauty, or order, or justice, and in time they will get ugliness, disorder and injustice.

"Who crucified Christ?" your writer asks. They were those who were not interested in a voice that offered them salvation. They laughed easily and scorned without mercy and without thought, particularly thought (Matthew 27:39-44). Remember the aftermath of the crucifixion; there was upheaval and disorder and darkness (Matthew 27:45-52).

Altho there is no guarantee (and remember that in this world no one can guarantee a thing) that a good park and recreation program will assure our well-being, the fact is that neither will an improved prison, or fire department, or better street system assure the same; but anyone with any moral sense at all is constrained to try to bring about civic improvement. In an imperfect world, with imperfect man, all of us must strive to work together, to have faith in each other, and to believe that those whom we put in office will be a reflection of our better selves, trusting that they will spend public money wisely and bring to pass those improvements and facilities that will contribute to public well being. Any other approach will lead to chaos.

An association with the local Council of Churches is not to be construed as a shifting of "spiritual and financial business over to a local council of religion," but as a willingness for men to cooperate with others to do together those things which cannot be done alone in an effort to be the kind of persons that God wants them to be.

NAVY BALL

To the Editor:

The Naval Forces in Colorado Springs want to take this opportunity of expressing appreciation for the outstanding news coverage carried by the Gazette Telegraph on the Navy Relief Ball. We all sincerely feel that this news coverage was significant in bringing this charity affair to the public attention, and thus instrumental in making this event most successful.

It is my sincere hope that with such local support, this event might well develop into one of the highlights of the social season in Colorado Springs.

May I add my personal thanks to the Gazette Telegraph for its support of the Navy Relief Ball and for the fine coverage of other Navy activities in the past.

SAFETY STICKERS

To the Editor:

In tonight's paper I noticed that Highway Patrol Chief Gilbert Carrel is speaking out in another of his endless "warnings" this time about the necessity of getting "safety stickers" and the penalties involved in not having them, the dangers of unsafe cars, etc., etc., ad nauseum.

While he is about it, why does not Chief Carrel tell the people of Colorado the truth about their vehicle inspection law? Why does he not tell them that those licensed to "inspect" the public's vehicles are NOT required to have any mechanical knowledge whatsoever! Why does he not tell the people that the political hangers-on appointed to enforce the inspection laws, themselves in most cases know so little about the mechanical aspects of a car that it is laughable?

Why does not Chief Carrel tell the people how much the accident and injury statistics have increased, ever since the inspection law was put in force?

How many people — who are required to have their cars inspected — know the requirements to be an inspector?

Well, here is what is required. When a mechanic, or filling station operator, or grease man, or drug store clerk, or housewife (oh, yes, they can all qualify) is to be licensed as an official "inspector," here is what happens.

One of the political appointees who "enforce" the inspection procedures comes into the place of business and here is what follows:

The person to be licensed is handed a car registration slip, or may use the one issued for his or her own car.

The applicant is required to copy the name of car owner, make and year of car, license number of car, and then sign his or her own name, as inspector.

This is all. If the applicant can do this — he or she can be licensed, and from then on is entitled to "inspect" your car and collect the fee. No mechanical knowledge is needed, no experience, nothing.

Just be able to read and write — that's it!

THIS is a safety program?

THIS is why you may be stopped and your "sticker" examined?

THIS helps prevent accidents?

Just read the papers — any papers — and in almost every case of accident, of serious injury, of death, the cause is NOT the lack of safety inspection, for in most cases the serious accidents are caused by a car, probably a late model, in top condition being driven at too high a rate of speed, in a careless manner, or by a drinking driver. Now, just how does the state's graft of "safety inspection" prevent such accidents? I would very much enjoy having Chief Carrel explain this to me.

Question Box

Question No. 364: "Are subsidies by force of government always harmful in the long run?"

Answer: The government has no wealth or property with which to subsidize anyone, that it doesn't take from someone else. Taxation is a form of initiated force and it is hard to imagine how anything can be beneficial that is based on initiated force where some people have privileges that are granted by the government and backed by the army and the police departments.

We have a nice example of subsidies in the field of agriculture, and we can see what a mess it has gotten us into. Now we are obliged to sell wheat to communist countries at less than millers can buy wheat in the United States. In other words, subsidies mean that the workers in the United States are obliged to pay more for bread than the workers in the communist countries where we sell wheat for less than we sell it to millers in this country.

Another nice example of subsidies is the subsidy granted to schools and colleges. When any government grants a subsidy it always controls it or it would not subsidize. It doesn't make any difference whether two people out of three take a vote and force the third to pay for something he doesn't want, especially education, or whether it is 180 million people forcing one or one hundred people to pay for something they do not want. The principle is absolutely the same. Multiplying zero or a crime by a million is still zero or a crime.

We can think of no case where subsidies, in the long run, benefit mankind on this earth.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Allen-Scott Report

Question Why Feet Drag In Probe Lag

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Senator John Williams, R-Del., the "one-man investigating committee" whose caustic charges led to the sensational "Bobby" Baker probe, is zeroing in on another potentially equally explosive case.

It involves a high foreign aid official with an assortment of bank accounts, one of them in Canada, and the strange reluctance of Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Foreign Aid Administrator David Bell to do anything about this official despite a critical FBI report.

This extraordinary affair is being thoroly explored by Senator Williams in preparation for following his course in the mushrooming Baker expose — making the facts public in a blistering Senate speech.

He will have a lot to reveal. Every aspect of the case is exceptional, as follows:

The FBI investigation of this foreign aid official was made at the request of Administrator Bell. Certain information had come to him regarding this assistant's financial relations with a company that has been given millions of dollars in contracts in an area over which the official has considerable authority.

Bell particularly asked the FBI for a thoro scrutiny of reputed trust and pension arrangements the official made with the firm before joining the foreign aid agency.

The FBI completed its inquiry in May, and submitted a comprehensive report to Attorney General Kennedy.

It has been gathering dust on his desk ever since.

In striking contrast to the zeal of the President's brother in vigorously pressing the "Bobby" Baker expose, he has been strangely apathetic about acting on the FBI report on the foreign aid official. Six months have passed, and he is still dragging his feet on it.

MYSTERIOUS SILENCE

Most remarkable aspect of this remarkable affair revolves around the official's mysterious bank account in Canada.

The FBI ascertained he has three bank accounts; two in the U.S. and the other in Canada. This is a sizable holding —more than $160,000. The FBI learned that thru indirect sources.

When the G-men asked the official for access to his Canadian bank account, he admitted its existence but balked at allowing it to be examined — except on one curious condition.

He said he would grant permission if "ordered" to do so by Secretary of State Rusk.

Attorney General Kennedy and Administrator Bell were informed of this. Neither has yet said one word to Rusk about the matter. Whether he has heard about it in some other way is not known.

In any event, nothing has been done about the mysterious Canadian bank account.

There is no clue so far as to the reason for this strange inaction.

Senator Williams has been told it is due to the foreign aid official's "powerful influence and connections in the U.S. and abroad." What and who they are is conjectural.

The official is still holding his high-ranking job, and outwardly is apparently unconcerned about the FBI investigation and its possible reverberations.

These may extend beyond Senator Williams' renowed crusading potency. Three committees are evincing interest in this unusual affair — the Senate Ap- by Senator Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.; the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Miss.; and the House Foreign Aid Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Representative Otto Passman, D-La., long-time militant foe of large-scale foreign aid spending.

All are looking into the case, and Senator William may get a lot of help in blowing it wide open.

LOVE NEST

More sex is due to rear its scandalous head in the "Bobby" Baker investigation. The FBI is investigating a clinic owned by Washingtonians in Puerto Rico. One of the "playgirls" who was on familiar terms with Senate employes gave the FBI considerable information about this clinic. She involved a well-known capital doctor. . .One Senate employe, who once worked in the Senate cloakroom, has told the FBI he has been "warned" against talking. . .It's getting so that it's almost necessary to keep a chart on who is investigating whom. Illustration: State Department security officials are quietly probing the backgrounds and activities of staff members of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which is investigating the State Department. Two members of the State Department's security staff have been assigned to checking up on staff members of the Senate committee. Newsmen, lawyers and others are being questioned about them.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

The Anti-Communists

There are two important (and growing) sectors in opposition to the governmental status quo. One of these is called the anti-communist group and concentrates its efforts on "naming names." It is based on the assumption that there is a vigorous, if not overwhelmingly effective, international conspiracy run by a number of persons who are intent upon ruining the world. The function of this group is to "awake" and "alarm" the American people to the danger in their midst.

This group has a score of points which are emphasized with varying degrees of insistence. Some contend that the real danger to America will appear in the form of a military attack by the Soviet Union. A sub-section feels that the actual attack will be made by Castro under Soviet direction.

However, within this group is a large segment which downgrades the likelihood of conquest of the nation by any foreign power. Instead, this group contends that American politicians have "sold out" to the "conspiracy" and that there will be a military take-over all right, but it will be minus the uniforms of the Red Army. Instead it will be accomplished by "internationalists" (just who these are is not always clear, but many are named) who will topple the government and seize power.

Most of the members of the anti-communist wing believe, or seem to, that the answer to these problems, regardless of where the emphasis is placed, will be in getting "good men" into office. By "good men" is meant almost anyone of any political party who will openly declare his opposition to communism and is well enough informed of the conspiracy to be able to recite a creditable number of names of persons who are "known" communists.

However, there is a small, tho more erudite group within the anti-communist section which believes, or professes to believe, that political action will not solve the problem and that only by study and education can we come to grips with the real threat of the conspirators and offset the damage they would do.

The results of this approach to present-day unrest and confusion are of great interest.

The anti-communists and their co-workers seem to vie with one another in occasional contradiction. On the one hand, they want to strengthen the federal government; to restrict freedom of speech of those who disagree with them; to pass more rigid laws against communists; to have more bombs tested; to spend more money on all military and quasi-military objectives; to enlarge police forces; to invoke all manner of force to compel testimony.

On the other hand, they generally favor repeal of the income tax law; speak up boldly against excessive power presently in the hands of politicians; demand more power for states and less for the general government; object to the jailing of "patriots" while favoring the jailing of "reds"; object to rioting when it is conducted by "pacifists" but assist in rioting when Tito or some other foreign despot is getting red carpet treatment.

In spite of certain areas of divergent thought which tend to cancel out the anti-communist effectiveness, there are certain areas where they stand united. They oppose Kennedy and the Democratic administration, generally. They believe the greatest danger on earth arises from the conscious manipulation of human energy by conspirators. They want to "expose" communists by name. They are opposed to "welfare" programs. They often favor "police power" invoked and applied against their foes.

Half and Half

Lincoln once stated that this nation could not endure half slave and half free. Perhaps it is time to note that our economy cannot endure half privately owned and managed and half subsidized and federalized.

The Anti-Socialists

The second sector which is in rebellion against the current politico-economic status could generally be classed as anti-socialist rather than anti-communist.

The primary difference between the anti-socialist camp and the anti-communist camp is the matter of emphasis respecting the importance of a conspiracy. The anti-socialist, of whatever degree of conviction, is far more concerned about the drift in this country toward an economic take-over by the government than by any possible threat or combination of threats from overseas.

As a matter of fact, the anti-socialist tends to downgrade the importance of the conspiratorial nature of the problem, contending that if there were no conspiracy at all, the situation would be approximately what it is anyway.

While there is a tendency in the anti-communist camp to connect the threat of the conspiracy, and of communism generally, to Russia, the anti-socialist discounts this connection, too. He argues, and quite accurately, that socialism is an economic theory which has nothing particularly to do with Russia or any other nation, and that it can be and often has been invoked and furthered by American socialists.

The anti-socialist, however, comes far closer to being a sound "practical politician" than the anti-communist. This is to say, anti-socialists are frequently content to band together and to work for minor gains within the framework of either party. They tend to support the idea that there is not going to be a violent revolution of any kind.

Some of them say, in fact, that "the revolution was." They point to the rise of dependency on government and argue that the best way to offset this growth of dependency is to elect men to office who will reduce the size of government and who have principles and will oppose all socialistic measures.

The anti-socialists also oppose the income tax law, but some would repeal it totally and others would ask for some constitutional limit as to the amount of taxes which could legally be assessed against incomes.

A major point of difference between the anti-communists and the anti-socialists is that the anti-socialist would reduce the government in all areas possible, including the police powers or the military.

Whereas the anti-communist often defeats himself by clamoring in the same instant for less government interference and more government spending for anti-communist purposes, the anti-socialist is apt to be more consistent. He will oppose government enlargement on principle, regardless of where the enlargement is to come.

Unfortunately for the anti-socialist, while he means to be consistent his ranks are filled with businessmen and industrialists who oppose socialism unless or until a particular government subsidy involves their own well-being. At this point nearly all of them will accept the government help offered in their particular case, while at the same time objecting to government help as a general rule for others.

Thus, the anti-socialist is apt to defeat himself thru his own private interests and his tendency to look to the government as a protective device even as he asks for it to be reduced in size or driven out of certain areas of human endeavor.

We'll consider more on this problem tomorrow.

Always a Nice Guy!

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Fortunately, for me, I do not know the man, personally. Regardless of what happens he immediately becomes the busiest man in his town, buzzing around, bleeding for all concerned and generally making a nuisance of himself but he's tough to stop since he always aligns himself with a cause in such a fashion as to make opposition appear cruel and heartless. The man has a positive genius for do gooding, whether it makes a lick of sense or not. Of course his do gooding always involves digging into YOUR pockets.

A few days ago an elected public official managed to get himself killed by performing in a manner which can only be classed as unthinking and inefficient. As a matter of fact, from all reports, everybody involved in the fracas did everything the hard way from beginning to end, and the end found the public official and a criminal very dead.

Without taking time out for a deep breath, the nice guy began a campaign to collect contributions for the purpose of building some kind of a memorial to the elected public official. Naturally, the nice guy wouldn't handle the money but he did some fancy crying and bleeding and even went so far as to suggest that the elected public official "died for us."

Evidently the nice guy didn't receive the kind of reaction he expected, in this instance but he didn't quit. He's enlarged his vision, at the expense of the taxpayers, and now wants to build a new county jail which will be a memorial to the deceased elected public official and to all others who have held the same office.

The nice guy believes the present facilities for detaining criminals and those accused constitute a scandal. The facilities are meagre and lacking in an up-to-date appearance and, furthermore, what if you or you or you were tossed into this barbaric clink while completely innocent? How would YOU like to spend a night in such a place? The nice guy wants a new jail and he wants the taxpayers to get busy and build it, forthwith.

Not for an instant does the nice guy imagine that a nice, new jail would bring on an immediate increase in the crime rate; he never thinks of such a thing but facts remain facts, nice guy or not.

During prohibition I frequently found myself unable to shut my tender ears against a lot of conversation involving the criminal element. As a matter of fact, my favorite bootlegger was also a favorite of many discriminating criminals because the bootlegger was smart and never ran afoul of the prohibition enforcers during his lengthy participation as a regular source of supply of fine, good and bathtub alcoholic beverages.

I listened to conversation concerning certain counties which maintained jails in which no self-respecting criminal wished to be incarcerated. Jails which were lacking in comforts usually available were on the black list. It was the consensus of opinion among the knowing criminals that only "stoopid amachures" would attempt to make a dishonest dollar in counties which did not provide decent jail accommodations.

Several sheriffs were regularly damned for being inhospitable. One, in northern California, even refused to let the boys send out for a bottle or magazines. He was an outcast and the criminals looked upon him and his jail with complete disfavor.

Probably you haven't looked at it this way but it's just a matter of simple common sense. Criminals know they may get caught. If a thief feels like doing a little stealing to eke out his social security, or to enable him to get into a sociable crap game, he's smart to do his robbing in an area which provides decent accommodations. I well remember how trusties were permitted to go to a park a couple of blocks from a jail in Southern California where they could play a little poker and talk and pleasantly while away a few sunny afternoons. I remember because I saw them and wondered, even at a rather early age, about the merits of the "system."

So the nice guy is off on another campaign and next week he'll be weeping and bleeding again but he never weeps or bleeds for the taxpayers, even tho he is also a taxpayer. He doesn't mind the price he'll pay as long as everybody thinks he's a nice guy without an enemy in the world. Ho hum.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Houses I'll Never Own

By RUSSELL KIRK

As others collect stamps, so I collect houses. But I am unable to buy many of them. With nearly all, I have to be content with owning them in imagination. Thoreau says that such proprietorship is much better than actual possession: it saves you taxes, repairs, insurance, and all that bother. In his fancy, Thoreau had bought all the farms round Walden Pond and Concord.

Recently I have acquired, in my mind's eye, two more splendid residences. One I discovered the other day in Tangier. It stands upon the cliffs, looking at the windy Atlantic. Neglected terraces tumble down toward the sea: the view is unobstructed. Before the house is a plot of walled garden, with a Moslem shrine or pavilion standing in it; a similar structure stands in the great back garden, a tall pine beside it.

I just called that garden walled, but much of the wall has been tumbled down by the roots of a tree — not a young tree, either — which grew up among the stones. No one has carried away the fallen stones. Were it not for this public gap, one would have to enter the precincts of my mansion by a great Moorish arched gateway, much older than the house itself, and most elaborate and handsome.

It is difficult to guess the age of this white, shuttered house—probably early nineteenth-century, tho conceivably much older. It is large, with double verandahs at the back, where one could sit all day watching the Atlantic. Apparently it has been empty and forgotten for a long while, tho I suspect some corner of it remains inhabited by a Moslem custodian.

If one turns to the left after passing out of the fine gateway of this house, he finds himself in a maze of picturesquely squalid lanes, full of washerwomen and cheerful little girls, which lead toward the Kasbah. These strange lanes are sandwiched between cliff and beach, and have many a curious turning and cul-de-sac. Did I own this mansion, I always would lead my guests to it thru these tiny alleys.

I suspect the house is haunted — I hope so.

The other house which I should like to make mine certainly ought to be haunted, for the last Viking lived there, and his hall is incorporated into the present house, which has not been inhabited for more than a decade. It is for sale now — and were I rich, I would make it mine.

Remote in distance and culture from Tangier, this second house is built upon a seventeen-acre island in the Orkneys, two or three miles off the principal Orkney island of Mainland. Until not many years ago, three farms flourished — well, subsisted — on the little island, but now every inhabitant is gone, except perhaps the ghost of the last Viking.

These are the wildest waters in the world, round the Orkneys. A few weeks ago, a Scottish university student vanished from just such an island, in the Pentland Firth. He had been living alone in a deserted village, bird-watching. When fishermen came to bring his letters, they could not find him; and a day or two later, his empty canoe was washed upon the rocky shore of Caithness.

Well, I suppose one ought to be a Viking to live in solitary splendor upon an Orkney islet; or one ought to be a Moor of ancient lineage to inhabit my white mansion beyond the Kasbah of Tangier. If only I could make myself believe in reincarnation, I'd hope to dwell in these two houses in other lives. They call me.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

To the Editor:

Recently there appeared two letters in your paper critical of the action taken by the Social Action Committee of the Pikes Peak Council of Churches in connection with a recommendation that consideration be given to park and recreation facility improvement.

This action was taken because of the concern that the followers of Christ have for the total well being of those for whom He died (Luke 10:10). No Christian, worthy of the name, would remain silent before forces, laws, influences or environmental factors that would contribute to man's deterioration. What would the writers of these letters say of a physician or a group of physicians who would remain silent if they knew of situations that would be detrimental to the health of a community; or what would they think of engineers who knew that a public structure endangered the lives of those who used it and still said nothing about it?

Granted that this recommendation involves the use of money, but aside from rhetoric, what do they recommend to take its place? Furthermore, money is transitory, but the soul is eternal (Luke 12:17-21). Certainly they must be sufficiently sensitive to beauty that they would not recommend that our city be allowed to deteriorate.

In an age where automation is a fact and leisure has come upon us as a thief in the night, it is important that men agree to promote facilities and programs that will contribute to their mental and social well being.

One of your writers refers to this action as an endorsement of theft. Aside from the fact that this is a LeFevre-ism, and strong language to boot, there is an indication of a lack of faith in constitutional government unworthy of those who continue to be the recipients of its benefits. No system of government is perfect, including our own, and a people will get the kind of government they deserve. Let them continue to be critical of constructive leadership and in time, they will get a leadership that will exploit them. Let them be unconcerned about values, and eventually they will get what is value-less. Let them show no interest in beauty, or order, or justice, and in time they will get ugliness, disorder and injustice.

"Who crucified Christ?" your writer asks. They were those who were not interested in a voice that offered them salvation. They laughed easily and scorned without mercy and without thought, particularly thought (Matthew 27:39-44). Remember the aftermath of the crucifixion; there was upheaval and disorder and darkness (Matthew 27:45-52).

Altho there is no guarantee (and remember that in this world no one can guarantee a thing) that a good park and recreation program will assure our well-being, the fact is that neither will an improved prison, or fire department, or better street system assure the same; but anyone with any moral sense at all is constrained to try to bring about civic improvement. In an imperfect world, with imperfect man, all of us must strive to work together, to have faith in each other, and to believe that those whom we put in office will be a reflection of our better selves, trusting that they will spend public money wisely and bring to pass those improvements and facilities that will contribute to public well being. Any other approach will lead to chaos.

An association with the local Council of Churches is not to be construed as a shifting of "spiritual and financial business over to a local council of religion," but as a willingness for men to cooperate with others to do together those things which cannot be done alone in an effort to be the kind of persons that God wants them to be.

NAVY BALL

To the Editor:

The Naval Forces in Colorado Springs want to take this opportunity of expressing appreciation for the outstanding news coverage carried by the Gazette Telegraph on the Navy Relief Ball. We all sincerely feel that this news coverage was significant in bringing this charity affair to the public attention, and thus instrumental in making this event most successful.

It is my sincere hope that with such local support, this event might well develop into one of the highlights of the social season in Colorado Springs.

May I add my personal thanks to the Gazette Telegraph for its support of the Navy Relief Ball and for the fine coverage of other Navy activities in the past.

SAFETY STICKERS

To the Editor:

In tonight's paper I noticed that Highway Patrol Chief Gilbert Carrel is speaking out in another of his endless "warnings" this time about the necessity of getting "safety stickers" and the penalties involved in not having them, the dangers of unsafe cars, etc., etc., ad nauseum.

While he is about it, why does not Chief Carrel tell the people of Colorado the truth about their vehicle inspection law? Why does he not tell them that those licensed to "inspect" the public's vehicles are NOT required to have any mechanical knowledge whatsoever! Why does he not tell the people that the political hangers-on appointed to enforce the inspection laws, themselves in most cases know so little about the mechanical aspects of a car that it is laughable?

Why does not Chief Carrel tell the people how much the accident and injury statistics have increased, ever since the inspection law was put in force?

How many people — who are required to have their cars inspected — know the requirements to be an inspector?

Well, here is what is required. When a mechanic, or filling station operator, or grease man, or drug store clerk, or housewife (oh, yes, they can all qualify) is to be licensed as an official "inspector," here is what happens.

One of the political appointees who "enforce" the inspection procedures comes into the place of business and here is what follows:

The person to be licensed is handed a car registration slip, or may use the one issued for his or her own car.

The applicant is required to copy the name of car owner, make and year of car, license number of car, and then sign his or her own name, as inspector.

This is all. If the applicant can do this — he or she can be licensed, and from then on is entitled to "inspect" your car and collect the fee. No mechanical knowledge is needed, no experience, nothing.

Just be able to read and write — that's it!

THIS is a safety program?

THIS is why you may be stopped and your "sticker" examined?

THIS helps prevent accidents?

Just read the papers — any papers — and in almost every case of accident, of serious injury, of death, the cause is NOT the lack of safety inspection, for in most cases the serious accidents are caused by a car, probably a late model, in top condition being driven at too high a rate of speed, in a careless manner, or by a drinking driver. Now, just how does the state's graft of "safety inspection" prevent such accidents? I would very much enjoy having Chief Carrel explain this to me.

Question Box

Question No. 364: "Are subsidies by force of government always harmful in the long run?"

Answer: The government has no wealth or property with which to subsidize anyone, that it doesn't take from someone else. Taxation is a form of initiated force and it is hard to imagine how anything can be beneficial that is based on initiated force where some people have privileges that are granted by the government and backed by the army and the police departments.

We have a nice example of subsidies in the field of agriculture, and we can see what a mess it has gotten us into. Now we are obliged to sell wheat to communist countries at less than millers can buy wheat in the United States. In other words, subsidies mean that the workers in the United States are obliged to pay more for bread than the workers in the communist countries where we sell wheat for less than we sell it to millers in this country.

Another nice example of subsidies is the subsidy granted to schools and colleges. When any government grants a subsidy it always controls it or it would not subsidize. It doesn't make any difference whether two people out of three take a vote and force the third to pay for something he doesn't want, especially education, or whether it is 180 million people forcing one or one hundred people to pay for something they do not want. The principle is absolutely the same. Multiplying zero or a crime by a million is still zero or a crime.

We can think of no case where subsidies, in the long run, benefit mankind on this earth.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

Allen-Scott Report

ROBERT ALLEN

PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Senator John Williams, R-Del., the "one-man investigating committee" whose caustic charges led to the sensational "Bobby" Baker probe, is zeroing in on another potentially equally explosive case.

It involves a high foreign aid official with an assortment of bank accounts, one of them in Canada, and the strange reluctance of Attorney General Robert Kennedy and Foreign Aid Administrator David Bell to do anything about this official despite a critical FBI report.

This extraordinary affair is being thoroly explored by Senator Williams in preparation for following his course in the mushrooming Baker expose — making the facts public in a blistering Senate speech.

He will have a lot to reveal. Every aspect of the case is exceptional, as follows:

The FBI investigation of this foreign aid official was made at the request of Administrator Bell. Certain information had come to him regarding this assistant's financial relations with a company that has been given millions of dollars in contracts in an area over which the official has considerable authority.

Bell particularly asked the FBI for a thoro scrutiny of reputed trust and pension arrangements the official made with the firm before joining the foreign aid agency.

The FBI completed its inquiry in May, and submitted a comprehensive report to Attorney General Kennedy.

It has been gathering dust on his desk ever since.

In striking contrast to the zeal of the President's brother in vigorously pressing the "Bobby" Baker expose, he has been strangely apathetic about acting on the FBI report on the foreign aid official. Six months have passed, and he is still dragging his feet on it.

MYSTERIOUS SILENCE

Most remarkable aspect of this remarkable affair revolves around the official's mysterious bank account in Canada.

The FBI ascertained he has three bank accounts; two in the U.S. and the other in Canada. This is a sizable holding —more than $160,000. The FBI learned that thru indirect sources.

When the G-men asked the official for access to his Canadian bank account, he admitted its existence but balked at allowing it to be examined — except on one curious condition.

He said he would grant permission if "ordered" to do so by Secretary of State Rusk.

Attorney General Kennedy and Administrator Bell were informed of this. Neither has yet said one word to Rusk about the matter. Whether he has heard about it in some other way is not known.

In any event, nothing has been done about the mysterious Canadian bank account.

There is no clue so far as to the reason for this strange inaction.

Senator Williams has been told it is due to the foreign aid official's "powerful influence and connections in the U.S. and abroad." What and who they are is conjectural.

The official is still holding his high-ranking job, and outwardly is apparently unconcerned about the FBI investigation and its possible reverberations.

These may extend beyond Senator Williams' renowed crusading potency. Three committees are evincing interest in this unusual affair — the Senate Ap- by Senator Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.; the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, headed by Senator James Eastland, D-Miss.; and the House Foreign Aid Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Representative Otto Passman, D-La., long-time militant foe of large-scale foreign aid spending.

All are looking into the case, and Senator William may get a lot of help in blowing it wide open.

LOVE NEST

More sex is due to rear its scandalous head in the "Bobby" Baker investigation. The FBI is investigating a clinic owned by Washingtonians in Puerto Rico. One of the "playgirls" who was on familiar terms with Senate employes gave the FBI considerable information about this clinic. She involved a well-known capital doctor. . .One Senate employe, who once worked in the Senate cloakroom, has told the FBI he has been "warned" against talking. . .It's getting so that it's almost necessary to keep a chart on who is investigating whom. Illustration: State Department security officials are quietly probing the backgrounds and activities of staff members of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, which is investigating the State Department. Two members of the State Department's security staff have been assigned to checking up on staff members of the Senate committee. Newsmen, lawyers and others are being questioned about them.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Bluff Him, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of six children. My husband and I are both in our forties. For some time now my husband has been getting up and leaving for work two hours before he is supposed to be there, and it only takes him 15 minutes to get to work. I have asked him several times why he leaves so early, and he tells me he can't sleep! But when he gets up he hurries to get dressed and he rushes through his breakfast like he is going to be late for something? These actions are making me suspicious. I would like to get the truth out of him. Should I follow him? —SUSPICIOUS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: No. Just say you did.

DEAR ABBY: I am a second semester freshman in college and I am married. We have told no one other than our parents. Mine are furious with me and have refused to claim me any longer or pay for the rest of my education, although they can well afford it. My husband is a sophomore and he can't afford to pay for my schooling. His parents would like to help out, but they cannot afford to send their own son to college. (He is there on a scholarship.) On top of everything, I think I am pregnant. With our limited funds we have had to move into a run-down, one-room apartment. I know there is no easy solution, but can you give me any advice at all? —DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: Are you two living together? If so, and you've "told no one" you are married, what do your friends think? If you are living apart, and your condition becomes apparent — what then? Also, if you are registered in college under separate names, you are violating the college's regulations—and will be booted out, dough or no dough. You had better start all over again—at another college. If you can't get a student aid grant, or a scholarship, or help from home, or are unable to work because of pregnancy, you had better forget about higher education for now, if not forever.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to your "CONFIDENTIAL TO MARK: Milk is not that cheap any more. You'd be ahead to buy the cow." I beg to differ with you. Milk is still your cheapest food. It has not increased more than two or three cents per quart in the past ten years. Everything ese has gone up almost double. Have you ever raised a cow? A dairyman has at least $1500 invested in every cow, so I don't understand how you can recommend buying a cow. Milk is still cheaper. —A DAIRYMAN IN WISCONSIN

In mathematics the addition of one and one will always equal two. But in pharmacy this is not true all the time. Every medicine has its own particular use but sometimes two medicines working in combination will produce a third different result.

There are many such medicines and we are familiar with all their functions. When a physician gives you two prescriptions in treating a condition, this combined result could be what he is striving for. Always have every prescription you are given filled without delay and take as directed.

DEAR DEPRESSED: Are you two living together? If so, and you've "told no one" you are married, what do your friends think? If you are living apart, and your condition becomes apparent — what then? Also, if you are registered in college under separate names, you are violating the college's regulations—and will be booted out, dough or no dough. You had better start all over again—at another college. If you can't get a student aid grant, or a scholarship, or help from home, or are unable to work because of pregnancy, you had better forget about higher education for now, if not forever.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to your "CONFIDENTIAL TO MARK: Milk is not that cheap any more. You'd be ahead to buy the cow." I beg to differ with you. Milk is still your cheapest food. It has not increased more than two or three cents per quart in the past ten years. Everything ese has gone up almost double. Have you ever raised a cow? A dairyman has at least $1500 invested in every cow, so I don't understand how you can recommend buying a cow. Milk is still cheaper. —A DAIRYMAN IN WISCONSIN

WHEN ONE PLUS ONE DOES NOT EQUAL TWO

In mathematics the addition of one and one will always equal two. But in pharmacy this is not true all the time. Every medicine has its own particular use but sometimes two medicines working in combination will produce a third different result.

There are many such medicines and we are familiar with all their functions. When a physician gives you two prescriptions in treating a condition, this combined result could be what he is striving for. Always have every prescription you are given filled without delay and take as directed.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription at your convenience. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain – without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all – this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) – the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOIS ECRUSE

Dear Heloise:

My husband wears starched uniforms to work. I have to wash and iron six each week.

Please tell me what I can do about the mud, rain and soil stains on the legs of his trousers. When it rains, these stains sometimes go as high as the knee when he gets in and out of his truck. —Wife

Dear Wife:

Try using plain, old "boiled" starch.

After taking the garment from the washing machine and while the garment is "still" thoroughly wet . . . dip the pants into warm boiled starch "up to the knee" (you can go further if you want to), then proceed as usual.

When these mud and dirt "stains" get on the trousers thereafter they will stick to the starch and not work themselves into the fibers of the fabric.

Next time you wash the trousers . . . when you wash the starch out the dirt will also leave. The starch acts as an absorbent. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's a helpful hint that I think cat owners will love, especially if they keep a sand box.

Instead of using a cardboard box filled with sand, buy a plastic dishpan. It works much better. The bottom will not fall out when you empty and refill it. It's cleaner, can be washed and re-used. Also, it looks much nicer in your home, and it's far more sanitary. —Mrs. Lynn Lackey

NOTICE

Ladies, I would like to caution you "not" to use cleaning fluids on upholstery fabrics if you have foam rubber cushions. Sometimes it deteriorates the rubber inside the cushions. We have had many complaints on this. —Heloise

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

If you are afraid of duplicating gifts to a new baby . . . Why not present it with a bankbook made out in its own name? —Mrs. William Splinter

Dear Heloise:

For those who send little children to school with peanut butter sandwiches:

Try keeping a loaf of bread in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Remove the few slices you need each morning and spread the peanut butter on the frozen bread.

The bread never tears, never squashes, and the peanut butter spreads easily. By the time the kids get ready to eat lunch the sandwiches look as if they were professionally made. —Mother of 10 kids

Bless you, Mommy! And "all" 10 siblings.

Frozen bread is fantabulous for this. Try it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Snap clothespins are very good to give school children to carry in their coat pockets so they can fasten their mittens, rubber overshoes, etc., together.

There is room on the clothespin to write the name of your child, the teacher and the room number for easy identification in case they are lost. I use large wooden spring - type clothespins for this.

Dear Heloise:

A TV tray (on legs) is a great help when placed near the sewing machine to keep your scissors, extra bobbins, thread and material nearby.

Tape the instruction sheet from your pattern to the "edge" of the TV tray, so step by step instructions may be followed without getting up from the sewing machine! —Stella Getzen

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Personalines

Written and produced entirely by juniors in honor of their freshman "little sisters," the show is always a closely guarded secret until its performance. Miss Hawthorne is an English major at the Massachusette women's college. She is a graduate of the Hockaday School, Dallas Texas.

The show, a musical comedy entitled "See You in Room 208, N'est-ce Pas?" described what happens at a fashionable resort when the guests include a retired thief interested in creating the perfect crime and a mystery writer gathering authentic material for a book. Miss Hawthorne, as owner and manager of the spa, had one of the leading roles.

Turkeys Are Plentiful

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Even more turkeys this year for Thanksgiving, predict the marketing experts of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. That means about 1 1-3 billion pounds, ready - to - cook weight, a little more than last year.

Fresh Cranberry Nut Bread
(1 loaf)

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon double acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract
1 egg
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
½ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup chopped citron
½ cup fresh orange juice
1½ cups fresh cranberries

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add soda to butter or margarine and mix well. Gradually blend in sugar and pure vanilla extract. Beat in egg.

Stir in orange rind, nuts and citron. Add flour mixture alternately with orange juice. Put cranberries through the food chopper, using the coarse blade. Stir into the dough. Turn into a well - greased, lightly floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated, moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour and 25 minutes or until done. Remove from pan and cool. This bread is best made the day before serving.

Spiced Fresh Cranberry Relish

Put 4 cups fresh cranberries through a food chopper, using the medium blade. Grate the rind of one medium orange and add. Peel orange, cut into sections, dice and stir into the mixture. Add 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon and ½ teaspoon ground cloves. Chill at least 24 hours before using. Serve with poultry or meats.

You can buy small covered tin molds for those steamed puddings. Fine for quick reheating and individual servings!

NO JOKING MATTER

COLLINSVILLE, Okla. (UPI) —Service station operator Coy Miller thought it was a joke when a man wearing a sack over his head and carrying a gun walked into his station and demanded money.

COURT TRAFFIC LIGHTS

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Special lights to let lawyers know when their argument time is up go into use today in the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The system, operated by the court clerk, works like a traffic light. A yellow caution light flashes when an attorney's allotted time is running out and a red light signals lawyers to stop.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters. adv.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOIS ECRUSE

Dear Heloise:

My husband wears starched uniforms to work. I have to wash and iron six each week.

Please tell me what I can do about the mud, rain and soil stains on the legs of his trousers. When it rains, these stains sometimes go as high as the knee when he gets in and out of his truck. —Wife

Dear Wife:

Try using plain, old "boiled" starch.

After taking the garment from the washing machine and while the garment is "still" thoroughly wet . . . dip the pants into warm boiled starch "up to the knee" (you can go further if you want to), then proceed as usual.

When these mud and dirt "stains" get on the trousers thereafter they will stick to the starch and not work themselves into the fibers of the fabric.

Next time you wash the trousers . . . when you wash the starch out the dirt will also leave. The starch acts as an absorbent. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here's a helpful hint that I think cat owners will love, especially if they keep a sand box.

Instead of using a cardboard box filled with sand, buy a plastic dishpan. It works much better. The bottom will not fall out when you empty and refill it. It's cleaner, can be washed and re-used. Also, it looks much nicer in your home, and it's far more sanitary. —Mrs. Lynn Lackey

NOTICE

Ladies, I would like to caution you "not" to use cleaning fluids on upholstery fabrics if you have foam rubber cushions. Sometimes it deteriorates the rubber inside the cushions. We have had many complaints on this. —Heloise

Letter of Laughter:

Dear Heloise:

If you are afraid of duplicating gifts to a new baby . . . Why not present it with a bankbook made out in its own name? —Mrs. William Splinter

Dear Heloise:

For those who send little children to school with peanut butter sandwiches:

Try keeping a loaf of bread in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator. Remove the few slices you need each morning and spread the peanut butter on the frozen bread.

The bread never tears, never squashes, and the peanut butter spreads easily. By the time the kids get ready to eat lunch the sandwiches look as if they were professionally made. —Mother of 10 kids

Bless you, Mommy! And "all" 10 siblings.

Frozen bread is fantabulous for this. Try it. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Snap clothespins are very good to give school children to carry in their coat pockets so they can fasten their mittens, rubber overshoes, etc., together.

There is room on the clothespin to write the name of your child, the teacher and the room number for easy identification in case they are lost. I use large wooden spring-type clothespins for this.

Dear Heloise:

A TV tray (on legs) is a great help when placed near the sewing machine to keep your scissors, extra bobbins, thread and material nearby.

Tape the instruction sheet from your pattern to the "edge" of the TV tray, so step by step instructions may be followed without getting up from the sewing machine! —Stella Getzen

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

Written and produced entirely by juniors in honor of their freshman "little sisters," the show is always a closely guarded secret until its performance. Miss Hawthorne is an English major at the Massachusette women's college. She is a graduate of the Hockaday School, Dallas Texas.

The show, a musical comedy entitled "See You in Room 208, N'est-ce Pas?" described what happens at a fashionable resort when the guests include a retired thief interested in creating the perfect crime and a mystery writer gathering authentic material for a book. Miss Hawthorne, as owner and manager of the spa, had one of the leading roles.

Grape experts report the year has seen a 50 per cent increase in the number of acres of grapes treated with gibberellin — a vitamin-like substance.

Turkeys Are Plentiful

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Even more turkeys this year for Thanksgiving, predict the marketing experts of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. That means about 1 1-3 billion pounds, ready-to-cook weight, a little more than last year.

Fresh Cranberry Nut Bread (1 loaf)

- 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon double acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- ½ cup chopped nuts
- ¼ cup chopped citron
- ½ cup fresh orange juice
- 1½ cups fresh cranberries

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Add soda to butter or margarine and mix well. Gradually blend in sugar and pure vanilla extract. Beat in egg.

Stir in orange rind, nuts and citron. Add flour mixture alternately with orange juice. Put cranberries through the food chopper, using the coarse blade. Stir into the dough. Turn into a well-greased, lightly floured 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a preheated, moderate oven (350 degrees) 1 hour and 25 minutes or until done. Remove from pan and cool. This bread is best made the day before serving.

Spiced Fresh Cranberry Relish

Put 4 cups fresh cranberries through a food chopper, using the medium blade. Grate the rind of one medium orange and add. Peel orange, cut into sections, dice and stir into the mixture. Add 2 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon and ½ teaspoon ground cloves. Chill at least 24 hours before using. Serve with poultry or meats.

You can buy small covered tin molds for those steamed puddings. Fine for quick reheating and individual servings!

NO JOKING MATTER

COLLINSVILLE, Okla. (UPI) —Service station operator Coy Miller thought it was a joke when a man wearing a sack over his head and carrying a gun walked into his station and demanded money.

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—Special lights to let lawyers know when their argument time is up go into use today in the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The system, operated by the court clerk, works like a traffic light. A yellow caution light flashes when an attorney's allotted time is running out and a red light signals lawyers to stop.

Spartans' Stunning Win Deadlocks Big 10 Race

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's happy time in East Lansing, Mich. these days with the town folks and Michigan State students joining in "California, Here We Come."

This pleasant situation for the Spartan rooters developed after Duffy Daugherty was given a vote of confidence as the Michigan State coach a week ago Friday. John Hannah, president of Michigan State, said the university board of trustees in an unprecedented move had pledged to keep Daugherty "for at least the next five years." There had been rumors Duffy was heading for Notre Dame.

The very next day unranked Michigan State knocked off ninth-ranked Northwestern 15-7. Last Saturday, State walloped eighth-ranked Wisconsin 30-13. The Spartans now are tied with second-ranked Illinois and Ohio State, now No. 9, for the lead in the Big Ten Conference and very much in the running for the Rose Bowl.

Michigan State's climb back into the limelight was one of the features on college football's first November Saturday. The mighty Texas Longhorns, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll and one of the three remaining unbeaten and untied major teams, made it seven straight with a 17-12 victory over Southern Methodist.

The victory strengthened Texas' hopes of landing a spot in the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns can virtually sew up the bid this week by beating Baylor, with its passing star Don Trull, in a vital Southwest Conference struggle. Baylor remained tied with Texas in the SWC by thumping Texas Christian 32-13.

Fifth-ranked Auburn and unranked Princeton, the other major teams with perfect slates, each won their sixth straight. Princeton, headed for the Ivy League title, whomped Brown 34-13 while Auburn, tied with Mississippi for the lead in the Southeastern Conference, beat Florida 19-0. This week Princeton plays at Harvard and Auburn battles Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss.

Once-tied Illinois, No. 2 in the AP poll, remained unbeaten with a 41-21 romp against Purdue, Michigan State's opponent this week. Mississippi, No. 3, thumped Louisiana State 37-3 and Roger Staubach led No. 4 Navy to a 35-14 romp over Notre Dame.

The sixth-ranked Oklahoma Sooners enjoyed a 35-0 breeze against Colorado, but Alabama, No. 7, and Ohio State, No. 9, barely edged Mississippi State 20-19 and Iowa 7-3, respectively. The 10th-ranked Pitt Panthers rebounded from their Navy defeat with a second half comeback that humbled Syracuse 53-27.

This Saturday, in addition to the Baylor-Texas and Auburn-Miss. State games, Michigan is at Illinois, Tampa at Mississippi, Maryland at Navy, Iowa State at Oklahoma, Northwestern at Wisconsin, Penn State at Ohio State and Pitt at Notre Dame. Alabama has an open date, its game with Miami having been postponed to Dec. 7.

Southern California, which just missed making the Top Ten last week, took a 22-7 licking from Washington in an important Big Six game on the Pacific Coast. The victory put the Huskies in the lead ahead of the Trojans, California, UCLA, Washington State and Stanford in the race to decide the Big Ten's opponent in the Rose Bowl.

Big O Still the Mostest

By United Press International

Jerry Lucas is living up to his college reputation, but it's still Oscar Robertson who's the man with the mostest on the Cincinnati Royals.

The Big O came up with three crucial baskets and a free throw in the final minutes of play Sunday night to provide the Royals with a 95-93 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers at Dayton, Ohio. It was the only game scheduled in the National Basketball Association.

Robertson, who led all scorers with 25 points, popped in three long jump shots to frustrate a late 76er rally and keep them in the Eastern Division basement. Cincinnati is second with a 6-4 record.

Lucas, the former Ohio State great now in his first professional campaign, had another good night with 16 points and 25 rebounds before fouling out. In the end, though, it was Robertson who came to the rescue.

Philadelphia was led by Lee Shaffer with 22 points.

SPUTTERING FLIGHT—Chicago Bears' fullback Rick Casares (35) proved it didn't pay to take to the air with this second quarter effort in Sunday's game with Baltimore. At top his legs are cut out from under him by Colt linebacker Jackie Burkett (55). The tackle flipped him upside down (below). Identifiable Colts are tackle Fred Miller (76), end Gino Marchetti (89) and back Andy Nelson (80). The Bears are center Mike Pyle (50) and back Johnny Morris (47). Chicago won, 17-7. (AP Wirephoto)

And with Taylor cutting through the line, the Packers are cutting through the opposition and heading for a possible shot at an unprecedented third consecutive National Football League championship.

Taylor, regaining his strength after a hepatitis siege and injuries to his knee, groin and ankles, had his best day of the season Sunday, barreling for 141 yards in 30 carries and scoring one touchdown as the Packers crushed Pittsburgh 33-14 for their seventh straight victory.

The victory kept the Packers, whose only loss was an opening game defeat by Chicago, tied with the Bears for the Western Division lead, both at 7-1. The Bears again made the most of a tight defense and ball control and downed Baltimore 17-7.

Cleveland, which suffered its first loss last week, bounced back with a 23-17 victory over Philadelphia built on Jim Brown's 223-yard rushing output and three field goals by veteran Lou Groza. The Browns are one game ahead of New York.

The Giants rode Y.A. Tittle's four touchdown passes to a 38-21 walloping of St. Louis, Detroit's Earl Morrall passed for four scores in a 45-7 walloping of Sa Francisco, Don Meredith connected for four payoff pitches as Dallas drubbed Washington 35-20 and Minnesota defeated Los Angeles 21-13 on two second half touchdown strikes by Fran Tarkenton.

In the American League, Buffalo edged Denver 30-28, and Oakland nipped Kansas City 10-7 Sunday. Boston whipped Houston 45-3 Friday night and San Diego crushed New York 53-7 Saturday night.

The Steelers bolted into a 7-0 lead against the Packers with only 11 seconds gone as Gary Ballman returned the opening kickoff 93 yards and Dick Hoak cracked two yards for a touchdown. But it was all Green Bay after that. Three of Jerry Kramer's four field goals gave the Packers a 9-7 halftime lead before Taylor plunged one yard for a third period touchdown that put it out of reach.

The Bears scored their first touchdown when Billy Wade plunged one yard after connecting with Joe Marconi on a 6-yard pass play. Joe Fortunato's interception of a Johnny Unitas pass led to Chicago's clincher, a 16-yard flip from Wade to Rick Casares. Lenny Moore scored for the Colts on a 25-yard run.

Brown started the Browns rolling with a 62-yard touchdown run inthe firstquarter, then spent the rest of the game setting up Groza's field goals. Groza connected from 9, 22 and 34 yards out. Brown brought his league-leading rushing total to 1,194—333 yards short of his 1958 record—and surpassed the 1,000-yard mark for the fifth time in his seven-year career.

Tittle struck for more touchdown passes against the Cardinals than the St. Louis defense had allowed in seven previous games. Three came in the second period as he connected with Frank Gifford on a 41-yarder and hit Aaron Thomas with 38 and one yarders. A 40-yard TD strike to Del Shofner rounded out his performance.

Morrall gained the most yardage in his career against the 49ers, completing 24 of 33 passes for 330 yards. Three of his T passes went to Terry Barr on plays covering 10, 21 and 6 yards. The other was a 10-yarder to Tom Watkins, who also scored on a five-yard run.

Interceptions by Mike Gaechter, who lumbered 86 yards with one, and Cornell Green led to two of the Cowboys touchdowns. Meredith, meanwhile, sliced the Redskins defense for 13 and 12 yard TD passes to Franke Clarke and a pair of one-yarders to Lee Folkins.

The Rams built a 10-7 lead on Carver Shannon's 99-yard kickoff return and a 47-yard field goal by Danny Villanueve before Tarkenton started the Vi- He hit Jerry Reichow with a 10-yarder, then clinched it with a 27-yarder to Paul Flatley.

Western State Cops RMC Crown With Mines Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Western State has wound up its play in the Rocky Mountain Conference with undisputed possession of the 1963 football title.

Western State meets Arizona State College at Gunnison Saturday and ends the season against Weber at Ogden, Utah Nov. 16.

Mines drove to the Mountaineers nine in the first period where they were stopped and Western State scored a touchdown and a field goal in the second quarter to get all the points needed for victory. A 61-yard pass play from Bob Wimmer to Greg Cory produced the Mines only score in the last quarter.

Adams State has a chance to sew up second place in the conference in Saturday's game against Mines at Golden.

A second string quarterback, Jim Paronto, threw four touchdown passes as the Indians scalped Colorado College 47-6 Saturday. Paronto replaced Carl Fetters who was sidelined for too much protesting to the officials.

Colorado College will play at Doane, Neb., this week.

Colorado State College, had little trouble in handing New Mexico Highlands its seventh straight loss 55-0. The Bears, led, by quarterback Ed Pittock, scored three touchdowns in the first 20 minutes.

Sooners Face Tough Foes in Title Chase

Big Eight Conference
By WILLIAM COOK
United Press International

Remember when Oklahoma was handed the Big Eight Conference football title almost without a struggle? Not so this year.

Coach Bud Wilkinson's defending champion Oklahoma team still is favored to win the 1963 crown, but there are those who believe Nebraska or Missouri will upset the Sooners this season.

Oklahoma rolled over Colorado 35-0 Saturday to boost its conference mark to 3-0. Nebraska edged Missouri 13 - 12 before 50,500 fans at Columbia, the largest crowd ever to witness a sporting event in Missouri.

Nebraska leads the league with a 4-mark, and Missouri is third at 3-1.

The Sooners now begin the tough, homestretch of the 1963 season. This weekend, they meet a good Iowa State (3-2) club. Then it's Missouri and Nebraska, and both are road games.

It is conceivable the Big eight race will end in a three-way tie for the top spot. But even if Oklahoma repeats as champion, the 1963 season must be rated as one of the closest campaigns in decades.

In other league games last Saturday, Kansas downed Kansas State 34-0 and Iowa State edged Oklahoma State 33-28 in a surprising, free - scoring contest.

Kansas now has a 2-2 league record. Oklahoma State (0-4) and Kansas State (0-5) meet Nov. 23 in a game that probably will decide the cellar position.

Games on tap this Saturday, in addition to Iowa State at Oklahoma, include Kansas at Nebraska, Missouri at Colorado (2-3), and a pair of non - conference games with Tulsa at Oklahoma State and Kansas State at Texas Tech.

The Missouri-Nebraska game last week, a meeting of two unbeaten clubs, was the headliner. While the Cornhuskers were superior, it was Missouri's failure to complete a two - point conversion attempt in the fourth period that decided the game.

Johnson A Standout

Dennis Claridge, Nebraska's magnificent quarterback, and

Husker halfback Rudy Johnson each scored a touchdown. Johnson kicked the crucial extra point and was the game's standout rusher. He carried 19 times for 126 yards.

For underdog Missouri, the hero was Ken Boston. The little back recovered a Tiger fumble in the end zone for the first score. He caught a 53 - yard touchdown pass from quarterback Gary Lane for the other.

Speedy Gale Sayers of Kansas, the nation's leading rusher going into Saturday's game, scored a pair of touchdowns against Kansas State. He picked up 79 yards on 15 carries.

The Iowa State - Oklahoma State tussle was the most startling game of the weekend. The Cowboys, who haven't won a game all season, were expected to be run off the field by Iowa State. Poke quarterback Mike Miller passed for 201 yards against the Cyclones.

But Miller's passing could not overcome Cyclone fullback Tom Vaughn's bull - like rushes, which accounted for three touchdowns.

Spartans' Stunning Win Deadlocks Big 10 Race

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's happy time in East Lansing, Mich. these days with the town folks and Michigan State students joining in "California, Here We Come."

This pleasant situation for the Spartan rooters developed after Duffy Daugherty was given a vote of confidence as the Michigan State coach a week ago Friday. John Hannah, president of Michigan State, said the university board of trustees in an unprecedented move had pledged to keep Daugherty "for at least the next five years." There had been rumors Duffy was heading for Notre Dame.

The very next day unranked Michigan State knocked off ninth-ranked Northwestern 15-7. Last Saturday, State walloped eighth-ranked Wisconsin 30-13. The Spartans now are tied with second-ranked Illinois and Ohio State, now No. 9, for the lead in the Big Ten Conference and very much in the running for the Rose Bowl.

Michigan State's climb back into the limelight was one of the features on college football's first November Saturday. The mighty Texas Longhorns, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll and one of the three remaining unbeaten and untied major teams, made it seven straight with a 17-12 victory over Southern Methodist.

The victory strengthened Texas' hopes of landing a spot in the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns can virtually sew up the bid this week by beating Baylor, with its passing star Don Trull, in a vital Southwest Conference struggle. Baylor remained tied with Texas in the SWC by thumping Texas Christian 32-13.

Fifth-ranked Auburn and unranked Princeton, the other major teams with perfect slates, each won their sixth straight. Princeton, headed for the Ivy League title, whomped Brown 34-13 while Auburn, tied with Mississippi for the lead in the Southeastern Conference, beat Florida 19-0. This week Princeton plays at Harvard and Auburn battles Mississippi State at Jackson, Miss.

Once-tied Illinois, No. 2 in the AP poll, remained unbeaten with a 41-21 romp against Purdue, Michigan State's opponent this week. Mississippi, No. 3, thumped Louisiana State 37-3 and Roger Staubach led No. 4 Navy to a 35-14 romp over Notre Dame.

The sixth-ranked Oklahoma Sooners enjoyed a 35-0 breeze against Colorado, but Alabama, No. 7, and Ohio State, No. 9, barely edged Mississippi State 20-19 and Iowa 7-3, respectively. The 10th-ranked Pitt Panthers rebounded from their Navy defeat with a second half comeback that humbled Syracuse 53-27.

This Saturday, in addition to the Baylor-Texas and Auburn-Miss. State games, Michigan is at Illinois, Tampa at Mississippi, Maryland at Navy, Iowa State at Oklahoma, Northwestern at Wisconsin, Penn State at Ohio State and Pitt at Notre Dame. Alabama has an open date, its game with Miami having been postponed to Dec. 7.

Southern California, which just missed making the Top Ten last week, took a 22-7 licking from Washington in an important Big Six game on the Pacific Coast. The victory put the Huskies in the lead ahead of the Trojans, California, UCLA, Washington State and Stanford in the race to decide the Big Ten's opponent in the Rose Bowl.

Big O Still the Mostest

By United Press International

Jerry Lucas is living up to his college reputation, but it's still Oscar Robertson who's the man with the mostest on the Cincinnati Royals.

The Big O came up with three crucial baskets and a free throw in the final minutes of play Sunday night to provide the Royals with a 95-93 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers at Dayton, Ohio. It was the only game scheduled in the National Basketball Association.

Robertson, who led all scorers with 25 points, popped in three long jump shots to frustrate a late 76er rally and keep them in the Eastern Division basement. Cincinnati is second with a 6-4 record.

Lucas, the former Ohio State great now in his first professional campaign, had another good night with 16 points and 25 rebounds before fouling out. In the end, though, it was Robertson who came to the rescue.

Philadelphia was led by Lee Shaffer with 22 points.

Pirates Nose Past Gremlins, 6-0

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

St. Mary's, a team which has enjoyed a prosperous year thanks primarily to a business-like ground game, coined a bit of late season profit from the forward pass Sunday afternoon at Wasson Stadium when a fourth quarter aerial provided the Pirates with a 6-0 triumph over stubborn St. Francis.

The contest, which actually belonged to the respective defensive units most of the afternoon, finished the Bucs' annual journey thru the Denver Parochial League. However, they will have to wait for the outcome of next week's Regis-Mullen game to determine whether their 7-2 record will award them third place or a tie for second in the final standings. If Regis defeats Mullen as expected, the Mustangs and Pirates will share the runner-up slot but a Mullen upset would drop the Bucs to third.

St. Francis has been billed as a rapidly improving member of the DPL and the Gremlins were certainly all of that Sunday. Encouraged by mistakes that halted a couple of early Pirate drives, the Grems stood toe-to-toe with the St. Mary's defenses thru the final three periods.

Final statistics provided additional proof as to the closeness of the conflict. St. Francis picked up 124 yards rushing, St. Mary's 123. However, the Pirates had a 54-21 edge in passing yardage with slightly more than half of that coming during the payoff drive in the final period.

The turning point came at a time when Pirate chances were beginning to look a little bleak. The Gremlins, who had not made a mistake as far as a penalty or fumble up to that point, had driven to the Bucs' 22 when John Van Honr suddently came up with a bobble for the Pirates at the 34.

Two plays later St. Mary's was short of a first down when a personal foul penalty against the Gremlins moved the ball across midfield to the St. Francis 42. Two plays later St. Mary's was at the same stripe when reserve quarterback Mike Fischer fired a pass up the middle which Dave Grantz grabbed on a fine catch at the 24.

Dave Adamson ripped to a first down at the 14 on the following play but the Pirates appeared to be stalled once again when three cracks into the line moved them no closer than the 10. However, with great poise, quarterback Jerry Knauf shot the ball goalward on fourth down where Grantz picked it off and fell into the end zone. Tony O'Conner's try for extra point sailed wide to the left.

That came with 7:48 remaining and St. Francis threatened to counteract the touchdown with a plugging drive downfield that yielded a pair of first downs and had carried to the Pirates' 40 with more than four minutes left. Suddenly, on first-and-10 at that point, the Gremlins chose to go to the air and three straight incompletions followed. When quarterback Jim Johnson was stopped at 34 on a run from punt formation, St. Mary's took over and there were no more serious threats.

Following the game's opening kickoff, St. Mary's drove to the St. Francis 42 before being forced to punt. Minutes later a drive had carried to the Gremlins' 29 before a lost fumble wiped it out. St. Francis' only serious march of the first half ended at the Pirates' 20 when a fourth down pass play failed late in the second quarter. There were no more threats until the Gremlins' push that ended with the crucial fumble at the end of the third period.

St. Mary's winds up its second straight successful season under Coach Chuck Haering next Saturday afternoon when the Pirates' move across town to battle powerful Pikes Peak League champion, Cheyenne Mountain. A victory in that one would leave the Bucs with an 8-2 record for the campaign.

State Major Grid Team Defeated

By United Press International

All three of Colorado's major college football teams took it on the chin Saturday as Oklahoma smashed Colorado, 35-0, Army whipped Air Force 14-10 and New Mexico stunned Colorado State University 25-0.

The eighth-ranked Sooners of Oklahoma used a thundering ground game to rout the injury-riddled Buffaloes in Norman. The Buffs got across the midfield stripe only three times and their deepest penetration got them to Oklahoma's 19-yard line before the gun ended the drive.

The only thing that prevented greater carnage was butter-fingered ball handling on the part of Oklahoma. It was Colorado's fifth loss in seven starts.

The Falcons of Air Force met the Black Knights of the Hudson at Soldier Field in Chicago and Army's bruising ground tactics throttled the Falcons' vaunted aerial attack. It was the Air Force Academy's third unsuccessful bid for an inter-service football victory. The Falcons tied Army 13-13 in 1959 and were clobbered by Navy 35-3 in 1960.

Up in Fort Collins, New Mexico University completely smothered win-hungry CSU by rolling up a 19-0 score in the first half, then hanging on to win 25-0.

The Rams couldn't get a drive started until the third quarter when they passed into Lobo territory for the first time in the game. The drive ended on the 25 when two passes failed.

CSU threatened three times in the final period against Lobo reserves, but couldn't get the ball past the three-yard line, where they were stopped by the final gun.

It was the Rams' fifth loss in seven starts.

Bruins Topple Detroit; Howe Fails to Set Record

Gordie Howe is having as much trouble breaking the National Hockey League's all-time goal-scoring record as he did tying it.

Goal No. 545 eluded Detroit's star winger again Sunday night as the Wings lost to the Boston Bruins 4-1. Howe also was shut out Saturday night as the Wings lost to the Montreal Canadiens 5-1.

Howe, who went several weeks before he managed to tie Maurice Richard's all-time goal scoring record of 544, managed to get off only two shots on the Boston net because of Leo Boivin's close checks.

After their victory on home ice Saturday, the Canadiens invaded New York and beat the Rangers 5-3 in Sunday's other scheduled NHL game. The victory moved Montreal into a tie for second with the Toronto Maple Leafs, who lost to first-place Chicago 2-0 Saturday.

Substitute Montreal goalie Charley Hodge, who replaced the injured Gump Worsley, provived the turning point of the Canadiens-Rangers game. He made a great stop on Don Marshall's penalty shot in the second period. At the time the score was tied 2-2. After that the Canadiens pulled away on two goals by Giles Treblay.

Pirates Nose Past Gremlins, 6-0

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

St. Mary's, a team which has enjoyed a prosperous year thanks primarily to a business-like ground game, coined a bit of late season profit from the forward pass Sunday afternoon at Wasson Stadium when a fourth quarter aerial provided the Pirates with a 6-0 triumph over stubborn St. Francis.

The contest, which actually belonged to the respective defensive units most of the afternoon, finished the Bucs' annual journey thru the Denver Parochial League. However, they will have to wait for the outcome of next week's Regis-Mullen game to determine whether their 7-2 record will award them third place or a tie for second in the final standings. If Regis defeats Mullen as expected, the Mustangs and Pirates will share the runner-up slot but a Mullen upset would drop the Bucs to third.

Al Geiberger Rallies To Win Almaden Open

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — "Every time you hear a rumor on a golf course, forget it," advises Al Geiberger.

While his own game slumped during the final round of the $25,000 Almaden Open, rumors flew around Al's ears how his four-stroke lead had disintegrated. He double-bogied the 14th hole and bogied the 17th.

"I thought I'd blown the whole thing," Geiberger said.

But coming from the final fairway the former University of Southern California star got the right word. He needed a birdie to win.

"I sure don't know how I got it," Geiberger recalled. But he planted a No. 4 iron shot four feet from the pin. After long deliberation he holed the birdie putt and beat amateur Dick Lotz and veteran Dutch Harrison by a stroke and won $3,500.

Geiberger managed only a 37-37—74 on his final round over the 7,045-yard, par 36-36—72 Almaden Golf and Country Club course.

Lotz and Harrison, meanwhile, fired 69s after starting the day six strokes off the pace. Jay Hebert, four back when the round began, challenged Geiberger early in the day but wound up at 72 and 279.

Geiberger had carded 69-67-67 the first three days.

Dieringer Cops Golden State Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI)— Dieringer, a stock car driver comparatively unfamiliar with twisting road courses, solved the Riverside Raceway Sunday for the checkered flag in the $41,000 Golden State 400-mile stock car race.

"I haven't done much road racing," said Dieringer, Charlotte, N.C., but the 38-year-old driver said it was the "first race I've ever won in NASCAR racing" in two years of competing. Dieringer averaged 91.645 miles an hour in a 1963 Mercury.

U.S. Netters Take Davis Cup Lead

By HENRY BRADSHER

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Wimbledon champion Chuck McKinley scored a 10-8, 6-8, 6-2, 1-6, 6-0 victory over India's Ramanthan Krishnan today to give the United States a 5-0 sweep in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals.

In the other singles match, Martin Riessen of Evanston, Ill., subbing for Dennis Ralston, won over Premjit Lall 6-3, 2-6, 6-0, 6-1.

Ralston, who teamed with McKinley in clinching the series on Sunday, turned up with a blistered racket hand.

The U.S. team sewed up the inter-zone final against India Sunday when Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston, a pair of collegians, beat Premjit Lall and Jaidip Mukerjea in doubles 6-8, 6-3, 12-10, 6-4.

McKinley previously had beaten Lall and Ralston had won over India's No. 1 ace, Ramanathan Krishnan, in the opening singles Saturday.

With a 3-0 lead in the best-of-five match series, the final two singles today became mere formality. Ralston played Lall and McKinley met Krishnan.

The Americans took off immediately afterward for Australia where they will meet the cup-holding Australians in the Challenge Round at Adelaide Dec. 26-28. They'll probably play in a couple of preliminary tournaments.

The United States has won the cup only twice since 1950, both times in major upsets, in 1954 and 1958. They have been shut out of the challenge round the last three years.

Lamonica Arm Guides Bills Back on Path Toward Title

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Write

Rookie quarterback Daryle Lamonica, who's had difficulty keeping his car on the right path, steered Buffalo back on the road toward the Eastern Division title in the American Foolball League the first time they let him at the wheel.

Pressed into service when starter Jackie Kemp was injured in the second quarter Sunday, Lamonica connected with Glenn Bass on a 74-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter before hitting Cookie Gilchrist with a 35-yarder that clinched the Bills' 30-28 victory over Denver.

Lamonica, who two weeks ago escaped series injury in an auto accident, wound up the day with nine completions in 17 attempts for 211 yards in his first chance at running the club for any appreciable length of time.

The victory boosted the Bills' record to 4-4-1 and pushed them back into the struggle for Eastern honors. Boston and Houston are tied for the top spot with 5-4 records following the Patriots' walloping of the Oilers Friday night. New York is last, but still in contention, at 3-4-1.

The Jets were overwhelmed 53-7 by the Western Division leading San Diego Saturday night as veteran quarterback Tobin Rote put on an outstanding one-man show for the Chargers, completing 21 of 29 passes for 369 yards and three touchdowns while plunging a yard for another score.

The Chargers, 6-2, lead the West by 1½ games over the Oakland Raiders, who brought their record to 5-4 by edging Kansas City 10-7 on a league record 85-yard punt return by Claude Gibson in the fourth quarter.

Lamonica, who starred at Notre Dame as a collegian, got able assistance in his first big pro test from Gilchrist and Mack Yoho. Gilchrist gained 125 yards in 26 carries while Yoho kicked a 22-yard field goal that provided the margin of victory. Denver rookie Don Breaus fired four TD passes, 45 and 27 yarders to Bill Groman, a 43-yarder to Bob Scarpitto and a 70-yarder to Lionel Taylor.

Oakland's Raiders got off to a 3-0 lead on a 10-yard field goal by Mike Mercer in the second period but Kansas City moved in front before the half on Abner Haynes' one-yard plunge. Then, in the final quarter, Gibson hauled in a punt on the 15, raced down the sidelines and eluded a fiving tackle by Eddie Wilson as he crossed with the deciding TD.

The 35-year-old Rote made effective use of Lance Alworth against the Jets, hitting the fleet flanker with five long passes for 180 yards, including a 28-yard touchdown. Rote's other touchdown passes came on a 16-yarder to Paul Lowe and a 14-yarder to Dave Kocourek. Lowe also scored on an 11-yard run.

Broncos Fall Short Again Despite Passing of Breaux

By FRANK PITMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Buffalo and Denver traded long distance scoring passes but it was the 22-yard field goal of Mack Yoho that gave Buffalo a 30-28 victory in their American Football League game Sunday.

The sparkling passing duel matched two reserve quarterbacks, Don Breaux of Denver and Daryle Lamonica of Buffalo.

Breaux took over in the second quarter after starter Mickey Slaughter failed to take the Broncos into scoring territory. Breaux, 23, rookie from McNeese State of Louisiana, flipped TD passes covering 70, 45, 43 and 27 yards against the porous Buffalo defense.

Lamonica, 22, rookie from Notre Dame, grabbed the controls of the Buffalo team after regular quarterback Jack Kemp was decommissioned in the second quarter on a hard tackle by Denver's 290-pound defensive tackle, Isaac Lassiter. Kemp suffered a pinched nerve in the rush that threw him for a 22 yard loss.

Denver was trailing 7-0 in the second period when Breaux came in and promptly pitched scoring strikes of 45 and 27 yards to Bill Groman, who got so far away from the Buffalo secondary that he was almost out of sight.

Buffalo recaptured the lead in the third period on Yoho's field goal and Lamonica's 74-yard TD pass to Glenn Bass.

Breaux' 43-yard TD pass to Bob Scarpitto put Denver within two points at 23-21 early in the fourth period before Lamonica teamed on a 35-yard scoring pass to Cookie Gilchrist for Buffalo's last tally.

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Mrs. Allison Choate of Rye, N.Y., climaxed an uphill struggle with a birdie putt on the 22nd hole of a playoff Saturday to win the USGA Senior Women's Amateur golf title.

Mrs. Choate downed defending champ Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., after the two ladies tied at the end of the regulation 54-holes on Friday and then at the end of an 18-hole playoff Saturday.

Arizona Takes Over First Place in WAC

By DICK STUART
Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Arizona football team certainly lives up to its fight song, "Bear Down Arizona."

At least the Wildcats did in a 15-7 victory over Wyoming Saturday to take over first place in the Western Athletic Conference. It was the WAC's major upset of the season.

Arizona, 4-3, frequently disappointing this fall, now has a 2-0 conference record. Wyoming 5-2 over-all, is 2-1.

The Wildcats, who entertain Idaho, 4-3, Saturday, used a great defense along with a safety and a 69-yard touchdown scamper by halfback Floyd Hudlow to ruin the Cowboys.

Hudlow earned the Wildcats a 7-7 halftime tie by grabbing an eight-yard scoring pass from quarterback Bill Brechler in the second period.

The Wildcats went ahead on a safety by smothering Wyoming fullback Wayne Linton in the end zone. On the ensuing free kick, Hudlow applied the clincher.

But it was a great defense that really won for Arizona. The Cowboys and previously brilliant sophomore quarterback Tom Wilkinson could gain just 215 yards. Wilkinson, the WAC's passing and total offense leader, completed only three of seven aerials for 42 yards.

Elsewhere, Arizona State University, 5-1, dumped Utah 3-4, in another WAC thriller, 30-22. In nonconference games, New Mexico, 3-3, rapped Colorado State University 25-0, while Brigham Young, 1-5, dropped a 26-0 decision to Utah State.

Saturday, New Mexico will entertain Wyoming, A-State visits San Jose State, 3-4, Utah tries Army, 6-1 at West Point and BYU travels to George Washington University, 1-6.

A-State defeated Utah on brief moments of defensive strength and because halfback Charley Taylor and quarterbacks John Jacobs and John Torok were equal to the Ute passing combination of quarterback Gary Hertzfeldet and end Roy Jefferson.

Taylor tallied three touchdowns, on runs of eight and 33 yards and a 17-yard pass from Jacobs. Between them, Jacobs and Torok, completed 12 of 16 passes for 170 yards.

Hertzfeldt hit eight of 16 aerials' for 225 yards, with Jefferson gathering in three tosses for 109 yards.

A-State now has a 1-0 WAC record, but can't win the championship because it doesn't play enough league games. Utah is 2-2.

Fullback Bucky Stallings led New Mexico's effort against Colorado State. He scored a pair of touchdowns as the Lobos moved at will. The Aggies surrendered 367 yards as they suffered their 31st defeat in 33 games and 18th straight loss to a WAC team.

Utah State quarterback Bill Munson ruined BYU by completing 19 of 30 passes for 225 yards and two touchdowns.

Chiefs, Outlaws Post Wins in Carson Loop

Bristling defensive play highlighted victories by the 3rd Brigade Chiefs and defending Champion Special Troops Outlaws to open the second round of play in the Fort Carson Football League.

The Chiefs evened the score against their arch rival 1st Brigade Trojans Sunday in winning 14-0 while the Outlaws had little trouble in disposing of the Support Command Gladiators 36-0 Saturday night.

The Chiefs returned the opening kickoff to the 33 and marched 67 yards on 11 plays for the first touchdown with Grady Lowe racing in for the final seven yards.

After stopping the Trojans on the first three downs after the kickoff, the Chiefs got a big break when the pass from center on fourth down sailed over the kicker's head and was downed on the one-yard-line. Clarence Neal went over for the second and as it turned out, last touchdown on the first play.

The Trojans stopped two other Chief drives on the five-yard line, but only had one threat of their own blunted on the two-foot line early in the final period. The Chiefs had 14 first downs and 212 total yards, 170 of them on the ground while the Trojans had seven first downs and 115 total yards.

A stiff Outlaw defense threw the Gladiators for -22 yards on the ground while intercepting five passes and permitting only four completions in 28 pass attempts for 34 yards in starting where they left off in the first round of play.

Kendredge McNiel ran 20 yards for the first Outlaw TD in the opening quarter and Herb Halliwell threw a 25-yard scoring strike to James Brown to start the second period the next time the Outlaws got the ball.

After the Gladiators failed to move, the Outlaw defense got in the scoring column as Clifton Grove ran back a punt for 60 yards. Substitute fullback Andrew Wilson burst through the middle for five yards and a fourth straight touchdown to clinch the win. Bill Whitehead booted a 23-yard field goal and Brown scored again on a four-yard plunge in the second half.

McNiel had 80 yards on six carries while Jerry Hodges netted 62 yards on four carries to pace the Outlaw ground attack which gained 281 of the total of 343 yards.

Lothridge Sets NCAA FG Mark

By MIKE BARRON
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Saturday was the day of the field goal in Southeastern Conference football with one kicker shattering a national record, another tying the old record and still another challenging the former mark.

The record was the NCAA career field goal mark set by Ed Dyas of Auburn in 1960. When Dyas graduated from Auburn he had 17 three-pointers to his credit.

Billy Lothridge, Georgia Tech's 21-year-old, do-it-all quarterback, tied Dyas' record and beat it on the same day, and then added to his own record with still another field goal.

Lothridge's record-breaking kick electrified the homecoming crowd of 52,000 at Grant Field in Atlanta, adding a bit of drama to Tech's 30-6 victory over Duke. With one second remaining in the first half, his 38-yard boot against the wind cleared the crossbar by about a yard. The gun sounded with the ball still in the air.

A few plays earlier, Lothridge had tied the national record with a 31-yard effort, also against the wind, which barely cleared the bar. He added to his record with another against-the-wind kick of 33 yards in the final quarter. His 19th career kick was his 10th of the year.

While Lothridge was setting a field goal record, the man who replaced Dyas as Auburn's place kicking specialist, 22-year-old Woody Woodall, was tying the old one in the 19-0 victory over Florida.

Woodall, a 6-foot-1, 178-pound senior, got Auburn off to a good start against the Gators with a 37-yard field goal in the first quarter, and made it 6-0 in the second quarter with the 17th of his career, a 28-yarder.

Woodall has kicked four field goals this season and has four games yet to play, while Lothridge has only three.

Still another assault was made on the record Saturday by Alabama's 21-year-old place-kicker Tim Davis. He booted one 43 yards in the first quarter of the Crimson Tide's 20-19 victory over Mississippi State, and added his 16th, a 21-yarder, with 30 seconds left in the first half.

Oilers' Defensive End Sidelined for Season

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers learned Sunday from X rays that the fractured jaw which defensive end Don Floyd suffered in the 45-3 loss to Boston will keep him out all season.

Wyoming Frosh Take Time Off

Head coach Bill Baker said his ball-control cowbabies "probably" would have today and Tuesday off, and maybe longer, before he calls them back to the practice gridiron to prepare for a Nov. 16 meeting with the Colorado State U. frosh at Fort Collins, Colo.

Baker said he was pleased with the team's six touchdown performance. The outcome avenged last year's only loss by a Wyoming frosh crew since 1958 when the Sterling, Colo., Northeastern team won 19-6 on its own field.

Al Geiberger Rallies To Win Almaden Open

By DICK BARNES

While his own game slumped during the final round of the $25,000 Almaden Open, rumors flew around Al's ears how his four-stroke lead had disintegrated. He double-bogied the 14th hole and bogied the 17th.

But coming from the final fairway the former University of Southern California star got the right word. He needed a birdie to win.

"I sure don't know how I got it," Geiberger recalled. But he planted a No. 4 iron shot four feet from the pin. After long deliberation he holed the birdie putt and beat amateur Dick Lotz and veteran Dutch Harrison by a stroke and won $3,500.

Broncos Fall Short Again Despite Passing of Breaux

By FRANK PITMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Buffalo and Denver traded long distance scoring passes but it was the 22-yard field goal of Mack Yoho that gave Buffalo a 30-28 victory in their American Football League game Sunday.

The sparkling passing duel matched two reserve quarterbacks, Don Breaux of Denver and Daryle Lamonica of Buffalo.

Breaux took over in the second quarter after starter Mickey Slaughter failed to take the Broncos into scoring territory. Breaux, 23, rookie from McNeese State of Louisiana, flipped TD passes covering 70, 45, 43 and 27 yards against the porous Buffalo defense.

Lamonica, 22, rookie from Notre Dame, grabbed the controls of the Buffalo team after regular quarterback Jack Kemp was decommissioned in the second quarter on a hard tackle by Denver's 290-pound defensive tackle, Isaac Lassiter. Kemp suffered a pinched nerve in the rush that threw him for a 22 yard loss.

Denver was trailing 7-0 in the second period when Breaux came in and promptly pitched scoring strikes of 45 and 27 yards to Bill Groman, who got so far away from the Buffalo secondary that he was almost out of sight.

Buffalo recaptured the lead in the third period on Yoho's field goal and Lamonica's 74-yard TD pass to Glenn Bass.

Breaux' 43-yard TD pass to Bob Scarpitto put Denver within two points at 23-21 early in the fourth period before Lamonica teamed on a 35-yard scoring pass to Cookie Gilchrist for Buffalo's last tally.

Denver rookie Don Breaus fired four TD passes, 45 and 27 yarders to Bill Groman, a 43-yarder to Bob Scarpitto and a 70-yarder to Lionel Taylor.

Mrs. Choate Wins USGA Golf Title

DELRAY BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —Mrs. Allison Choate of Rye, N.Y., climaxed an uphill struggle with a birdie putt on the 22nd hole of a playoff Saturday to win the USGA Senior Women's Amateur golf title.

Mrs. Choate downed defending champ Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., after the two ladies tied at the end of the regulation 54-holes on Friday and then at the end of an 18-hole playoff Saturday.

Arizona Takes Over First Place in WAC

By DICK STUART
Associated Press Sports Writer

The University of Arizona football team certainly lives up to its fight song, "Bear Down Arizona."

At least the Wildcats did in a 15-7 victory over Wyoming Saturday to take over first place in the Western Athletic Conference. It was the WAC's major upset of the season.

Arizona, 4-3, frequently disappointing this fall, now has a 2-0 conference record. Wyoming 5-2 over-all, is 2-1.

The Wildcats, who entertain Idaho, 4-3, Saturday, used a great defense along with a safety and a 69-yard touchdown scamper by halfback Floyd Hudlow to ruin the Cowboys.

Hudlow earned the Wildcats a 7-7 halftime tie by grabbing an eight-yard scoring pass from quarterback Bill Brechler in the second period.

The Wildcats went ahead on a safety by smothering Wyoming fullback Wayne Linton in the end zone. On the ensuing free kick, Hudlow applied the clincher.

But it was a great defense that really won for Arizona. The Cowboys and previously brilliant sophomore quarterback Tom Wilkinson could gain just 215 yards. Wilkinson, the WAC's passing and total offense leader, completed only three of seven aerials for 42 yards.

Elsewhere, Arizona State University, 5-1, dumped Utah 3-4, in another WAC thriller, 30-22. In nonconference games, New Mexico, 3-3, rapped Colorado State University 25-0, while Brigham Young, 1-5, dropped a 26-0 decision to Utah State.

Saturday, New Mexico will entertain Wyoming, A-State visits San Jose State, 3-4, Utah tries Army, 6-1 at West Point and BYU travels to George Washington University, 1-6.

A-State defeated Utah on brief moments of defensive strength and because halfback Charley Taylor and quarterbacks John Jacobs and John Torok were equal to the Ute passing combination of quarterback Gary Hertzfeldet and end Roy Jefferson.

Taylor tallied three touchdowns, on runs of eight and 33 yards and a 17-yard pass from Jacobs. Between them, Jacobs and Torok, completed 12 of 16 passes for 170 yards.

Hertzfeldt hit eight of 16 aerials' for 225 yards, with Jefferson gathering in three tosses for 109 yards.

A-State now has a 1-0 WAC record, but can't win the championship because it doesn't play enough league games. Utah is 2-2.

Fullback Bucky Stallings led New Mexico's effort against Colorado State. He scored a pair of touchdowns as the Lobos moved at will. The Aggies surrendered 367 yards as they suffered their 31st defeat in 33 games and 18th straight loss to a WAC team.

Utah State quarterback Bill Munson ruined BYU by completing 19 of 30 passes for 225 yards and two touchdowns.

Chiefs, Outlaws Post Wins in Carson Loop

Bristling defensive play highlighted victories by the 3rd Brigade Chiefs and defending Champion Special Troops Outlaws to open the second round of play in the Fort Carson Football League.

The Chiefs evened the score against their arch rival 1st Brigade Trojans Sunday in winning 14-0 while the Outlaws had little trouble in disposing of the Support Command Gladiators 36-0 Saturday night.

The Chiefs returned the opening kickoff to the 33 and marched 67 yards on 11 plays for the first touchdown with Grady Lowe racing in for the final seven yards.

After stopping the Trojans on the first three downs after the kickoff, the Chiefs got a big break when the pass from center on fourth down sailed over the kicker's head and was downed on the one-yard-line. Clarence Neal went over for the second and as it turned out, last touchdown on the first play.

The Trojans stopped two other Chief drives on the five-yard line, but only had one threat of their own blunted on the two-foot line early in the final period. The Chiefs had 14 first downs and 212 total yards, 170 of them on the ground while the Trojans had seven first downs and 115 total yards.

A stiff Outlaw defense threw the Gladiators for -22 yards on the ground while intercepting five passes and permitting only four completions in 28 pass attempts for 34 yards in starting where they left off in the first round of play.

Kendredge McNiel ran 20 yards for the first Outlaw TD in the opening quarter and Herb Halliwell threw a 25-yard scoring strike to James Brown to start the second period the next time the Outlaws got the ball.

After the Gladiators failed to move, the Outlaw defense got in the scoring column as Clifton Grove ran back a punt for 60 yards. Substitute fullback Andrew Wilson burst through the middle for five yards and a fourth straight touchdown to clinch the win. Bill Whitehead booted a 23-yard field goal and Brown scored again on a four-yard plunge in the second half.

McNiel had 80 yards on six carries while Jerry Hodges netted 62 yards on four carries to pace the Outlaw ground attack which gained 281 of the total of 343 yards.

Lothridge Sets NCAA FG Mark

By MIKE BARRON
Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Saturday was the day of the field goal in Southeastern Conference football with one kicker shattering a national record, another tying the old record and still another challenging the former mark.

The record was the NCAA career field goal mark set by Ed Dyas of Auburn in 1960. When Dyas graduated from Auburn he had 17 three-pointers to his credit.

Billy Lothridge, Georgia Tech's 21-year-old, do-it-all quarterback, tied Dyas' record and beat it on the same day, and then added to his own record with still another field goal.

Lothridge's record-breaking kick electrified the homecoming crowd of 52,000 at Grant Field in Atlanta, adding a bit of drama to Tech's 30-6 victory over Duke. With one second remaining in the first half, his 38-yard boot against the wind cleared the crossbar by about a yard. The gun sounded with the ball still in the air.

A few plays earlier, Lothridge had tied the national record with a 31-yard effort, also against the wind, which barely cleared the bar. He added to his record with another against-the-wind kick of 33 yards in the final quarter. His 19th career kick was his 10th of the year.

While Lothridge was setting a field goal record, the man who replaced Dyas as Auburn's place kicking specialist, 22-year-old Woody Woodall, was tying the old one in the 19-0 victory over Florida.

Woodall, a 6-foot-1, 178-pound senior, got Auburn off to a good start against the Gators with a 37-yard field goal in the first quarter, and made it 6-0 in the second quarter with the 17th of his career, a 28-yarder.

Woodall has kicked four field goals this season and has four games yet to play, while Lothridge has only three.

Still another assault was made on the record Saturday by Alabama's 21-year-old place-kicker Tim Davis. He booted one 43 yards in the first quarter of the Crimson Tide's 20-19 victory over Mississippi State, and added his 16th, a 21-yarder, with 30 seconds left in the first half.

Wyoming Frosh Take Time Off

Head coach Bill Baker said his ball-control cowbabies "probably" would have today and Tuesday off, and maybe longer, before he calls them back to the practice gridiron to prepare for a Nov. 16 meeting with the Colorado State U. frosh at Fort Collins, Colo.

Baker said he was pleased with the team's six touchdown performance. The outcome avenged last year's only loss by a Wyoming frosh crew since 1958 when the Sterling, Colo., Northeastern team won 19-6 on its own field.

Oilers' Defensive End Sidelined for Season

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers learned Sunday from X rays that the fractured jaw which defensive end Don Floyd suffered in the 45-3 loss to Boston will keep him out all season.

Nikita Favors Russ-American Flight to Moon

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev said last week he approved the idea of a join Soviet - American manned flight to the moon as suggested by President Kennedy provided more "practical steps in disarmament" can be reached.

Khrushchev made the remarks at a diplomatic reception while stressing the importance Soviet scientists placed on the launching Friday of an advanced unmanned space vehicle which can maneuver in the cosmos by remote control.

"We consider with due attention the proposal of the United States president that it would be useful for the Soviet Union and the United States to pool their efforts in exploring outer space for scientific purposes, specifically for arraning a joint flight to the moon," the premier said.

"Were a relaxation of tensions reached in the relations between states, nor only morally so as to say, but were it supported by practical steps in disarmament, then the sphere of cooperation between states in exploring outer space would be materially expanded."

An official version of Khrushchev's remarks at the reception for visiting Laotian Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma was distributed by the Tass news agency.

The premier last week told visiting left-wing newsmen that the Soviet Union is abandoning the race to the moon with the United States. (Kennedy told his news conference in Washington Thursday that he doubted Khurshchev was giving up the moon race.)

Commenting on Kennedy's proposal last September, Khrushchev told diplomats and correspondents at the reception:

"We would have nothing against a Russian and American joining in this project directed at the moon." Then, he added with a broad smile, "or even better a Russian cosmonaut and an American girl."

"Wouldn't it be good if a joint team reached the moon," he said.

Khrushchev brought the gathering to a sudden hush by ringing a bell to indicate he had something to say.

Looking slightly pleased, he announced that the Soviet Union had put a new vehicle into space.

"This is now new," he told guests who strained to catch every word. The launching had been announced earlier by the official Tass news agency.

"But today's vehicle is a novelty," he said.

Satellites launched previously by the Soviets remained in fixed orbit, he noted. The satellite launched today — named "Polyot I (flight), he said, "is capable of wide maneuvers in the cosmos — verticle and horizontal."

"Man is no longer prisoner of his space ship," Khrushchev said in his remarks. "Now the space craft will obey his will."

Puppet Shows New Addition To Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The medical and psychiatric trend of television has trickled down to puppet shows for tiny tots.

NBC's "Childrens Theater," presenting the first of four specials Sunday night, was a colorful little fantasy about a slow-witted, nearsighted giant who became so worried about his health he disappeared in a cloud of smoke.

"Quillow and the Giant" was a little more complicated than that. Adapted from a James Thurber story called "The Great Quillow," it was a morality tale about a townful of selfish people who are saved from the giant by a brave and humble toymaker.

There were some practical hints for young viewers, including a pointed suggestion to the giant that it was not polite to talk with his mouth full. For adults there also was some lively music with bright and often witty lyrics.

The hour was handsomely and very carefully produced. The credits listed both an educational adviser and a psychologist as consultants.

Search Continued For Missing Hunter

Sankey, laboratory technician at a Denver rubber firm, set up a hunting camp about nine miles west of Vail Pass near Booth Creek. His pickup truck was found parked on the highway.

Full scale search operations resumed over the weekend after a snowstorm halted the hunt Thursday and Friday.

Harding was the first president to ride in an automobile to his inauguration.

Willis Armstrong Memorial at Shove Chapel

A memorial service for Willis R. Armstrong, chairman of the board of directors of the Colorado Springs National Bank, who died Saturday morning at a local hospital, will be held at Shove Chapel, Colorado College, at 4 p.m. today.

The speakers will be Dr. Lloyd E. Worner, president of Colorado College, Armin Barney, chairman of the board of trustees of the college and president of the Colorado Springs National Bank, and the Rev. Joseph W. Carroll, pastor of the First Congregational Church. Classes at Colorado College will be dismissed at 3:45 p.m. today and all college offices will be closed at the same time.

Mr. Armstrong was a member of the board of trustees of Colorado College for 18 years, and was secretary of the board most of that time. He was himself an 1899 graduate of Colorado College and recently received an honorary degree from the college also. Three years of his undergraduate college work was done at Grinnell College, Grinnell, Ia. He was a native of Orient, Ia. Soon after graduating from Colorado College he was one of the organizers of the Colorado Springs National Bank. He was also cashier when the bank was started. He later became president of the bank and then chairman of the board of directors, which office he held at the time of his death.

Mildred Deere Named Carson Administrator

Mrs. Mildred Deere, new incentive awards administrator at Ft. Carson, has replaced Mrs. Miriam Buckley who is personnel management assistant for the hospital, dental section and the Quartermaster civilians.

Mrs. Deere returned to Civil Service two years ago at Ft. Carson and had been an assignment clerk in Civilian Personnel. Her first federal job was at Fitzsimons General Hospital, Denver, in World War II.

Since then she has been a legal stenographer in Denver and with Bendix Aviation in Davenport, Iowa. She lives at 1505 Main, Security.

The incentive awards administrator covers the entire post and includes coordinating suggestions on more effective methods and processing nominations for sustained superior performance awards, outstanding ratings and quality increases for Civil Service workers.

In fiscal year 1963, which ended last June, there were 442 suggestions from civilians with 84 adopted and 248 from military with 29 adopted. Civilians suggestions resulted in $25,000 in tangible benefits and military ideas brought $1,000 in benefits.

All suggestions are gratefully accepted, she says, if they involve saving money, improving methods or morale.

WASHINGTON — (Special to Gazette Telegraph) — Now that the first pay checks under the 1963 rates are being distributed, the Pentagon is already at work on a new pay study to be presented to Congress in 1964.

As word leaks out on some proposals, active duty people, except the seniors in grade and age, are dissatisfied with the idea of including all allowances and pay into one basic pay package. This would increase current federal income taxes but would also serve as a pay base in computing retired pay that would give a substantial increase. Retirement, however, in many instances is years away—excepting for disability — and active duty personnel are more concerned today with meeting day-to-day bills.

This has been previously reviewed in this column. A new feature however is being discussed which would call for pay longevities to be computed on time within the pay grade rather than the overall length of service. This one is loaded.

The Navy should be prepared to make a fight again to save sea duty pay for its personnel.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson may be in for trouble. (Both President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson were "Navy men" holding USNR commissions.) If Washington "crystal ball gazers" are getting the picture into focus, Johnson may be "dropped" from the group in '64 in favor of well known political "figure" from California. Could this be Pat Brown?

Looks like the voters will be "in" for more and more "GAR-ING" over next few years. Oldtimers recall the strangle hold on politics held by GAR for many years following the close of the War Between the States.

Capt. John D. Bulkeley, famed "PT" boat commander in the Philippines, tapped to be commander of the USN base at Guantanamo Bay. Star on its way so don't be surprised on news that he has been "frocked."

On the eve of his possible selection as the next secretary of the Army, Col. Kenneth M. Belieu, USA, retired, has come under attack from Republican Congressman Earl Wilson of Indiana, in which it is maintained that Belieu gave "false answers" to a congressional committee. Will it cause the presidential circle to change its plan on moving Belieu from the Navy to the Army position?

Defense, in an effort to show "economy" in its budget in 1964 and of course timed to the forthcoming political campaign, may move ahead with plan for disposal of many "obsolete" installations. Such will affect sacrosanct installations plus political fights on the local level.

A military person riding as a passenger in a private car, with the driver collecting mileage, may collect travel mileage if he is traveling on official business and transporation pay has been authorized. This is latest decision from the comptroller general on subject.

Top level Pentagon officials have placed a "high priority" tag on the problem of improved "BOQ" for officers. The proposal will provide each individual with bath, bedroom, and kitchen facilities.

To get cracking on the Navy's new "flat top" carrier the secretary of defense orders it to use conventional power rather than atomic. Some congressional sources are unhappy over the decision in view of the funds expended so far in research for nuclear propulsion; threaten to cut back on future funds if results so far obtained are not put to use.

The Senate has approved a construction program for the military which will provide 12,100 units for new family housing for all of the services. It is more than approved by the House but less than defense asked for.

The Air Force is expected to lose 9,000 men in next year's budget and the Army 5,000. The Pentagon is not expected to cut the strength of the Marines.

The Pentagon is making a survey among widows whose husbands were in service prior to death, asking for detailed data as to their medical care and how much it costs. Widows receiving the questionnaire are urged to reply promptly since the data is to be used to formulate better medical care for dependents. As of now, such medical care is available only on space available basis for widows. With the growing retiree list Pentagon is concerned as to just how long this can be continued even on this limited basis.

In the previous Democratic convention and the last Republican one, two ladies — incidentally of the same Eastern Shore of Maryland family line — almost made the vice president nomination. One was Federal Judge Sarah Tilghman Hughes of Texas and the other Miss Bertha Adkins of Salisbury, Md.

For some time "grass root" politicians have urged Maine Republican Senator Margaret Chase Smith for the 1964 party makeup. Informed sources here say that the Maine senator, who is also a well known lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve, may just make it this time. If so, and if Senator Barry Goldwater, a major general in Air Force Reserve, makes the presidential candidacy, it will mean that both the principal and second Republican candidate will be of the Air Force Reserve. This should pull in quite a bit of the military absentee vote.

On Nov. 7, Ft. Bliss, the one-time Infantry, Field Artillery, Cavalry Post — and now the Army's guided missile training center — celebrates its 115th anniversary. Rather old for a "still going" post. To keep the memories green for those who have served at Bliss, the book department at the Air Defense School there, has gone into second printing of "Musket, Saber and Missile — A History of Ft. Bliss," by Col. Richard K. McMaster, USA, retired. The school tells me the price of the book is $1.50.

In making "PCS" moves many in the Armed Forces have "out of pocket" charges over and above monetary allowances for such moves. In preparing federal income tax returns for 1963 it should be carefully noted that the new decision by the Tax Court allows a taxpayer a deduction for moving expenses excessive over any reimbursement.

BIG LIFT had months of careful pre-planning to assure success. Some "inkspot" generals are already in with their criticism that the program lacked reality." Of course this is true as is any new activity. Without the careful planning the resultant affair would be a mess. But with the outstanding success of BIG LIFT on the books future moves will advance to a more real basis such as "advance warning."

The "doubting Toms" overlook the fact that if the move "should be for real" the availability of air transport would be unlimited for all existing facilities would be brought into plan, civilian and military, within hours. Top level Washington is saying "well done" to the Army and Air Force for a terrific job, with a special "pat on the back" to Army Gen. Paul Adams and his staff for the perfect advance planning job done.

Army four-star Gen. James F. Collins, 58-year-old graduate of West Point of 1927, and now commander of U.S. Army Pacific, will retire in the spring of 1964 and come to Washington as successor to Army retired Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther as president of the American Red Cross. Gen. Gruenther retires as head of the ARC next March.

Horse Thief Takes All Equipment Too

A 5-year old Palamino mare worth $300 and a bridle, martindale and saddle valued at a total of $300 were stolen from Jim Byerley who lives north west of Security, the sheriff's department reported Sunday.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Ames said the mare was in a corral close by Byerley's home and that the theft happened Saturday night or early Sunday morning. The saddle and other equipment were removed from a separate building on the property.

The mare weighs 1100 lbs., has two cocoa spots on each side of the nose, black legs with white stockings and is branded "Bar V Slash" on the left shoulder.

Officers Elected For Palmer Lake Yule Log Group

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Palmer Lake Yule Log Association was held Friday in Fellowship Hall of the Little Log Church.

Officers elected were: Mrs. Jack Nieswanger, president; Kenneth McCall, first vice-president; John Edgett, second vice-president; Mrs. Ed Hubbard, third vice-president; and Mrs. Andy Krueger, secretary and treasurer.

Because of ill health, Mrs. Hubbard, former president of the association, felt she could not undertake that office again. Mrs. Krueger replaces Mrs. Robert Schroeder as secretary and treasurer as the Schroeders are moving to Greeley to live.

New committee chairmen are Mrs. John Edgett, who will have charge of the ceremony committee and John Edgett of the signs. Chairmen of the other committees wil be announced later.

It was voted to hold the Yule Log celebration on the usual Sunday before Christmas which falls this year on December 22.

The covered-dish supper, at which the entire community attends and makes final preparations for the ceremony, will be held at the Palmer Lake Town Hall at 6 p.m. Thursday, December 12.

Following the business meeting the group enjoyed refreshments furnished by the officers of the Yule Log Association.

Retired Carson Worker Keeps Needles Flying

Thru fire and storm Mrs. Zettie Keys has kept the needles flying at Ft. Carson since 1949. She retired Nov. 1 with 16 years' civilian service but will continue her interest in the Army from her home in Fountain.

An assistant supervisor in quartermaster maintenance clothing repair since June, 1949, Mrs. Keys recalls the fire of 1950 which moved her section into a barracks from a badly-burned structure and the big wind of a few years later which blew apart the clothing repair building.

She has been assistant supervisor for the past five years and received a sustained superior performance award when the induction center was here. Her section has worked on as many as 300 uniforms in one day when Ft. Carson had an induction center.

She was a beauty operator and seamstress in Fountain where she has lived at 104 S. Race St. since 1928.

Mrs. Keys leaves an example of her handiwork—an embroidered felt plaque with the technical services symbol—hanging in the installation maintenance office.

$35 Taken From Coin Changer at Launderette

A coin changer at the Maytag Launderette, 3205 W. Colorado Ave. was forced open over the week-end and $35 taken, the sheriff's office reported.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Bob Newman and Charles Dietsche, the bottom of the changer was forced with a pry bar. The theft happened in the early hours of Sunday morning.

Winter Walking Can Be Hazardous Patrol Warns

"Don't walk yourself to death."

This warning was directed at pedestrians today by State Patrol Chif Gilbert Carrel. He reminded that inclement weather and longer hours of darkness make walking doubly hazardous during the winter months.

He pointed out that 280 pedestrians were killed or injured on Colorado's streets and highways last winter during the four-month period of November through February. "A majority of these mishaps were caused by a pedestrian violation," the patrol chief said, "and a large unmber of them occurred during the hours of dusk or darkness.

Attempting to cross between intersections, and coming from from behind parked cars are the two most prevalent violations that lead to that run-down feeling, according to Carrel. These two violations alone account for almost half of the total number of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

"It's better to spend the few seconds longer it may take to use the crosswalk than not to get there at all," Carrel said. "Obey the rules of safe walking, and be especially alert during the hours of dusk and darkness.

Don't spend your life crossing the street."

Fire Station Handy for Stricken Man

No. 6 station of the Colorado Springs fire department, at Union and Van Buren Streets, was handy for Ivan L. Roff, 42, of 721 N. Custer Avenue, when at 5:39 p.m. Sunday he felt a heart attack coming on while driving by. He stopped his car at the station and asked the firemen for aid. The resuscitator crew of the station administered oxygen. Roff recovered from the attack.

A flase fire alarm was turned in Sunday from a box at Washington and Tejon Streets. It called out Company 7.

New Program Announced To Stop Smoking Habit

For those of the nation's 80 million smokers who want to stop the habit, the National Council on Smoking and Health with national headquarters at 225 East 46th Street, New York City, announced today an effective and convenient program to help them.

A study of the results being obtained in anti-smoking research clinics in Europe and the United States led the National council's medical advisors to devise a program called STOPlan which incorporates the essential ingredients of the successful clinic programs in a method which can be made more widely available. Many millions now alerted to the dangers of smoking, want to stop, but have no such clinic services available or cannot afford them.

The council's new method - STOPlan - is designed as a complete program that attacks the smoking habit for what it is - a combined physiological and psychological problem, according to Kenneth S. Landauer, M.D., chairman of the National Council's Medical Advisory Board.

The National Council organized its program which produced STOPlan last spring when it became clear that — in the words of Dr. Emerson Day of the research staff of Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York — Long-term cigarette smoking has been soundly established as a factor of direct and major importance in the development of lung cancer." To help stem what cancer expert Dr. Alton Ochsner of the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans calls the "dreadful scourge" of cigarette-induced cancer, the National Council requested its medical advisors to develop a treatment program that could be used safely and effectively by millions of smokers to overcome their habit.

The National Council's medical advisors pointed out that to help a person stop smoking, a double-barrelled attack is necessary.

Smokers must help to face the problem of physiological addiction. When the drug nicotine is stopped, the resulting effects on various functions of mind and body may temporarily cause unpleasant feelings. These withdrawal effects vary from person to person - from mild to severe.

Though quite disturbing to some people, they are not known to be dangerous. Medical authorities point out that nicotine-like drugs - such as lobeline sulphate - have not proved to be satisfactory or effective substitutes in treatment, and can cause unpleasant side effects. STOPlan uses a safe, non-toxic tablet called Nicatone as part of the STOPlan method.

The National Council's research group recognized that most people start smoking for phychological reasons, — to belong, to seem adult, to have something to do with the hands, to conform to acceptable social customs.

When teenagers — with the desire to be "grownup", or "to be a man", start to smoke — they are often overcome at first by nicotine's toxic effects: nausea, vomiting, faintness, collapse. Smart ones know when they've been poisoned and quit. But many continue, gain "tolerance" to the poisonous drug nictine and the process of "addiction" begins.

Other agents in tobacco smoke are also harmful. As stated in "The Medical Letter on Drugs and Therapeutics" - May 10, 1963, "There is abundant evidence that excessive cigarette smoking is an important cause of cancer and chronic bronchitis and that it contributes to the development of or aggravates peripheral vascular (blood vessel) disease, coronary artery disease, and peptic ulcer."

For the pharmacological part of the program, the National Council works with the research staff of a well-known pharmaceutical laboratory which produces the non-toxic, drug-free Nicatone tablets.

The National Council's Medical Advisory Board, a group of independent physicians and medical researchers which guides the National Council's medical and research activities, approved STOPlan and the Nicatone formulation for release to the smoking public.

The program of counsel, guidance and phychological assistance within which Nicatone works was developed under the supervision of Lynwood Heaver, M.D., F.A.P.A., eminent psychiatrist and author of many articles on psychological subjects.

In order for the program to be effective, Dr. Landauer points out, the smoker needs "to have a firm resolve to stop. Without such desire and determination, no plan or program can possibly work." The STOPlan is an important aid in subduing the craving for tobacco, and other wise helping the smoker over the rough hurdles of the first days and weeks without tobacco. STOPlan is being offered to the public with a money-back guarantee.

The National Council has committed a substantial part of its funds to further research centering on investigations of the relationships between smoking and health and improved methods for curbing the smoking habit.

WASHINGTON — (Special to Gazette Telegraph) — Now that the first pay checks under the 1963 rates are being distributed, the Pentagon is already at work on a new pay study to be presented to Congress in 1964.

As word leaks out on some proposals, active duty people except the seniors in grade and age, are dissatisfied with the idea of including all allowances and pay into one basic pay package. This would increase current federal income taxes but would also serve as a pay base in computing retired pay that would give a substantial increase. Retirement, however, in many instances is years away— excepting for disability — and active duty personnel are more concerned today with meeting day-to-day bills.

This has been previously reviewed in this column. A new feature however is being discussed which would call for pay longevities to be computed on time within the pay grade rather than the overall length of service. This one is loaded.

The Navy should be prepared to make a fight again to save sea duty pay for its personnel.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson may be in for trouble. (Both President Kennedy and Vice President Johnson were "Navy men" holding USNR commissions.) If Washington "crystal ball gazers" are getting the picture into focus, Johnson may be "dropped" from the group in '64 in favor of well known political "figure" from California. Could this be Pat Brown?

Looks like the voters will be "in" for more and more "GAR-ING" over next few years. Oldtimers recall the strangle hold on politics held by GAR for many years following the close of the War Between the States.

Capt. John D. Bulkeley, famed "PT" boat commander in the Philippines, tapped to be commander of the USN base at Guantanamo Bay. Star on its way so don't be surprised on news that he has been "frocked."

On the eve of his possible selection as the next secretary of the Army, Col. Kenneth M. Belieu, USA, retired, has come under attack from Republican Congressman Earl Wilson of Indiana, in which it is maintained that Belieu gave "false answers" to a congressional committee. Will it cause the presidential circle to change its plan on moving Belieu from the Navy to the Army position?

Defense, in an effort to show "economy" in its budget in 1964 and of course timed to the forthcoming political campaign, may move ahead with plan for disposal of many "obsolete" installations. Such will affect sacrosanct installations plus political fights on the local level.

A military person riding as a passenger in a private car, with the driver collecting mileage, may collect travel mileage if he is traveling on official business and transporation pay has been authorized. This is latest decision from the comptroller general on subject.

Top level Pentagon officials have placed a "high priority" tag on the problem of improved "BOQ" for officers. The proposal will provide each individual with bath, bedroom, and kitchen facilities.

To get cracking on the Navy's new "flat top" carrier the secretary of defense orders it to use conventional power rather than atomic. Some congressional sources are unhappy over the decision in view of the funds expended so far in research for nuclear propulsion; threaten to cut back on future funds if results so far obtained are not put to use.

The Senate has approved a construction program for the military which will provide 12,100 units for new family housing for all of the services. It is more than approved by the House but less than defense asked for.

The Air Force is expected to lose 9,000 men in next year's budget and the Army 5,000. The Pentagon is not expected to cut the strength of the Marines.

The Pentagon is making a survey among widows whose husbands were in service prior to death, asking for detailed data as to their medical [illegible] and how much it costs. Widows receiving the questionnaire are urged to reply promptly since the data is to be used to formulate better medical care for dependents. As of now, such medical care is available only on space available basis for widows. With the growing retiree list Pentagon is concerned as to just how long this can be continued even on this limited basis.

In the previous Democratic convention and the last Republican one, two ladies — incidentally of the same Eastern Shore of Maryland family line — almost made the vice president nomination. One was Federal Judge Sarah Tilghman Hughes of Texas and the other Miss Bertha Adkins of Salisbury, Md.

For some time "grass root" politicians have urged Maine Republican Senator Margaret Chase Smith for the 1964 party makeup. Informed sources here say that the Maine senator who is also a well known lieutenant colonel in the Air Force Reserve, may just make it this time. If so, and if Senator Barry Goldwater a major general in Air Force Reserve makes the presidential candidacy it will mean that both the principal and second Republican candidate will be of the Air Force Reserve. This should pull in quite a bit of the military absentee vote.

On Nov. 7, Ft. Bliss, the one-time Infantry, Field Artillery, Cavalry Post — and now the Army's guided missile training center — celebrates its 115th anniversary. Rather old for a "still going" post. To keep the memories green for those who have served at Bliss, the book department at the Air Defense School there has gone into second printing of "Musket, Saber and Missile — A History of Ft. Bliss," by Col. Richard K. McMaster, USA, retired. The school tells me the price of the book is $1.50.

In making "PCS" moves many in the Armed Forces have "out of pocket" charges over and above monetary allowances for such moves. In preparing federal income tax returns for 1963 it should be carefully noted that the new decision by the Tax Court allows a taxpayer a deduction for moving expenses excessive over any reimbursement.

BIG LIFT had months of careful pre-planning to assure success. Some "inkspot" generals are already in with their criticism that the program lacked reality." Of course this is true as is any new activity. Without the careful planning the resultant affair would be a mess. But with the outstanding success of BIG LIFT on the books future moves will advance to a more real basis such as "advance warning."

The "doubting Toms" overlook the fact that if the move "should be for real" the availability of air transport would be unlimited for all existing facilities would be brought into plan, civilian and military, within hours. Top level Washington is saying "well done" to the Army and Air Force for a terrific job, with a special "pat on the back" to Army Gen. Paul Adams and his staff for the perfect advance planning job done.

Army four-star Gen. James F. Collins, 58-year-old graduate of West Point of 1927, and now commander of U.S. Army Pacific, will retire in the spring of 1964 and come to Washington as successor to Army retired Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther as president of the American Red Cross. Gen. Gruenther retires as head of the ARC next March.

Retired Carson Worker Keeps Needles Flying

Thru fire and storm Mrs. Zettie Keys has kept the needles flying at Ft. Carson since 1949. She retired Nov. 1 with 16 years' civilian service but will continue her interest in the Army from her home in Fountain.

An assistant supervisor in quartermaster maintenance clothing repair since June, 1949, Mrs. Keys recalls the fire of 1950 which moved her section into a barracks from a badly-burned structure and the big wind of a few years later which blew apart the clothing repair building.

She has been assistant supervisor for the past five years and received a sustained superior performance award when the induction center was here. Her section has worked on as many as 300 uniforms in one day when Ft. Carson had an induction center.

She was a beauty operator and seamstress in Fountain where she has lived at 104 S. Race St. since 1928.

Mrs. Keys leaves an example of her handiwork—an embroidered felt plaque with the technical services symbol—hanging in the installation maintenance office.

Winter Walking Can Be Hazardous Patrol Warns

"Don't walk yourself to death. This warning was directed at pedestrians today by State Patrol Chif Gilbert Carrel. He reminded that inclement weather and longer hours of darkness make walking doubly hazardous during the winter months.

He pointed out that 280 pedestrians were killed or injured on Colorado's streets and highways last winter during the four-month period of November through February. "A majority of these mishaps were caused by a pedestrian violation," the patrol chief said, "and a large unmber of them occurred during the hours of dusk or darkness.

Attempting to cross between intersections and coming from from behind parked cars are the two most prevalent violations that lead to that run-down feeling, according to Carrel. These two violations alone account for almost half of the total number of pedestrian deaths and injuries.

"It's better to spend the few seconds longer it may take to use the crosswalk than not to get there at all," Carrel said. "Obey the rules of safe walking, and be especially alert during the hours of dusk and darkness.

Don't spend your life crossing the street."

Fire Station Handy for Stricken Man

No. 6 station of the Colorado Springs fire department, at Union and Van Buren Streets, was handy for Ivan L. Roff, 42, of 721 N. Custer Avenue, when at 5:39 p.m. Sunday he felt a heart attack coming on while driving by. He stopped his car at the station and asked the firemen for aid. The resuscitator crew of the station administered oxygen. Roff recovered from the attack.

A flase fire alarm was turned in Sunday from a box at Washington and Tejon Streets. It called out Company 7.

New Program Announced To Stop Smoking Habit

For those of the nation's 80 million smokers who want to stop the habit, the National Council on Smoking and Health with national headquarters at 225 East 46th Street, New York City, announced today an effective and convenient program to help them.

A study of the results being obtained in anti-smoking research clinics in Europe and the United States led the National council's medical advisors to devise a program called STOPlan which incorporates the essential ingredients of the successful clinic programs in a method which can be made more widely available. Many millions now alerted to the dangers of smoking, want to stop, but have no such clinic services available or cannot afford them.

The council's new method - STOPlan - is designed as a complete program that attacks the smoking habit for what it is - a combined physiological and psychological problem, according to Kenneth S. Landauer, M.D., chairman of the National Council's Medical Advisory Board.

The National Council organized its program which produced STOPlan last spring when it became clear that — in the words of Dr. Emerson Day of the research staff of Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York — Long-term cigarette smoking has been soundly established as a factor of direct and major importance in the development of lung cancer." To help stem what cancer expert Dr. Alton Ochsner of the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans calls the "dreadful scourge" of cigarette-induced cancer, the National Council requested its medical advisors to develop a treatment program that could be used safely and effectively by millions of smokers to overcome their habit.

The National Council's medical advisors pointed out that to help a person stop smoking, a double-barrelled attack is necessary.

Smokers must help to face the problem of physiological addiction. When the drug nicotine is stopped, the resulting effects on various functions of mind and body may temporarily cause unpleasant feelings. These withdrawal effects vary from person to person - from mild to severe.

Though quite disturbing to some people, they are not known to be dangerous. Medical authorities point out that nicotine-like drugs - such as lobeline sulphate - have not proved to be satisfactory or effective substitutes in treatment, and can cause unpleasant side effects. STOPlan uses a safe, non-toxic tablet called Nicatone as part of the STOPlan method.

The National Council's research group recognized that most people start smoking for phychological reasons, — to belong, to seem adult, to have something to do with the hands, to conform to acceptable social customs.

When teenagers — with the desire to be "grownup", or "to be a man", start to smoke — they are often overcome at first by nicotine's toxic effects: nausea, vomiting, faintness, collapse. Smart ones know when they've been poisoned and quit. But many continue, gain "tolerance" to the poisonous drug nictine and the process of "addiction" begins.

Other agents in tobacco smoke are also harmful. As stated in "The Medical Letter on Drugs and Therapeutics" - May 10, 1963, "There is abundant evidence that excessive cigarette smoking is an important cause of cancer and chronic bronchitis and that it contributes to the development of or aggravates peripheral vascular (blood vessel) disease, coronary artery disease, and peptic ulcer."

For the pharmacological part of the program, the National Council works with the research staff of a well-known pharmaceutical laboratory which produces the non-toxic, drug-free Nicatone tablets.

The National Council's Medical Advisory Board, a group of independent physicians and medical researchers which guides the National Council's medical and research activities, approved STOPlan and the Nicatone formulation for release to the smoking public.

The program of counsel, guidance and phychological assistance within which Nicatone works was developed under the supervision of Lynwood Heaver, M.D., F.A.P.A., eminent psychiatrist and author of many articles on psychological subjects.

In order for the program to be effective, Dr. Landauer points out, the smoker needs "to have a firm resolve to stop. Without such desire and determination, no plan or program can possibly work." The STOPlan is an important aid in subduing the craving for tobacco, and other wise helping the smoker over the rough hurdles of the first days and weeks without tobacco. STOPlan is being offered to the public with a money-back guarantee.

The National Council has committed a substantial part of its funds to further research centering on investigations of the relationships between smoking and health and improved methods for curbing the smoking habit.

Wisconsin Gets Coeducational Dormitory

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The proximity of the opposite sex has made responsible adults out of college boys living in the first coeducational dormitory at the University of Wisconsin, reports the dormitory manager.

William Paleen, who is in charge of the month-old Sellery Hall on the Wisconsin campus, said "the men feel a responsibility to the hall" which is like a desire to protect the women residents.

The challenge to "get the women" only exists in such schools as the University of Iowa where men are housed on "one side of the river" and women on the other, Paleen said.

"The Victorian attitudes we have been saddled with no longer exist," he said. "We are very pleased with the respect for the hall that all of the students have shown."

Sellery Hall consists of two adjoining 10-story towers, one for the men's living quarters and the other for coeds. The two towers are connected by a two-floor commons area with joint facilities.

Actually, the first co-educational housing experiment at Wisconsin was in 1952 when two previously all-male dormitories were converted to joint use with women housed in one unit and the men in another.

Because of the success of Sellery Hall, the university is expanding its coeducational housing program. A twin to Sellery is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy next fall. A third unit also is planned, but will house only male students unless a need arises to convert it into a coeducational unit.

About the only problem which has arisen between the male and female residents is the question of buying hair driers for the women. Male students on a council representing the 1,100 dorm residents cannot see the reasons for the expense of purchsing them, said Paleen.

"The students have assumed tremendous responsibilities for themselves," Paleen said. "They have formed their own cultural and athletic programs."

A co-educational touch football league has been set up with each floor organizing a team to play a team from the corresponding floor of the other tower.

Minister Reports Getting Crank Calls

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—A minister says he has received several crank telephone calls because he led his congregation in painting over racial slurs scrawled on the new home of a Negro faimly.

The Rev. Robert A. Rounce, pastor of Sheridan Park Presbyterian Church, said Sunday:

"To them (the callers) I can only say we have only tried to put the golden rule into practice."

Swastikas, racial remarks and a Star of David in black were painted Thursday night on the white, one-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amos in a predominantly white neighborhood.

The Pope who had the longest reign in history was Pius IX who served 31 years, 7 months from 1846 to 1878.

Minister Reports Getting Crank Calls

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP)—A minister says he has received several crank telephone calls because he led his congregation in painting over racial slurs scrawled on the new home of a Negro faimly.

The Rev. Robert A. Rounce, pastor of Sheridan Park Presbyterian Church, said Sunday:

"To them (the callers) I can only say we have only tried to put the golden rule into practice."

Swastikas, racial remarks and a Star of David in black were painted Thursday night on the white, one-story home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Amos in a predominantly white neighborhood.

The Pope who had the longest reign in history was Pius IX who served 31 years, 7 months from 1846 to 1878.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson says that "we have no way of knowing how long this zany, day-to-day speculative behavior can last before the conservative investor finally senses that what we are now seeing in the stock market has its closest parallels in the experiences of 1929 and 1937.

"The risks of a sudden and severe decline in the near future are greatly increased by the irrational behavior of stock prices during the past few days," he adds.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says that stocks of companies that are reporting declining earnings or have failed to participate in the market's rise since June 1962, "should be sold to establish tax losses before the year end.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. says that properly selected stocks still are attractive as long-term investments "but in view of the fact that popular averages have risen over 40 per cent from last year's lows to new historic highs, it would only seem sensible to temper current optimism and investment decisions with a substantial amount of care."

Indicator Digest says that "many of the high-flyers have had it. On the next rally, we would expect the shift of emphasis back to the blue chips to become more pronounced, as usually happens at the tail end of bull markets."

Bisons, Hershey Deadlock in AHL Contest

By United Press International

This is another American Hockey League season but the standings in the Eastern Division are much the same today as they were most of last season, while in the Western Division the situation is almost reversed.

The Providence Reds fought to a scoreless deadlock with the Buffalo Bisons Sunday night to tie Hershey for the Eastern Division lead. The Bisons, who won the Western Division crown by 20 points last year, have swapped places with the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Jackson Questions Academy Life Board's Action

Dr. Melvin W. Jackson, Denver insurance man organizing Academy Life Insurance Co. stockholder opposition to a merger of the company with Security Life and Accident Co., questions, in a letter to stockholders, action of the Academy Life board of directors, which voted in favor of the merger.

Dr. Jackson, who has termed the proposed merger a "sell-out," said several stockholders have contacted him in support of this two-step plan: First, to prevent the merger, and second, to reorganize the management of Academy Life with a new conservative board of directors.

Jackson said the proposal was presented by three officers of Security Life, and stockholders were not informed of any preliminary negotiations. The records show, said Jackson, "the merger was presented and accepted in the course of one director's meeting."

In his letter, Jackson said:

"This is on record in the Colorado Insurance Commisioner's office: One director of Academy Life was paid $12,000 in 1962 as a director of Security Life."

Jackson added no disclosure of Security Life stock ownership by the Academy Life director was made available to stockholders in information submitted concerning the merger proposal.

Dr. Jackson denounced a claim by Academy Life management that if the merger is defeated, there will have to be a new stock issue. He said this would be an unnecessary watering of Academy stock.

In order to answer questions regarding his own interest in organizing opposition to the merger, Dr. Jackson siad he owns 400 shares of Academy Life and 12 shares of Security Life. He said he is a salesman trying to sell insurance for Academy, and is not seeking a salaried position in any reorganization plans.

Labor to Push For 'Share-Work' In Next Talks

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor is expected to push for new share-the-prosperity schemes in the next round of contract talks. Once the chief emphasis was on wage increases, then on the many kinds of fringe benefits, more recently on job security.

But in the current business upswing industrial production has been rising faster than employment totals and the percentage of the labor force out of work has all but failed to budge.

So now union leaders — with an eye also on increased corporate profits — are expected to step up demands for shorter work weeks and longer vacations, and also to press in new contract negotiations for curbs on overtime. The aim: to get more workers on the payrolls.

Latest Labor Department figures put jobholders at 69.9 million in mid-October. The unemployed totaled 3.5 million, or 5.5 per cent of the labor force, and 159,000 higher than a year ago. Of the jobless 919,000 have been out of work 15 weeks or longer.

Industrial production in mid-September—the latest figure — was 125.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average, compared with 119.8 per cent the previous year.

Factory workers' overtime averaged three hours a week, highest since 1956. Some labor leaders contend more than 11 million workers are working longer than the standard 40-hour week. So along with the drive to cut the standard to 35 hours, a number of leaders are expected to try to discourage overtime while other members of the union are idle.

Management usually has dollar and cents reasons for resorting to overtime rather than adding to payrolls, with all the fringe benefits that involves: pensions, vacations, health insurance and eligibility for unemployment payments and the like.

Also the production spurt may be temporary or uncertain, making overtime more feasible in management's eyes than a fluctuating total of workers. And often expansion of the work force would mean training new employes rather than recalling experienced ones.

But that stubborn hard core of unemployment — whether caused by automation or overtime — is bothering unions and their leaders.

110-Million-Ton Year in Sight For Steel Market

NEW YORK — The steel market has reached a plateau, Iron Age magazine reports. Seasonal factors contributing to a downtrend in some products are offsetting a continued uptrend in automotive steel buying.

Actually, there has been no sharp upward movement for some time. The weekly production rate has moved up only about 2 per cent in the past month and no sharp deviation is seen in the current order picture.

But Iron Age also points out that if the current production rate is maintained, steel output for the year would top 110 million tons. This would exceed what even the most optimistic predicted earlier in the year. Only recently has 110 million tons been mentioned as within reach.

The steel industry is currently operating at about 63 per cent of capacity, Iron Age says. This rate will assure fairly profitable fourth quarters for the efficient mills.

The outlook for individual mills varies on the basis of product mix and the market served. Auto-oriented mills can see the end of inventory control in November and December, and look for an upturn then.

But mills leaning heavily on construction will face tougher going. Some of these predicted declines thru the last months of the year.

The question is still whether the industrial upturn can outweigh seasonal declines for tinplate and construction steels. The inventory picture is still not clear — except for the realization that much less inventory was worked off during the summer months than had been predicted.

The inventory pattern in the auto industry is emerging somewhat, however. Ford has been the first to work off its excess steel. But with its own steel mill working at capacity, even Ford being in balance since mid-October has not brought any real surge overall. General Motors appears to be ordering for November - December at about 70 to 75 per cent of use. Chrysler has made supplemental buys on occasion, but is still on the long side with its steel stocks.

As evidence of the effects of the auto market, Detroit area mills are operating at nearly one-third higher than the national rate.

The outlook now is wait-and-see. Unless automakers come into the market more heavily than seen now, there is little chance of a big surge before the end of the year.

After that, the overall market will adjust to the rate of the economy and will be geared to overall industrial demand. This will replace an inventory-controlled rate that has characterized the market thru build-up and liquidation for most of the year.

Horse Given Car In Kentucky Twist

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Wallace Bramwell, somewhat of a prankster, has added a new twist to the old motorists's expression of "get a horse."

He gave his horse a car.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson says that "we have no way of knowing how long this zany, day-to-day speculative behavior can last before the conservative investor finally senses that what we are now seeing in the stock market has its closest parallels in the experiences of 1929 and 1937.

"The risks of a sudden and severe decline in the near future are greatly increased by the irrational behavior of stock prices during the past few days," he adds.

The Alexander Hamilton Institute says that stocks of companies that are reporting declining earnings or have failed to participate in the market's rise since June 1962, "should be sold to establish tax losses before the year end.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. says that properly selected stocks still are attractive as long-term investments "but in view of the fact that popular averages have risen over 40 per cent from last year's lows to new historic highs, it would only seem sensible to temper current optimism and investment decisions with a substantial amount of care."

Indicator Digest says that "many of the high-flyers have had it. On the next rally, we would expect the shift of emphasis back to the blue chips to become more pronounced, as usually happens at the tail end of bull markets."

Bisons, Hershey Deadlock in AHL Contest

By United Press International

This is another American Hockey League season but the standings in the Eastern Division are much the same today as they were most of last season, while in the Western Division the situation is almost reversed.

The Providence Reds fought to a scoreless deadlock with the Buffalo Bisons Sunday night to tie Hershey for the Eastern Division lead. The Bisons, who won the Western Division crown by 20 points last year, have swapped places with the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Jackson Questions Academy Life Board's Action

Dr. Melvin W. Jackson, Denver insurance man organizing Academy Life Insurance Co. stockholder opposition to a merger of the company with Security Life and Accident Co., questions, in a letter to stockholders, action of the Academy Life board of directors, which voted in favor of the merger.

Dr. Jackson, who has termed the proposed merger a "sell-out," said several stockholders have contacted him in support of this two-step plan: First, to prevent the merger, and second, to reorganize the management of Academy Life with a new conservative board of directors.

Jackson said the proposal was presented by three officers of Security Life, and stockholders were not informed of any preliminary negotiations. The records show, said Jackson, "the merger was presented and accepted in the course of one director's meeting."

In his letter, Jackson said:

"This is on record in the Colorado Insurance Commisioner's office: One director of Academy Life was paid $12,000 in 1962 as a director of Security Life."

Jackson added no disclosure of Security Life stock ownership by the Academy Life director was made available to stockholders in information submitted concerning the merger proposal.

Dr. Jackson denounced a claim by Academy Life management that if the merger is defeated, there will have to be a new stock issue. He said this would be an unnecessary watering of Academy stock.

In order to answer questions regarding his own interest in organizing opposition to the merger, Dr. Jackson siad he owns 400 shares of Academy Life and 12 shares of Security Life. He said he is a salesman trying to sell insurance for Academy, and is not seeking a salaried position in any reorganization plans.

Labor to Push For 'Share-Work' In Next Talks

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor is expected to push for new share-the-prosperity schemes in the next round of contract talks. Once the chief emphasis was on wage increases, then on the many kinds of fringe benefits, more recently on job security.

But in the current business upswing industrial production has been rising faster than employment totals and the percentage of the labor force out of work has all but failed to budge.

So now union leaders — with an eye also on increased corporate profits — are expected to step up demands for shorter work weeks and longer vacations, and also to press in new contract negotiations for curbs on overtime. The aim: to get more workers on the payrolls.

Latest Labor Department figures put jobholders at 69.9 million in mid-October. The unemployed totaled 3.5 million, or 5.5 per cent of the labor force, and 159,000 higher than a year ago. Of the jobless 919,000 have been out of work 15 weeks or longer.

Industrial production in mid-September—the latest figure — was 125.7 per cent of the 1957-59 average, compared with 119.8 per cent the previous year.

Factory workers' overtime averaged three hours a week, highest since 1956. Some labor leaders contend more than 11 million workers are working longer than the standard 40-hour week. So along with the drive to cut the standard to 35 hours, a number of leaders are expected to try to discourage overtime while other members of the union are idle.

Management usually has dollar and cents reasons for resorting to overtime rather than adding to payrolls, with all the fringe benefits that involves: pensions, vacations, health insurance and eligibility for unemployment payments and the like.

Also the production spurt may be temporary or uncertain, making overtime more feasible in management's eyes than a fluctuating total of workers. And often expansion of the work force would mean training new employes rather than recalling experienced ones.

But that stubborn hard core of unemployment — whether caused by automation or overtime — is bothering unions and their leaders.

110-Million-Ton Year in Sight For Steel Market

NEW YORK — The steel market has reached a plateau, Iron Age magazine reports. Seasonal factors contributing to a downtrend in some products are offsetting a continued uptrend in automotive steel buying.

Actually, there has been no sharp upward movement for some time. The weekly production rate has moved up only about 2 per cent in the past month and no sharp deviation is seen in the current order picture.

But Iron Age also points out that if the current production rate is maintained, steel output for the year would top 110 million tons. This would exceed what even the most optimistic predicted earlier in the year. Only recently has 110 million tons been mentioned as within reach.

The steel industry is currently operating at about 63 per cent of capacity, Iron Age says. This rate will assure fairly profitable fourth quarters for the efficient mills.

The outlook for individual mills varies on the basis of product mix and the market served. Auto-oriented mills can see the end of inventory control in November and December, and look for an upturn then.

But mills leaning heavily on construction will face tougher going. Some of these predicted declines thru the last months of the year.

The question is still whether the industrial upturn can outweigh seasonal declines for tinplate and construction steels. The inventory picture is still not clear — except for the realization that much less inventory was worked off during the summer months than had been predicted.

The inventory pattern in the auto industry is emerging somewhat, however. Ford has been the first to work off its excess steel. But with its own steel mill working at capacity, even Ford being in balance since mid-October has not brought any real surge overall. General Motors appears to be ordering for November - December at about 70 to 75 per cent of use. Chrysler has made supplemental buys on occasion, but is still on the long side with its steel stocks.

As evidence of the effects of the auto market, Detroit area mills are operating at nearly one-third higher than the national rate.

The outlook now is wait-and-see. Unless automakers come into the market more heavily than seen now, there is little chance of a big surge before the end of the year.

After that, the overall market will adjust to the rate of the economy and will be geared to overall industrial demand. This will replace an inventory-controlled rate that has characterized the market thru build-up and liquidation for most of the year.

FRANKFORT, Ky (AP) — Wallace Bramwell, somewhat of a prankster, has added a new twist to the old motorists's expression of "get a horse."

He gave his horse a car.

New Tax Treatment Reported by Co-Ops

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives says new federal income tax treatment of earnings of farmer cooperatives is having an adverse effect on their operations.

L. James Harmanson Jr., general counsel of the farmer cooperative organization, has informed members that the more stringent requirements pertaining to reporting of earnings and payment of taxes are increasing cooperatives' operating costs and consequently are reducing amounts available for distribution to members.

In addition, he said, the new tax regulations are having a deterrent influence on capital investment by farmers in their cooperatives, and are creating obstacles to the retention of old members and the obtaining of new ones.

This reported adverse effect on the cooperatives comes at a time when Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has assistants working on plans to strengthen cooperatives so that they might be more effective in helping members obtain fair returns for their products.

Yonkers Widow Visits Son in Red China Jail

NEW YORK (AP)—A Yonkers, N.Y., widow, home from her third trip to Shanghai, says she was told by Chinese Communists during visits with her imprisoned son that if she broke any of 12 rules, "I would not be able to visit him again."

Mrs. Ruth Redmond, 65, whose son, High, has served 12 years of a life term for alleged espionage, said Sunday one of the most distressing rules was one that forbade her to talk to him about his possible release.

She said that under the circumstances her son, 44, "looks very well." She was allowed to see him four times.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — For several months a guessing game has been going on concerning whether the Kennedy administration's most wanted action from Congress this session is a civil rights bill or a tax bill?

There is now no longer any doubt which comes first. It is civil rights legislation. The $11 billion tax cut measure, already passed by the House, will not come up in the Senate until January at the earliest.

This decision has not been spelled out specifically, but it should have been transparent, even if it wasn't, in any educated analysis of a statement by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.).

This is being tagged the "long underwear" statement. In it Mansfield simply advised senators that the leadership planned to keep the Senate in session until the official opening of the 1964 session on Jan. 3. Except, he said, for a two-week Christmas recess.

On the basis of this timetable, Mansfield felt that he should warn all senators "to wear the right kind of underwear and to prepare for the right kind of winter — a long one."

He didn't mention civil rights or the tax legislation, but the key to which bill now has absolute priority was contained in the reference to a Christmas vacation.

This respite is bait that is going to be hard for any senator to resist. It is going to be used to help crush any Southern filibuster against civil rights. It could be an effective "third force" in the vote, which is certainly coming in mid-December, to invoke cloture against Southern Democrats trying to talk the bill to death.

THE DIXIE SENATORS' YEAR-END VACATION

At the right moment, it can be definitely expected, Mansfield will rise in the Senate and announce that the Christmas vacation is going to have to be canceled unless the rights bill is disposed of by Dec. 20. This could make even diehard senators wonder whether a filibuster is worth the loss of a year-end vacation, particularly in view of the long legislative and election year ahead.

Mansfield is shrewd enough to know this. Also that a vote to invoke cloture, killing a filibuster, requires the support of two-thirds of the Senate. Preliminary nose counts indicate that such a motion would lose by two or three votes but that those votes might be gained if the issue involved a Christmas vacation or none.

This is smart strategy. But it does not explain why the administration has decided it can wait for tax legislation but not for civil rights.

The reason is unlikely to be discussed frankly out in the open, but it has been gone into somberly at the recent White House talks in which President Kennedy personally appealed, and successfully, for approval by the House Judiciary Committee of a civil rights bill most likely to get thru Congress.

WHERE NEITHER PARTY WOULD GAIN ANYTHING

There was the fear, shared by GOP leaders like Charles Halleck (Ind.), that without such legislation this year Negro demonstrations leading to serious violence were almost certain. Moreover, that disturbances over demands for jobs on the basis of race would be hard to contain. To have renewed racial protests on an increased scale in an election year would mire the whole civil rights issue into the 1964 national election, with neither party having anything to gain but much to lose.

There was therefore agreement among leaders of both parties in Congress that there should be cooperative action aimed at enactment of a civil rights bill before next year.

The "moderate" bill now approved by the House Judiciary Committee met the specifications for a draft that could get thru the House and would have the best chance in the Senate.

Contrary to reports, it is going to be okayed by the House Rules Committee without much delay. GOP members of Rules, who normally vote with the strong Southern Democratic contingent headed by Chairman

Sen. Mansfield
Advised on "long underwear"

* * *

CIVIL RIGHTS ACTION GETS GO-AHEAD IN HOUSE

The House, under the present timetable will take up the bill in mid-November. Present forecasts are that it will pass by a vote of around 270 to 165. Civil rights legislation, once it gets to the House floor, invariably passes. In 1957, the Eisenrights legislation won easy House support. It was in the Senate, then as now Democratic, that it was watered down.

As now planned, the Senate will take up the civil rights issue, since the House has acted, on Dec. 3 after a Thanksgiving weekend recess.

The parliamentary maneuver in the Senate will be to offer the House bill as a substitute for a limited rights bill which is to be approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. This Senate bill covers only the public accommodations phase of the legislation but provides a vehicle for tacking on the complete civil rights package.

This strategy is necessary, as the Senate Judiciary Committee, packed with Southern Democrats and headed by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) is not going to act on the broad legislation, and so the Senate must take the House version or none.

As the Senate prides itself on being a free debating society, neither Mansfield nor Senate Democratic whip Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) intends to force a final vote on civil rights until the Senate has considered the bill for two weeks. The target date for a crackdown on a Southern filibuster is Dec. 17. If cloture succeeds the Senate could pass the bill before December 20 and then take the Mansfield-promised two weeks off.

President Kennedy is unlikely to admit that he has given up hope of action this year on his tax bill. He wants the bill passed because he thinks it essential to jog the economy.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK SIGNS SEAN CONNERY FOR FILM

HOLLYWOOD.—Alfred Hitchcock, with an eye for the great ones, signed Sean Connery for "Marnie" with Tippi Hedren. Hitchcock refused to sit idly by while Cubby Broccoli and Harry Saltzman stole his thunder with their tongue-in-cheekery productions of Ian Fleming's suspense stories in which Sean plays the hero, James Bond. "From Russia, with Love" is outgrossing everything, including "Lawrence," all over England. Fleming has readers by the millions and women flip over the rugged Scotsman Connery. Hitchcock starts shooting this month.

Cubby Broccoli, here setting the deal for his star, is planning the next Fleming movie, "Gold Finger" which deals with a raid on Fort Knox. He contacted Pierre Salinger at the White House for permission to look over our vault in Kentucky. Salinger referred him to the proper authorities, then said, "If you have a print of 'From Russia, with Love,' send it over. Somebody wants to see it." Somebody being J. F. K., one of Fleming's fans. The author has been a guest at the White House served times since Jack and Jackie recognized him in a restaurant and introduced themselves. Broccoli and Saltzman own movie rights to all his books except "Casino Royale" which the late Gregory Ratoff bought. Fleming's latest "They Only Live Twice," set in Japan, is now in galleys.

Tuesday Weld is the Christmas package Bob Hope will deliver to GIs round the world this year. They'll hit Viet Nam (why I wouldn't know), Greece, and Turkey. Meanwhile, Tuesday's off to New York to do a pilot for Garson Kanin about the anxieties of a young girl in New York. She'll stay in Manhattan long enough to catch up with a few old friends whose names she won't reveal. George Maharis, Gary Lockwood, and Elvis Presley are all in the past — way past. When I asked how she let Elvis get away, Tuesday said, "I got away first."

Hugh O'Brian to Illinois to emcee a GOP rally for Charles Percy who's running for governor. Hugh went to high school with his sister, knew the boy wonder long before he became head of Bell and Howell at age 29.

It still happens. Linda Foster, a 19-year-old blonde, moved with her family from Coventry, England, to San Fernando valley; was shopping for onions in a supermarket when she was handed a card from Arthur Kennard of the Lester Salkow agency: "If you are interested in acting, contact our office." Before you could say Cinderella, Linda was in "His and His."

Keenan Wynn back to Metro after 10 years for couple of comedy roles — "His and His" plus "The Americanization of Emily."

Adolphe Menjou was always out in the open championing our country. An outspoken anti-Communist, he took the brunt of a smear campaign waged by the pinks, was kept off the screen for years, but never backed down. He battled the man behind the iron curtain till the day he died.

Hoagy Carmichael is plain tired of divinding his time between his apartment here and a home at Thunderbird golf course in Palm Springs. Says retirement gets dull. He gets back in action on Burke's Law which gives Gene Barry an excuse to sing "In the Cool of the Evening." Carmichael goes to New York to work on his Johnny Appleseed Suite for the Telephone Hour to be aired in March. He's writing 20 minutes of music and also narrates.

Henry Hathway gets the job of producing and directing "Nevada Smith" next summer. Paramount lifted a chapter from "The Carpetbaggers" and will make a western from it.

By CHARLES H. GOREN

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold: Spades, K-5; Hearts, 7-5-3; Diamonds, Q-J-5-4; Clubs, K-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Dia.	Dbl.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—There is a fair prospect for going places with this hand, and a response isrecommended which is apt to keep partner interested, namely one notrump. Had th clubs been spades or hearts the suit would be shown first with the intention of trying notrump later.

Q. 2—You are South, have 60 part score, and hold: Spades, A-J-9-5; Hearts, 7; Diamonds, A-Q-16-8-3; Clubs, A-19-9.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Dia.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	4 Hrts.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has made an urgent plea for slam. Though a bid of three hearts would have been over score and thus a slam try, partner has made it more emphatic by bidding four, conveying the suggestion that his heart suit is self-sustaining. You should cooperate by bidding five clubs, denoting possession of the ace, and permit partner to fix the final contract.

Q. 3—As South you hold: Spades, 10-8-6; Hearts, K-J-7-6; Diamonds, 5-3; Clubs, K-J-6-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 Dia.	1 Hrt.	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You haven't enough for a penalty double, and your hand is not good enough for a free bid of one notrump, which denotes a good hand. If partner cannot act again, you will not have missed anything.

Q. 4—Partner has opened with one club and you hold: Spades, 10-8-5-2; Hearts, 8-6-5-3; Diamonds, Q-7-5; Clubs, A-4.

What is your response?

A.—One diamond. We try to avoid responses in major suits with such unbiddable holdings, particularly when an alternate response is available. The diamond bid affords partner the opportunity to bid one heart or one spade.

Q. 5—As South you hold: Hearts, K-J-9-7-4; Diamonds, Q-J-8-6-3; Clubs, K-Q-9.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Clb.	Pass	1 Hrt.	1 Spd.
2 Hrts.	2 Spds.	3 Spds.	Pass
4 Hrts.	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Five clubs. You have not yet done full justice to the holding in view of the fact that your partner opened the bidding and made a free rebid at the level of two. Whn you now show club support, after having previously announced first round control in spades, partner may be in position to bid a slam.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

South	West	North	East

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. This hand is not quite strong enough for rebid of two notrump. Such a call should be based on a high card holding of at least 15 points.

Q. 7—As South you hold: Spades, 6; Hearts, K-Q-10-9-4; Diamonds, A-Q-6-3; Clubs, A-K-6.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Hrt.	1 Spd.	2 Clbs.	2 Spds.

What do you bid now?

A. — Three diamonds. True enough, bigger things are in sight and on the surface this might appear to be an underbid, but there should be no hurry. Since you are making a free rebid in the face of partner's free response, ther is not th rmotest danger that the bidding will drop. More specific information may be forthcoming at a lower level as a result of your mild sounding rebid.

Q. 8—As South you hold: Spades, 10-9; Hearts, K-Q-8-4-2; Diamonds, Q-8-4; Clubs, A-J-5.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Hrts.	Pass
2 Spds.	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 Clbs.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — To persist further with no-trump on such a doubtful diamond stopper would not be discreet. There is a great likelihood that partner has a hand containing six spades and only four clubs. The suggested call, therefore, is a return to three spades.

Patients Find There Is No Hospital Rest

Virtually everyone at the psychiatric hospital works.

He said patients learn social skills and regain pride and a feeling of accomplishment because they know they are doing something useful.

The work therapy—when combined with other forms of psyciatric treatment—has proved so successful that the average patient is allowed to leave within six weeks to go back to work.

New Tax Treatment Reported by Co-Ops

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives says new federal income tax treatment of earnings of farmer cooperatives is having an adverse effect on their operations.

L. James Harmanson Jr., general counsel of the farmer cooperative organization, has informed members that the more stringent requirements pertaining to reporting of earnings and payment of taxes are increasing cooperatives' operating costs and consequently are reducing amounts available for distribution to members.

In addition, he said, the new tax regulations are having a deterrent influence on capital investment by farmers in their cooperatives, and are creating obstacles to the retention of old members and the obtaining of new ones.

This reported adverse effect on the cooperatives comes at a time when Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has assistants working on plans to strengthen cooperatives so that they might be more effective in helping members obtain fair returns for their products.

Yonkers Widow Visits Son in Red China Jail

NEW YORK (AP)—A Yonkers, N.Y., widow, home from her third trip to Shanghai, says she was told by Chinese Communists during visits with her imprisoned son that if she broke any of 12 rules, "I would not be able to visit him again."

Mrs. Ruth Redmond, 65, whose son, High, has served 12 years of a life term for alleged espionage, said Sunday one of the most distressing rules was one that forbade her to talk to him about his possible release.

She said that under the circumstances her son, 44, "looks very well." She was allowed to see him four times.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — For several months a guessing game has been going on concerning whether the Kennedy administration's most wanted action from Congress this session is a civil rights bill or a tax bill?

There is now no longer any doubt which comes first. It is civil rights legislation. The $11 billion tax cut measure, already passed by the House, will not come up in the Senate until January at the earliest.

This decision has not been spelled out specifically, but it should have been transparent, even if it wasn't, in any educated analysis of a statement by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.).

This is being tagged the "long underwear" statement. In it Mansfield simply advised senators that the leadership planned to keep the Senate in session until the official opening of the 1964 session on Jan. 3. Except, he said, for a two-week Christmas recess.

On the basis of this timetable, Mansfield felt that he should warn all senators "to wear the right kind of underwear and to prepare for the right kind of winter — a long one."

He didn't mention civil rights or the tax legislation, but the key to which bill now has absolute priority was contained in the reference to a Christmas vacation.

This respite is bait that is going to be hard for any senator to resist. It is going to be used to help crush any Southern filibuster against civil rights. It could be an effective "third force" in the vote, which is certainly coming in mid-December, to invoke cloture against Southern Democrats trying to talk the bill to death.

THE DIXIE SENATORS' YEAR-END VACATION

At the right moment, it can be definitely expected, Mansfield will rise in the Senate and announce that the Christmas vacation is going to have to be canceled unless the rights bill is disposed of by Dec. 20. This could make even diehard senators wonder whether a filibuster is worth the loss of a year-end vacation, particularly in view of the long legislative and election year ahead.

Mansfield is shrewd enough to know this. Also that a vote to invoke cloture, killing a filibuster, requires the support of two-thirds of the Senate. Preliminary nose counts indicate that such a motion would lose by two or three votes but that those votes might be gained if the issue involved a Christmas vacation or none.

This is smart strategy. But it does not explain why the administration has decided it can wait for tax legislation but not for civil rights.

The reason is unlikely to be discussed frankly out in the open, but it has been gone into somberly at the recent White House talks in which President Kennedy personally appealed, and successfully, for approval by the House Judiciary Committee of a civil rights bill most likely to get thru Congress.

WHERE NEITHER PARTY WOULD GAIN ANYTHING

There was the fear, shared by GOP leaders like Charles Halleck (Ind.), that without such legislation this year Negro demonstrations leading to serious violence were almost certain. Moreover, that disturbances over demands for jobs on the basis of race would be hard to contain. To have renewed racial protests on an increased scale in an election year would mire the whole civil rights issue into the 1964 national election, with neither party having anything to gain but much to lose.

There was therefore agreement among leaders of both parties in Congress that there should be cooperative action aimed at enactment of a civil rights bill before next year.

The "moderate" bill now approved by the House Judiciary Committee met the specifications for a draft that could get thru the House and would have the best chance in the Senate.

Contrary to reports, it is going to be okayed by the House Rules Committee without much delay. GOP members of Rules, who normally vote with the strong Southern Democratic contingent headed by Chairman

Advised on "long underwear"

CIVIL RIGHTS ACTION GETS GO-AHEAD IN HOUSE

The House, under the present timetable will take up the bill in mid-November. Present forecasts are that it will pass by a vote of around 270 to 165. Civil rights legislation, once it gets to the House floor, invariably passes. In 1957, the Eisen- rights legislation won easy House support. It was in the Senate, then as now Democratic, that it was watered down.

As now planned, the Senate will take up the civil rights issue, since the House has acted, on Dec. 3 after a Thanksgiving weekend recess.

The parliamentary maneuver in the Senate will be to offer the House bill as a substitute for a limited rights bill which is to be approved by the Senate Commerce Committee. This Senate bill covers only the public accommodations phase of the legislation but provides a vehicle for tacking on the complete civil rights package.

This strategy is necessary, as the Senate Judiciary Committee, packed with Southern Democrats and headed by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) is not going to act on the broad legislation, and so the Senate must take the House version or none.

As the Senate prides itself on being a free debating society, neither Mansfield nor Senate Democratic whip Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) intends to force a final vote on civil rights until the Senate has considered the bill for two weeks. The target date for a crackdown on a Southern filibuster is Dec. 17. If cloture succeeds the Senate could pass the bill before December 20 and then take the Mansfield-promised two weeks off.

President Kennedy is unlikely to admit that he has given up hope of action this year on his tax bill. He wants the bill passed because he thinks it essential to jog the economy.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK SIGNS SEAN CONNERY FOR FILM

HOLLYWOOD.—Alfred Hitchcock, with an eye for the great ones, signed Sean Connery for "Marnie" with Tippi Hedren. Hitchcock refused to sit idly by while Cubby Broccoli and Harry Saltzman stole his thunder with their tongue-in-cheekery productions of Ian Fleming's suspense stories in which Sean plays the hero, James Bond. "From Russia, with Love" is outgrossing everything, including "Lawrence," all over England. Fleming has readers by the millions and women flip over the rugged Scotsman Connery. Hitchcock starts shooting this month.

Cubby Broccoli, here setting the deal for his star, is planning the next Fleming movie, "Gold Finger" which deals with a raid on Fort Knox. He contacted Pierre Salinger at the White House for permission to look over our vault in Kentucky. Salinger referred him to the proper authorities, then said, "If you have a print of 'From Russia, with Love,' send it over. Somebody wants to see it." Somebody being J. F. K., one of Fleming's fans. The author has been a guest at the White House served times since Jack and Jackie recognized him in a restaurant and introduced themselves. Broccoli and Saltzman own movie rights to all his books except "Casino Royale" which the late Gregory Ratoff bought. Fleming's latest "They Only Live Twice," set in Japan, is now in galleys.

Tuesday Weld is the Christmas package Bob Hope will deliver to GIs round the world this year. They'll hit Viet Nam (why I wouldn't know), Greece, and Turkey. Meanwhile, Tuesday's off to New York to do a pilot for Garson Kanin about the anxieties of a young girl in New York. She'll stay in Manhattan long enough to catch up with a few old friends whose names she won't reveal. George Maharis, Gary Lockwood, and Elvis Presley are all in the past — way past. When I asked how she let Elvis get away, Tuesday said, "I got away first."

Hugh O'Brian to Illinois to emcee a GOP rally for Charles Percy who's running for governor. Hugh went to high school with his sister, knew the boy wonder long before he became head of Bell and Howell at age 29.

It still happens. Linda Foster, a 19-year-old blonde, moved with her family from Coventry, England, to San Fernando valley; was shopping for onions in a supermarket when she was handed a card from Arthur Kennard of the Lester Salkow agency: "If you are interested in acting, contact our office." Before you could say Cinderella, Linda was in "His and His."

Keenan Wynn back to Metro after 10 years for couple of comedy roles — "His and His" plus "The Americanization of Emily."

Adolphe Menjou was always out in the open championing our country. An outspoken anti-Communist, he took the brunt of a smear campaign waged by the pinks, was kept off the screen for years, but never backed down. He battled the man behind the iron curtain till the day he died.

I'd like to applaud Audrey Hepburn and Warner Brothers for giving the dragon lady the brush. She went out of town on her broom.

Hoagy Carmichael is plain tired of divinding his time between his apartment here and a home at Thunderbird golf course in Palm Springs. Says retirement gets dull. He gets back in action on Burke's Law which gives Gene Barry an excuse to sing "In the Cool of the Evening." Carmichael goes to New York to work on his Johnny Appleseed Suite for the Telephone Hour to be aired in March. He's writing 20 minutes of music and also narrates.

Henry Hathway gets the job of producing and directing "Nevada Smith" next summer. Paramount lifted a chapter from "The Carpetbaggers" and will make a western from it.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold: Spades, K-5; Hearts, 7-5-3; Diamonds, Q-J-5-4; Clubs, K-7-5-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 Dia.	Dbl.	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—There is a fair prospect for going places with this hand, and a response isrecommended which is apt to keep partner interested, namely one notrump. Had th clubs been spades or hearts the suit would be shown first with the intention of trying notrump later.

Q. 2—You are South, have 60 part score, and hold: Spades, A-J-9-5; Hearts, 7; Diamonds, A-Q-16-8-3; Clubs, A-19-9.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Dia.	Pass	1 Hrt.	Pass
1 Spd.	Pass	4 Hrts.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has made an urgent plea for slam. Though a bid of three hearts would have been over score and thus a slam try, partner has made it more emphatic by bidding four, conveying the suggestion that his heart suit is self-sustaining. You should cooperate by bidding five clubs, denoting possession of the ace, and permit partner to fix the final contract.

Q. 3—As South you hold: Spades, 10-8-6; Hearts, K-J-7-6; Diamonds, 5-3; Clubs, K-J-6-3.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South

Q. 4—Partner has opened with one club and you hold: Spades, 10-8-5-2; Hearts, 8-6-5-3; Diamonds, Q-7-5; Clubs, A-4.

What is your response?

A.—One diamond. We try to avoid responses in major suits with such unbiddable holdings, particularly when an alternate response is available. The diamond bid affords partner the opportunity to bid one heart or one spade.

Q. 5—As South you hold: Hearts, K-J-9-7-4; Diamonds, Q-J-8-6-3; Clubs, K-Q-9.

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 Hrt.	1 Spd.	2 Clbs.	2 Spds.

What do you bid now?

A. — Three diamonds. True enough, bigger things are in sight and on the surface this might appear to be an underbid, but there should be no hurry. Since you are making a free rebid in the face of partner's free response, ther is not th rmotest danger that the bidding will drop. Q. 8—As South you hold: Spades, 10-9; Hearts, K-Q-8-4-2; Diamonds, Q-8-4; Clubs, A-J-5.

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 Spd.	Pass	2 Hrts.	Pass
2 Spds.	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 Clbs.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A. — To persist further with no-trump on such a doubtful diamond stopper would not be discreet. There is a great likelihood that partner has a hand containing six spades and only four clubs. The suggested call, therefore, is a return to three spades.

Dixie Supporters Of Goldwater Put on Hot Spot

By STEVEN GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's statement that the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) should be sold to private industry is putting some of his admirers in the South on a political spot.

By his remark, the Arizona Republican also has opened the gates to a flood of political oratory from Southern Democrats who could not ask for better ammunition to use against the GOP presidential contender.

The sprawling government-owned hydroelectric and flood control project is dear to the hearts of politicians in Tennessee and the six other states served by the TVA.

This has been made very clear by two Republican congressmen from Tennessee whose overall political philosophy is closer to Goldwater than to any middle-of-the-roader.

Reps. William Brock and James Quillen were quick to disassociate themselves from Goldwater's views on the TVA, however much they might agree with him on other subjects.

Brock said he would oppose any move to sell TVA to private industry, although he made certain that his listeners knew he was promoting free enterprise. Besides, Brock asked, who has enough money to buy TVA?

Quillen adopted the same line. He said he was opposed to the sale of TVA " . . . as much as I believe in the free enterprise system."

Another Republican congressman—not from the TVA area but from the South—said he could not understand "why Barry went out of his way to look for trouble." This legislator asked not to be identified by name.

Airliner Saved By Cool Action Of Plane Pilot

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)— The Continental Viscount airliner turned into its final approach to the runway at Midland Air Terminal Sunday and Capt. George Seifert, 39, of Denver, told his copilot to lower the landing gear.

But the gear did not come down. Lights and indicators showed the landing mechanism was still in an "up" position.

Seifert pulled the four-engine turbo-prop plane up and flew over the control tower foro a visual check. Tower operators confirmed the landing gear was not down.

Then, Seifert said, "we announced what had happened to the passengers. But there was no panic." One of the passengers, Kathy Vannoy, 18, of Pen sacolda, Fla., even took a nap while the plane circled and the crew lowered the gear with a hand crank.

Seifert, a veteran of 15 years with the airline, flew once more over the tower and operators reported the gear was down.

The plane, with 44 passengers and four crew members aboard, landed without incident, altho emergency fire trucks and ambulances were standing by.

Seifert said he never had been involved in a plane crash and this was his first emergency situation in a Viscount. "When it happens for real you go through the same procedure as with a regular check," he said.

Vigil is charged with being the driver of a car that plunged into Coal Creek Oct. 18.

Killed were Waldo F. Kelso and Leroy Martinez, both of Louisville.

It was estimated they had been in the stream about eight hours before their bodies were discovered.

Dixie Supporters Of Goldwater Put on Hot Spot

By STEVEN GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's statement that the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) should be sold to private industry is putting some of his admirers in the South on a political spot.

By his remark, the Arizona Republican also has opened the gates to a flood of political oratory from Southern Democrats who could not ask for better ammunition to use against the GOP presidential contender.

The sprawling government-owned hydroelectric and flood control project is dear to the hearts of politicians in Tennessee and the six other states served by the TVA.

This has been made very clear by two Republican congressmen from Tennessee whose overall political philosophy is closer to Goldwater than to any middle-of-the-roader.

Reps. William Brock and James Quillen were quick to disassociate themselves from Goldwater's views on the TVA, however much they might agree with him on other subjects.

Brock said he would oppose any move to sell TVA to private industry, although he made certain that his listeners knew he was promoting free enterprise. Besides, Brock asked, who has enough money to buy TVA?

Quillen adopted the same line. He said he was opposed to the sale of TVA " . . . as much as I believe in the free enterprise system."

Another Republican congressman—not from the TVA area but from the South—said he could not understand "why Barry went out of his way to look for trouble." This legislator asked not to be identified by name.

Airliner Saved By Cool Action Of Plane Pilot

MIDLAND, Tex. (UPI)— The Continental Viscount airliner turned into its final approach to the runway at Midland Air Terminal Sunday and Capt. George Seifert, 39, of Denver, told his copilot to lower the landing gear.

But the gear did not come down. Lights and indicators showed the landing mechanism was still in an "up" position.

Seifert pulled the four-engine turbo-prop plane up and flew over the control tower foro a visual check. Tower operators confirmed the landing gear was not down.

Then, Seifert said, "we announced what had happened to the passengers. But there was no panic." One of the passengers, Kathy Vannoy, 18, of Pensacolda, Fla., even took a nap while the plane circled and the crew lowered the gear with a hand crank.

Seifert, a veteran of 15 years with the airline, flew once more over the tower and operators reported the gear was down.

The plane, with 44 passengers and four crew members aboard, landed without incident, altho emergency fire trucks and ambulances were standing by.

Seifert said he never had been involved in a plane crash and this was his first emergency situation in a Viscount. "When it happens for real you go through the same procedure as with a regular check," he said.

Manslaughter Charged In Traffic Deaths

BOULDER (AP)—Louis Vigil, 28, of Lafayette was held in the Boulder County Jail today on two charges of manslaughter and driving with a suspended drivers' license as a result of the death of two men in an automobile accident.

Vigil is charged with being the driver of a car that plunged into Coal Creek Oct. 18.

Killed were Waldo F. Kelso and Leroy Martinez, both of Louisville.

It was estimated they had been in the stream about eight hours before their bodies were discovered.

Deaths of Two Boost Colorado Fatality Count

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The deaths of two persons Sunday as the result of separate accidents raised Colorado's 1963 traffic fatality count to 420, up 22 from the same period a year ago.

Mrs. Bernice Estrada, 42, of Denver died at Denver General Hospital from head and internal injuries suffered Oct. 23 in a two-car collision at West Seventh Ave. and Lipan St. in Denver. She was thrown out of a car driven by Erminio Silva, 34, Denver. His car collided with one driven by Manuel D. Sena, 21, Denver.

Kenneth Eugene Nagel, 28, of Ault, died Sunday in a car-truck accident on old Colorado Highway 5 about 4½ miles west of Eaton in Weld County.

The State Patrol said his car and a truck driven by Paul R. Cagle, 18, of Windsor, collided headon. Cagle was bruised. Jack Shuppe, 24, of Eaton, a passenger in Nagel's car, was taken to Weld County Hospital in Greeley for treatment of a fractured arm, a broken jaw and bruises.

EXPLOSIVE

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A high school student here was discouraged about a chemical mixture he was preparing in his basement laboratory. He called his teacher to list the ingredients and ask for advice.

"Don't touch anything," the teacher sputtered. Next the teacher notified Army authorities asking them to send a bomb demolition squad to the boy's home. The student had unwittingly concocted a quart of nitroglycerin.

What have we done to deserve this?

Nothing new.

We were making Antique Bourbon, as usual, for a few devoted admirers.

And, all of a sudden, we're popular.

We're delighted, of course. And surprised.

We thought the trend was to blander and blander whiskeys. And since Antique Bourbon is full of character, we didn't expect such a rush of customers.

We put far more corn in our sour mash than is required of bourbons nowadays.

We still ride out to the corncribs to choose the best ears.

Naturally, older folks enjoy our kind of whiskey. Especially those who remember how good bourbon was before 1920.

But we'd never imagined that so many younger people would feel the same way.

Most Republican County Chairmen Favor Goldwater

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) More than four-fifths of 1,403 Republican county chairmen and other leaders who participated in a nationwide Associated Press poll on presidential preferences for 1964 say Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is the party's "strongest candidate" against President Kennedy, as of today.

And almost two- thirds of those answering a questionnaire say they believe Goldwater will win the nomination.

Reihard M. Nixon, the 1960 nominee, ran silghtly ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York as the potential GOP nominee. Moreover, a number of respondents expressed the belief that the party will turn to Nixon if the nominating convention falls into a deadlock.

On the question of the "strongest candidate," Rockefeller topped Nixon by a few votes.

Goldwater received 85.1 per cent of the votes in the poll as the "strongest candidate." As of now, however, only 64.2 per cent said they thought he could get the nomination.

Some predicted "Eastern big money interests" would try to block Goldwater's nomination. Others say that, although they personally approve of Goldwater's conservative views, the party would nominate someone else.

The AP poll began in early October in all states. Correspondents contacted 2,961 GOP county, state and city leaders and received 1,403 replies, slightly more than 47 per cent. They asked two questions and received these responses:

1. "Who is the strongest potential GOP candidate against President Kennedy on the basis of present conditions? Why?"

The result: Goldwater 1,194, Rockefeller 56 and Nixon 14.

Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania received some scattered votes. Among dark horses mentioned were Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of ex-President Eisenhower, and Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam. Lodge was the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1960. Others replied "undecided."

2. "Whom do you think the party will nominate in 1964? Why?"

The result: Goldwater 901, Nixon 72 and Rockefeller 64.

Again, Morton, Scranton and Romney received some votes, but a larger number said "too early to say," or predicted Nixon would be the nominee if Goldwater failed to win on the first or second ballot.

But in 47 of the other 48 states, Goldwater was an overwhelming winner. The exception was New York where Rockefeller received 13 votes to the senator's 4 on the question of the "strongest candidate" and 10 to 2 as the probable nominee. On both questions, one New York leader voted for Nixon.

Only 20 of 62 who were questioned in New York responded to the poll.

Similarly, in California only 19 of the 58 answered the question. Of these, 16 went to Goldwater. But Nixon is known to have supporters in his home state, although he recently moved to New York City.

Goldwater's greatest strength, as reflected by the poll, appears to be in the Midwest and the South.

In stating their reasons for preferring Goldwater, an overwhelming number of Republican chiefs said his nomination would give the viters a "clear choice" between conservative and liberal philosophies.

Vice versa, a number said Rockefeller's policies are "too much like Kennedy's."

Among the other reasons expressed for supporting Goldwater were approval of his position on finance, foreign policy and states' rights. In several states, Republican leaders said his nomination would "start a crusade" and would give conservative Democrats a rallying figure.

Some Republican leaders said they believe the drive on Goldwater's behalf is starting too early and will lose momentum before next July. Others said, however, that "the boom is just getting started."

New Hampshire holds the first presidential primary March 10. The next primary is in Wisconsin, April 7.

Rockefeller's divorce and remarriage were frequently cited as reasons why he cannot be considered the strongest candidate.

A number pictured Nixon as a man waiting in the wings.

Ex-Premier's Comeback Nixed In Greek Vote

By ALLAN JACKS

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Former Premier George Papandreou's Center Union party won an upset victory today in the Greek parliamentary elections, ending eight years of rule by Constantine Caramanlis' rightist National Radical Union.

It was not immediately clear, however, whether Papandreou's party had won a majority of seats in the 300-member Parliament or whether it would be forced to form a coalition government.

No change was expected in Greece's pro - Western alignment. Foreign policy played little part in the campaign in this NATO nation on the alliance's strategic eastern flank.

Papandreou, 75, leader of Greece's government - in-exile in World War II, and its first postwar premier, charged Caramanlis had governed this birthplace of democracy as a police state.

More than a million persons in a population of 8.4 million turned out for a record vote.

Returns from 9,841 of the 10,162 voting districts gave this vote: Center Union, 1,844,475 (42.2 per cent); National Radical Union, 1,710,307 (39.15 per cent); United Democratic Left (the Communist front), 627,437 (14.36 per cent); progressives, 161,587 (3.69 per cent).

Because of the complex electoral law, the composition of the one-chamber house could not be figured immediately.

Two years ago, Caramanlis' party won 180 parliamentary seats on a popular vote of 51 per cent. The Center Union won only 33 per cent and 95 seats, while the Communist front got 15 per cent and 20 seats.

Caramanlis, 56, resigned as premier in June after King Paul and Queen Frederika rejected his advice that they call off a trip to Britain because of demonstrations in London earlier against the queen.
